House Hawks Ax Asian Troops Curb Proposal

Senate Proposal Loses

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The House today rejected out of hand language agreed to by the Senate after seven weeks of debate to curb presidential authority on future U.S. military actions in Cambodia.

After less than 10 minutes of debate, the House shelved a motion to approve the restrictive Cooper-Church Senate amendment, by a 237 to 153 vote.

The House then sent the Foreign Military Sales Act, with the Cooper-Church amendment which had been added in the Senate, to a joint conference committee which will try to draft a compromise.

During the brief debate, House doves charged that the Nixon administration had threatened to withhold approval of projects in districts of members who voted to curb the President's warmaking powers.

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., and Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., told the House of what Waldie called "thinly veiled threats" telephoned to members today by representatives of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Waldie said he was specifically reminded by the young woman who telephoned him that he had a grant request pending, and was urged to vote with the President against the Cooper-Church amendment.

Fraser told the House he knew of two other members who had received similar calls.

The House vote was on the Senate amendment sponsored by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho.

It would require specific congressional approval in advance for sending U.S. troops in force to Cambodia, paying expenses of mercenary troops from other countries in Cambodia, sending U.S. advisers or instructors to Cambodia, or providing direct air support for Cambodian government troops.

From the start, Nixon and his supporters have relied on the more hawkish House to save them from Senate-imposed restrictions.

EMBROILED IN CONTROLS

Problems Beset Successor To Wilson In Health Job

Difficulties somewhat comparable to those experienced by Dr. Donald P. Wilson as director of the Marin Community Mental Health Center plagued the man chosen to succeed Wilson when director of a similar center in New York City.

The problems that beset Dr. Harris B. Peck at Lincoln Community Mental Health Center in the Bronx are not yet ended. An attempt today to reach his successor there, a Dr. Ruiz, was unsuccessful because workers at the center staged a morning-long work stoppage and Dr. Ruiz was gone when they returned.

Dr. Harris B. Peck, chosen last month by Marin County supervisors and Marin Hospital District directors to head the county's mental health center at $30,000 per year, was director of the center in the Bronx from its inception in 1963 until the spring of last year.

The center — like public schools in the same area — became embroiled in "local control" demands by the predominantly black and Puerto Rican population. Dr. Peck bowed out after he and his administrators were locked out by the staff in March, 1969, in an administrative-staff dispute which apparently was still going on today.

County Administrator Alan Bruce said today that Dr. Peck's New York troubles had been known to the screening committee which recommended that Dr. Peck be hired without interviewing any of a score of other applicants.

"They didn't disturb me or other members of the committee as best I recall," he said.

Bruce said that "among his strong supporters are top people in the National Institute for Mental Health."

The Lincoln Center was funded through the national institute, a federal agency, and operated by the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, which is a division of Yeshiva University in New York. Dr. Peck was a member of the staff of the Einstein college and assigned to direct the center.

The National Institute for Mental Health in a 1968 report was sharply critical of operation of the center. A team of investigators from the institute said deficiencies were "of such magnitude as to ordinarily warrant suspension of the grant until the center can achieve compliance." It recommended against withdrawing the federal funds, however.

No mention was made of Dr. Peck's experience at the Lincoln Center when his choice for the Marin County position was announced.

Chairman John F. McInnis of the county board of supervisors said today that the Lincoln Center difficulties were not described to the supervisors and hospital board "in any detail."

"At this point it would not reflect on his desirability here," however, said McInnis, pointing out that most community mental health centers have been embroiled in difficulties in the few years since the first ones were established under the Short-Doyle Act. "The interviewing committee went into this to their satisfaction," he said.

McInnis suggested that details of Dr. Peck's career had been withheld when the choice was announced because he had not yet accepted the Marin job.

He still had not accepted it today, and McInnis said it was uncertain whether he would do so. He now is on the staff of the University of California at Los Angeles school of medicine.

Another U.S. General Dead In War Zone?

SAIGON (UPI)—Maj. Gen. George W. Casey, the missing commander of the U. S. Army 1st Air Cavalry Division, is presumed to have been killed along with six others in a helicopter crash last Tuesday, military sources said Thursday night.

He was the sixth America general lost in the Vietnam War.

The sources said the wreckage of Casey's helicopter, in which he was flying to visit wounded troops, was discovered late Thursday without apparent survivors in the vicinity. Location of the crash was not disclosed for security reasons. Casey, a qualified pilot, was believed at the controls.

Casey, 48, of North Scituate, Mass., took command of the division last May when it was spearheading American units involved in the Cambodian operation. A 1945 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, he was one of the Army's youngest generals.

The Command identified the six others with Casey aboard the helicopter as:

Capt. John A. Hottell III of St. Bethlehem, Tenn., the general's aide; Spec. 4 Vernon K. Smolik of Garfield Heights, Ohio, the general's stenographer; Sgt. Maj. Kenneth W. Cooper of Colorado Springs, Colo., the sergeant major of the division; Lt. William F. Michel of Monroe, Wash., the helicopter pilot; Spec. 4 William L. Christenson of St. Paul, Minn., door gunner, and Spec. 4 Ronald F. Fuller of Providence, R. I., crew chief.

Casey's wife, Elaine, and their five children live in North Scituate.

Meanwhile, allied military sources today reported the lowest American casualties in Vietnam in 3½ years, signs of a Communist retreat in Cambo-

Israeli Planes Rake Suez; Foes Voice Differing Fears

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Waves of Israeli planes attacked missile bases and other targets along the Suez Canal for the 50th consecutive day today. Cairo newspapers reported the United States would replace Israeli planes lost to missiles and Tel Aviv newspapers expressed fear of a U.S. sellout.

An Egyptian military spokesman said 50 Israeli aircraft struck along the Suez Canal and that "each wave of enemy aircraft was engaged by our air defense systems." There were no other details and no claims of planes hit or shot down.

In Cairo, the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram said the United States has decided to send Israel six Phantom warplanes to replace ones shot down over the Suez Canal area by SAM2 missiles in the past two weeks.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli newspapers said Israeli authorities are concerned lest Washington fail to react firmly against reported Soviet military intervention in the Israeli-Arab conflict and instead seek a deal with the Russians at Israel's expense.

"Washington's future steps still constitute an enigma," the newspaper Maariv said. "It is estimated the United States is awaiting the completion of the Moscow talks with Nasser in the hope President Nixon's firm oarl warnings will deter the Soviets."

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt conferred in Moscow today with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

"...A growing fear is felt in Jerusalem lest the U.S. is likely to agree to an additional softening of her peace formula," Maariv said. "In practice this hints at additional American concessions to Israel's detriment."

Military spokesmen in Tel Aviv said Israeli gunners fired into Jordan during the night in response to the shelling of two Israeli border villages. No Israel casualties were reported.

Palestinian sources in Jordan said King Hussein and Arab guerrilla leaders have agreed on a settlement to tensions that led to three days of fighting and an estimated 1,000 deaths in Amman during June.

Mideast Peril Is Eyed; Russ Air Peace Plan

LONDON (UPI)—The Soviet Union believes no current international issue, including the Middle East, is worth going to war with the West, a study published by the Royal Institute of International Affairs said today.

The study said the use of Soviet forces in troublespots such as the Middle East is part of a policy to enable Moscow to pursue an active global foreign policy while limiting the West's freedom of action in critical areas.

"Basically, the Soviet Union, however, has always left herself a tactical loophole through which to escape from the commitments whose risks become too high," the study said. "So far no issue has appeared which is worth a war with the West."

Malcolm Mackintosh, consultant on Soviet affairs at the prestigious Institute for Strategic Studies, drafted the study, which appeared in "The World Today", published by the Royal Institute of International Affairs.

Israel has asserted there are 8,000 Soviet soldiers in Egypt, including 3,000 weapons operators and missile and aircraft crews, and that Soviets are manning Egyptian missile sites. Egypt denies the Soviets are involved in actual fighting.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union spelled out formally today the details of its Middle East peace plan for a "settlement by stages."

The plan was published in the Soviet Embassy's publication "Soviet Weekly," dated July 11, and circulated today. "That's the Soviet plan, clear to the point," it said.

Under the headline "Where The USSR Really Stands," the publication said the plan reflects basically Russia's "initial stand," but conceded subsequent negotiations and consultation have produced "new ideas."

The plan, it said, makes these provisions:

—It provides for a settlement in stages:

—First, Israel and the Arab nations must confirm their willingness in good faith to carry out the 1967 United Nations security resolution in all its aspects.

—All parties must accept that territorial gains by war cannot be permitted.

—After that document has been drafted, withdrawal of Israeli troops would be carried out, and the state of war between Israel and the Arabs ended.

—The deposition of this document with the United Nations and the completion of the withdrawal of Israel's

Laird Says Russ Still Multiplying Missiles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said today that the Russians have gone ahead with new intercontinental missile deployment, including the huge SS9, since the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks began in Vienna in April.

But Laird told a Pentagon news conference that he still is confident the United States and Russia can reach an agreement that will spare both countries from a further acceleration of the arms race.

The secretary also said:

—The United States will reduce its force of 64,000 troops in South Korea early next year, and there is no standing agreement to prevent such a reduction. He did not confirm reports that the cut might be 40 per cent, but said the United States still will have a "substantial military presence in South Korea after the reductions are made next spring."

(He had no comment on South Korean reports that it might pull back a proportional number of the 50,000 ROK troops serving in South Vietnam.)

—The United States will "beat" President Nixon's goal calling for withdrawal of another 50,000 U.S. troops from Vietnam by Oct. 15, and another 150,000 by next spring. He would not say how much greater the reductions would be.

Meanwhile, the Nixon administration plans to limit the strength of South Vietnam's air force to prevent it from launching "aggressive" raids into foreign territory, another cabinet member said.

kWhen U.S. forces in Vietnam are reduced to a minimum level, according to Air Force Secretary Robert C. Seamans Jr., the South Vietnam air force still would only be strong enough to operate within its own borders.

Seamans told the Senate Armed Services committee the present plan "would not give them (South Vietnam) a capability of interdicting the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

Environment Agency Plan To Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon today proposed creation of two new federal agencies to control pollution and coordinate research and exploration in the oceans.

The President said the proposals represented "a profund commitment to the rescue of our natural environment and the preservation of the earth as a place both habitable by and hospitable to man."

The President's plan, transmitted to Congress today, would create an independent agency, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), to set and enforce antipollution standards and an agency in the Commerce Departmet, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) coordinate research on the actions of the oceans and atmosphere now spread over several departments.

The President's proposed reorganization will go into effect within 60 days unless Congress disapproves.

The President said he was departing from his normal aversion to adding to the proliferation of new federal agencies in order to tighten control on pollution and to better focus research into the interacting aspects of the oceans and atmosphere.

The EPA will bring together in a single organization the major federal pollution control programs now spread over the departments of Health, Education and Welfare, Interior, Agriculture and such independent agencies as the Atomic Energy Commission.

The mission of the EPA, with an initial budget of $1.4 billion and 5,650 employees, "will be to organize the fight against environmental pollution on an

Cosmonaut Credits U.S. Space Influence

MOSCOW (UPI)—Maj. Gen. Andrian Nikolayev, commander of the Soyuz 9 spaceflight, said today he and his copilot profited from the experience of American astronauts as well as Soviet cosmonauts in preparing for their record space endurance voyage.

Nikolayev gave brief credit to the influence of the U.S. space program in a speech delivered during the first open news conference given by him and copilot Vitaly Sevastianov since they set the world record for length of a single space mission.

"I don't intend to dwell long upon our training," the burly air force officer said. "But I wish to say that in our training we took into consideration the considerable experience of the Soviet cosmonauts as well as the American astronauts."

Nikolayev said he and Sevastianov felt fine and had completely recupterated from the effects of nearly 18 days of weightlessness in space.

He said total recovery from a feeling of leaden heaviness, caused by the sudden pull of gravity upon them, had occurred about six days after they landed June 19.

The Cosmonauts sat at a long table with military men and space experts, before the backdrop of a huge modernistic mural and white marble bust of Lenin on a tall column.

The slim, wavy haired Sevastianov, a civilian, tugged nervously at the knot of his tie as an introductory speaker hailed their achievements and the audience applauded warmly.

Nikolayev, his broad shoulders newly decorated with major general's insignia, stared somberly ahead without returning the glances of his wife, cosmonette Valentina Tershkova. She sat two places down at his right hand.

Nikolayev said he and Sevastianov had felt well during their entire mission and joked about their ability to sleep deeply at

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Arab Ammo Halted

DAMASCUS (UPI) — About 2,000 rounds of ammunition en route to Jordan from West Germany were confiscated by Syrian customs officers at the port of Latakia Wednesday, the official Syrian Arab news agency reported. It gave no reason for the seizure.

Antipollution Cost

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A national survey by two civic organizations has estimated it would take between $33 billion to $37 billion to combat water pollution over the next six years.

The survey—a joint venture of the National League of Cities and the U.S. Conference of Mayors—was made at the request of Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, chairman of the Senate Air and Water Pollution subcommittee.

Russ Fight Taxes

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (UPI)—A 36-acre estate owned by the Soviet delegation to the United Nations will be sold at auction for $50,000 in back taxes unless the Russians pay up, Andrew J. DiPaola said Wednesday.

This Long Island city and the Soviet government have been battling for nearly 20 years over whether the estate with its 49-room mansion enjoys tax-exempt status.

Kennedy Son Hurt

HYANNIS Mass. (UPI)—Robert Kennedy Jr. fractured ris right wrish Wednesday night when he fell about 25 feet from a tree as he attempted to recover his pet falcon.

Robert, 16, second eldest son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was reported in good condition at Cape Cod Hospital here. He was expected to be released today or Friday.

Rhineland Storm

BONN (UPI)—A severe thunderstorm carrying rain, hail and lightning swept the Rhineland Wednesday, briefly cutting communications in Bonn. All teletype and telephone links were out for two hours.

Space Future Eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Space agency head Dr. Thomas O. Paine has predicted the United States will have regularly scheduled "space shuttles" to permanently orbiting stations by 1980.

Paine, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), also told a group of the nation's top teen-age scientists Wednesday that although the United States at present has no plans for landing a man on Mars, it is "inevitable."

British Strike Set

LONDON (UPI)—The Association of Broadcasting Staff, a labor union representing 10,000 technicians, producers and other employes of the British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC), said Wednesday the union will strike next month.

Union Secretary Tom Rhys said the dispute was over a BBC decision to keep using for studio work engineers belonging to a rival union.

General On Mend

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. Military commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creifghton W. Abrams, was reported "rested and in good spirits" today in his recovery from surgery to remove his gall bladder.

Abrams underwent the operation July 3 in a military hospital in Japan.

Senator Smith Has Hip Surgery

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, 72, the only woman in the Senate, underwent surgery Wednesday for removal of her arthritic right hip and received a plastic and metal hip bone and leg joint in its place.

The Maine Republican was in "satisfactory" condition today, a spokesman at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center said. Mrs. Smith was expected to be hospitalized for about two weeks.

She suffered from what doctors described as "a congenital dislocation" of the hip for several years, forcing her to rely on a small electric cart to get around the Capitol.

The spokesman said Mrs. Smith entered the Harkness Pavillion section of the medical center Monday to await the operation performed by Dr. Frank E. Stinchfield, considered one of the world's foremost bone surgeons.

Mrs. Smith always wears a rose at the Senate but asked that no flowers be sent while she is confined. Aides said she would "continue her official correspondence and paperwork" while hospitalized.

Saigon Denies 'Tiger Cages' Are Inhumane

SAIGON (UPI)—The Saigon government admitted today that some Communist criminals are held in so-called "Tiger Cages" on the island prison of Con Son. But officials said inspections by the International Red Cross have shown conditions generally good there.

It was unclear whether the government would take the advice of U.S. Embassy officials to send an investigating team to the prison, 140 miles southeast of Saigon in the South China Sea, where a Congressional inspection team reported prisoners in a maximum security section called "The Tiger Cage" were given inhumane treatment.

INSPECTION URGED

U.S. officials, offering support for the Vietnamese and repudiating the Congressional team, let it be known that they had suggested to the Interior Ministry that if an inspection team were dispatched to the island it would quell criticism.

A South Vietnamese government spokesman said such a team was unnecessary because inspections were regularly conducted by the ministry.

The prison reports obviously caused considerable consternation both in Saigon and in Washington, in part because the reported conditions could be used by the Communists to blunt international efforts aimed at improving the situation of U.S. prisoners of war in the North.

HANOI VERSION

Hanoi Radio, monitored in Saigon today, reported that Reps. Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif. and William R. Anderson, D-Tenn., "denounced the atrocious prison regime in Con Son directed by the Thieu-Ky-Khiem regime."

The South Vietnamese government issued a five point communique "to make clear our position":

—"From the more than 9,000 criminals presently detained at Con Son, only about 400 persons, for disciplinary reasons, are temporarily detained in separate quarters. They are neither political prisoners nor prisoners of war, but Communist prisoners.

—"Those detained in so-called "Tiger Cages" are criminals who are Communists and have also caused internal trouble at the prison. They receive disciplinary measures in separate quarters to avoid damaging effects to other criminals and to prevent further revolts. "They will not be detained for a long time in separate quarters. As soon as they show themselves repentant and agree to abide by prison rules they will be freed. So far, no cases of paralyzed criminals have been reported."

NIXON'S VIEWS

In Washington, a spokesman for President Nixon said Wednesday "obviously the U.S. government and the White House do not condone this type of interment." But he declined to say whether Nixon was concerned about what might happen to U.S. war prisoners as a result.

The White House has directed all questions on the matter to the State Department and the U.S. Embassy in Saigon. An American Embassy spokesman in the South Vietnamese capital said "final responsibility...rests with the South Vietnamese interior ministry and the U.S. government has no public safety advisers stationed at Con Son."

North Vietnamese prisoners of war normally are held in South Vietnamese prisoner of war camps regularly inspected by the International Committee of the Red Cross, an all-Swiss humanitarian organization which oversees the Geneva prisoner of war convention. The ICRC has reported favorably about the treatment of North Vietnamese prisoners of war.

APPLAUDS EDUCATORS

Agnew Doubts If His Remarks Triggered Unrest On Campuses

DENVER (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Wednesday he doubted whether his comments had provoked student demonstrations or riots on the nation's campuses.

Agnew made his remarks shortly after sources in Washington reported President Nixon had been told the Vice President had become a symbol of frustration in segments of the academic community.

"Let me say unequivocally, I don't believe anything I've been saying has been of any monumental significance in campus unrest," the Vice President said.

"The problem has been with us a long time. It's due to a lot of factors, unrelated to a few comments that any person might make, regardless of what position he occupies.

"Principally, it comes from a multiplicity of factors, not the least of which has been the fashionableness of not enforcing sufficient internal discipline on college campuses."

Earlier in Washington, it was reported that Vanderbilt University chancellor Alexander Heard, the president's adviser on student dissent, had warned Nixon to expect renewed trouble on some college campuses this fall.

White House sources said samples of campus sentiment showed particularly that the Vice President had become in some sections of the academic community a symbol of frustration.

Agnew said the constant bombardment by cries of what is wrong with America has led too many people to believe the nation is in the grip of "anarchy, panic, repression and despair."

"It just isn't so," Agnew said in a speech prepared for the more than 500 delegates at a meeting of the Education Commission of the States. "And let every American be assured that it is not going to be so."

Agnew said teachers played an important role in getting the true picture into focus.

"Educators are among the most important communicators in our society," the Vice President said. "And I believe that it is important that everyone involved in education realize how great an effect he can have on the morale of our country.

"If educators are positive in their approach to the problems our country faces—if they place our liabilities in proper perspective along with our assets—they will have a positive effect on the search for solutions.

Estate Of Oswald Put At $17,654

DALLAS (UPI) — An appraiser appointed by the federal court ruled Wednesday the property left behind by presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald was valued at $17,654.

Oswald's widow, Mrs. Marie Oswald Porter, had argued the estate was worth $480,000 because of its increased historical value, and the government had said it was worth only $3,000.

If either Mrs. Porter or the government wishes to argue the case further, a jury trial will be held to determine the estate's worth. If not, Mrs. Porter will get the $17,654.

The value was set by William B. West on 500 items placed permanently in the U. S. Archives in Washington. The most valuable items, West said, were typewrittten and handwritten documents and dissertations by Oswald.

A $5,000 evaluation—largest given by West—was placed on sections of Oswald's diary. A 32-page typewritten comment giving a brief history of Oswald's political, domestic and labor life in Russia was given a $2,000 evaluation.

The rifle used to kill President John F. Kennedy and a pistol used to kill Patrolman J. D. Tippitt were not included in the estate. They were sold by Mrs. Porter to a Denver gun collector for $11,350, but were confiscated by the government.

The collector, John J. King, claims the government owes him $2 million for the two guns.

W. German Pay Up

BONN (UPI) — The average wage in West Germany rose by 13 per cent in 1969 to 1,200 marks ($325) a month, the Institute of German Industry reports. Average production per employe rose during the same period by 3 per cent, the Institute said.

Texas Ex-Governor Flatly Denies Secret Cabinet Deal With Nixon

FLORESVILLE, Tex. (UPI) —Former Democratic Gov. John B. Connally secretly worked for President Nixon's 1968 campaign while believing he would be secretary of defense in the Nixon Cabinet, a report published Wednesday said.

The former Texas governor, wounded by gunfire while riding in the limousine in which President John F. Kennedy was assassinated, immediately branded the report "an out and out lie."

Appearing in the book "The Resurrection of Richard Nixon," by Washington newsman Jules Witcover, the report said Connally joined the campaign of Hubert H. Humphrey at the last minute, apparently fearing the former vice president would carry Texas and leave him "out in the cold in a state that went Democratic without him."

The switch cost him a spot in the Republican-appointed cabinet, the report said.

The book said Connally, working for former President Lyndon B. Johnson, left the Democratic National Convention "personally unhappy," partly because he was passed over as the vice presidential nominee.

Aware of his disenchantment, Nixon agents "began at once to woo Connally ardently," Witcover wrote. "Fellow Texan and fellow conservative John Tower, Fred Larue and other Southern Republicans applied their persuasive powers — and spoken or implied promise of a major plum in the Nixon administration — and Connally played ball."

"Humphrey's final margin of victory, only 39,000 votes out of nearly 3,100,000 cast, suggests Connally could well have swung the state for Nixon had he not caved in at the end," Witcover said.

He quotes a "Nixon insider" as later saying: "If the fellow had had a few more guts, he'd be secretary of defense today."

Two Police Fired For Keeping Gun Seized On Duty

OAKLAND (UPI)—Two Oakland policemen have been fired from the force after they failed to turn in a revolver seized as "evidence," the department announced Wednesday.

Patrolmen Dean A. Leatherman, 30, and Roger C. Morrow, 25, were discharged Monday for unofficerlike conduct and untruthfulness to their superiors.

Police said Leatherman, a three-year veteran who was formerly on the Beverly Hills police force, did not turn in a .38 revolver seized following a family quarrel at the home of a Mrs. Mattie Watson.

Morrow, on the force for almost a ear, was said to have alibied for Leatherman.

The Federal Aviation Agency restricts amateur missiles from a weight and composition standpoint rather than potential altitude range.

Sinatra Does A Turnabout, Will Campaign For Reagan

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Frank Sinatra, who campaigned for John F. Kennedy and Franklin D. Roosevelt, is now backing Republican Ronald Reagan for re-election as California's governor.

Although announcing Wednesday he will serve as cochairman of the Californians for Reagan organization, Sinatra added "I have been—and will continue to be—a Democrat."

The singer-actor declared "it is my duty as a citizen to put aside the partisan considerations when I think the other party's candidate is clearly the outstanding candidate for office."

Californians for Reagan is an organization made up of Democrats and the other cochairmen are George Killion, onetime steamship firm president and former national Democratic Party treasurer, and State Sen. Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno.

Reagan, a former actor, said in Sacramento he was "very pleased that Frank will support our efforts."

There was no comment from assemblyman Jess Unruh, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, who is vacationing.

In explaining his decision, Sinatra issued a news release declaring "the youth of our state is one of our biggest assets."

"To protect that asset, we must all work together to end the turmoil on the campuses and improve the communications between the students and what they refer to as the Establishment.'"

Bull Runner Hurt

PAMPLONA, Spain (UPI)—One man was gored seriously and 38 others were bruised in Wednesday's running of the bulls as part of Pamplona's San Fermin Fiesta.

The most seriously injured was a Spaniard gored in the left leg as a crowd of young men ran six fighting bulls through the streets to the bullring for the daily bullfight.

The weeklong festival opened Tuesday with the biggest crowds in the history of the celebration.

Berkeley Police Seize Firebombs

BERKELEY (UPI)—Police, who reported seizing 30 firebombs, held five persons under arrest Wednesday for investigation of conspiracy and possession of incendiary materials.

A plainclothesman, equipped with a shortwave transmitter, noticed suspicious actions near Telegraph Avenue and led to the arrests, the department said.

Included on the arrest list were three unnamed juveniles and Robert M. Hagans, 23, a transient, and Lewis Nelson Turnbaugh, 23, Berkeley.

College Grades Plan Draws Split Reaction

A majority of College of Marin students are satisfied with the school's present grading system, which eliminates D and F grades, according to a survey conducted by Irwin P. Diamond, dean of students.

Only about a third, however, prefer it over any other system.

The college over a year ago abolished the D and F, giving only a "no credit" rating to students falling below C. At the time, it was argued this would do away with the onus of a failing grade; though there were some objections from the athletic department that it would cause some border-line students to lose athletic eligibility.

A questionnaire was distributed to the first 500 students, alphabetically, during this year's spring semester. Of these, 159 filled it out and returned it.

Eighty-eight per cent said they understood the grading system. Fifty-seven per cent said they are satisfied with it.

Reinstating the D grade was advocated by 36 per cent but opposed by 46 per cent, with the remaining 18 per cent expressing no opinion.

Asked which system they prefer, 31 per cent said the present system; 18 per cent, A-B-C-D-F, 16 per cent, pass-no pass; 14 per cent, optional written or oral evaluation, and 6 per cent, no evaluation at all. There were scattered votes for other systems.

Of those polled, only 4 per cent said they had ever been disqualified from the college. The new grading system has resulted in more disqualifications than the former A-B-C-D-F system because a D grade was considered passing.

Sixty-two per cent thought the present disqualification system (demanding all grades average at C) satisfactory; 27 per cent said it is too strict.

Teachers apparently are less satisfied with the system than are students. Questionnaires were distributed to the 130 full-time faculty members. Only 42 responded, but of them, 23 said D grades should be reinstated.

Of the balloting teachers, 31 thought the present probation standards not too strict, 25 thought them not too lenient — a confusing division which Diamond did not attempt to explain.

Hearing Scheduled In Store Burglary Case

A preliminary hearing has been set for next Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court for Mark Jefferson Lee, 21, of 100 Bayo Vista Drive, San Rafael, who is accused of burglarizing the Terra Linda Variety Store Sunday.

Lee and a companion who fled were seen inside the store about 4 a.m. by Terra Linda officers who caught Lee as he came out. He allegedly took about $25 in coins from the store.

Bill To Delay 'Smokeless' Jet Gains

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to give airlines two additional years to convert to "smokeless" jet engines has cleared the Senate Transportation Committee and gone to the finance committee for approval that would send the measure to the upper house floor.

Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, author of the bill, said it had the support of the airline industry.

A law passed by the 1969 Legislature required that jet emissions be virtually smokeless by Jan. 1, 1971. McCarthy's bill would postpone the date to Dec. 31, 1972.

A top airline official reported in January that jets operating in and to California could not possibly meet the new state limits. Ralph T. Glasson, vice president of United Air Lines' base maintenance at San Francisco International Airport, said then that the airline industry was aiming instead to substantially complete conversion to "smokeless" operation throughout the nation by the end of 1972.

The new state law would limit the emissions to Ringelmann 2, an eyeball measurement that allows the smoke to obscure up to 40 per cent of the light passing through the plume.

Larkspur Parks Panel Delaying On Master Plan

After discussing proposals by park planners for a parks master plan, the Larkspur Park and Recreation Commission last night agreed to hold a further interview with the San Francisco firm of Berridge, Becker and Julin at the commission's August meeting.

No date for the August meeting has been set, reported recreation director Harlan Barry.

The commission asked Barry to produce a draft ordinance for the August meeting setting out some formula under which new subdivisions would have to provide specified amounts of open space. The commission also sent a letter to the Schultz Building Company requesting the company set aside open space along Corte Madera Creek frontage.

A report on Dolliver Park, which is being rehabilitated at the request of residents of Madrone Canyon, indicated the park is receiving more use this year than before and that no vandalism has occurred as in past years.

Officers Will Report On Juvenile's Case

Anderson, who is charged with possessing marijuana and committing petty theft on June 29, is to return to municipal court July 21 for a report.

Touring Car Buyers To Lose Break On Tax

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — California tourists planning to buy cars abroad are headed for a shock — most of them no longer will be able to dodge the 5 per cent sales tax on their cars.

The state Board of Equalization, in a pending amendment of its regulations, apparently is going to tighten its definition of whether a car is bought for use out of state. The measure of intended use is the board's "90-day test," which long has said that no sales tax was due on cars bought more than 90 days before entering the state.

The 90 days is counted from the date the car is delivered to the buyer to the date the car enters the state. As a result, tourists often store their cars in Europe after using them for a few weeks, and then shop around for a slow boat.

But the pending amendment will stop the 90-day count after the tourist delivers his car to a shipping agent. The new rule would count the 90 days "exclusive of any time of shipment to California or time of storage for shipment to California."

The tougher limitation was to have been applied to all cars ordered on or after July 1, but board adoption of the change was slowed by strong opposition from U. S. dealers handling overseas sales.

A spokesman for the board told the Independent-Journal that the effective date of the amendment probably would be one month after it is adopted. He declined to predict that it would be adopted, but said the staff was recommending its adoption by August.

The ease of dodging the sales tax under current rules is a big selling point for buying cars abroad. The effect of the change will be to eliminate virtually all of the saving on overseas delivery for all but the most expensive cars.

Petaluma Lab Given A New Lease On Life

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A bill permitting poultry and livestock inspection stations in Petaluma and Turlock to remain open was signed Wednesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The bill by Assemblyman Clare Berryhill, R-Ceres, authorizes the laboratories to collect fees from ranchers for services to finance their continued operation. The stations had been scheduled for closure when funds for their operation were excluded from the 1970-71 budget.

If the laboratories had been closed, ranchers would have had to use facilities in Sacramento to test turkeys, chickens, cows and livestock for diseases.

NATION HAS SURPLUS TEACHERS

Will Students Benefit?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It used to be that a young lady could while away a few years before marriage as a teacher. A young man could always try teaching, and if he was suited and liked it, could fashion a respected —if not well paid — career.

Now, say the teacher-counters, the young ladies would be well advised to consider matrimony first and the young men had better be serious about classroom careers, because the competition is heavy.

The national teacher shortage is over.

For the first time since World War II, more teachers are being produced than there are teaching positions.

"The new graduate's problem of finding employment is a real one," says a soon-to-be-published federal education report. "Fewer jobs are available. Employers are choosing more carefully. Many graduates will eventually accept positions they would not have considered earlier."

Won't all this work be to the advantage of students, who for years have sat in overcrowded classrooms and attended school in half-day sessions?

Not necessarily, says Don Davies, a U. S. Office of Education associate commissioner for personnel development.

"Such reactions indicate a serious and dangerous detachment from reality," Davies recently told the prestigious Council of Chief State School Officers.

"A surplus of people with teaching credentials will not guarantee all children a quality education any more than our annual surplus of crops has guaranteed all Americans an adequate diet."

While Davies admits of a new potential to improve the quality of education, he cautions that critical shortages still exist.

"Severe manpower shortages plague the fields of vocational and early childhood education," he said. "The same is true in education for the handicapped. Schools in low income areas continue to be manned in many cases by personnel emotionally unprepared and academically untrained to work effectively with youngsters in these communities."

Educational statisticians generally agree that during the just-completed school year, public schools had available more teachers than they could use.

The National Education Association estimates that only 215,700 new teachers, among a supply of 255,200, found teaching jobs last year, leaving a surplus of 39,500 —the majority trying for high schools.

The teacher boom has reduced the national pupil-teacher ratio by two children since 1965, the National Center for Educational Statistics reported. The present 22.7 to 1 ratio is not, however, a valid measure of average class size, the agency said.

It recorded 2,013,836 full and part-time public school teachers last fall, a 4 per cent increase over the previous year.

The surplus came about when post-World War II babies grew up and graduated from college. It was augmented by a declining national birth rate in the 1960's that leveled off elementary school attendance and the demand for teachers.

It is being fueled by the economic downswing.

"Many people in business, industry, government and even in professional associations are looking to education as their jobs are eliminated or as their opportunities seem to fade," said the unpublished government report.

"It is not unusual in such areas as the West Coast where unemployment is extensive for wives to return to teaching so their husbands can remain in the vicinity in hopes that their old jobs will reopen."

As the economy dips, the pressures for ex-teachers to return to the classroom will increase. With the closing of other vocational avenues, young liberal arts graduates who entered college with no interest in teaching are putting in their bids for classroom jobs.

Easing the pressure a bit, but only a slight bit, was the decision to end draft deferments for teaching. However, fewer than 5 per cent of next fall's estimated 300,000 newly available teachers (both men and women) can expect to be drafted, the statisticians report.

Veterans coming back into the job market could well offset that number.

So educators have stopped wringing their hands about where to find teachers and — in fact — the U. S. Office of Education is calling teacher oversupply "a matter of unusual concern."

Davies hopes the educational system will take advantage of this "once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to focus primarily on the quality and scope of educational services."

Top State Court Upholds Conviction On Marijuana

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The state Supreme Court Wednesday upheld the conviction of a Los Angeles man who was arrested when police found a burning pipe and an envelope of marijuana in his apartment.

The court unanimously upheld the conviction of Jesse Cressey Jr. for violating a controversial section of the Health and Safety Code.

Section 11556 states it is a crime for a person to be "in any room or place where any narcotics are being unlawfully smoked or used with knowledge that such activity is occurring."

The court, however, clarified the section because Cressey's attorney attacked its constitutionality.

The panel said a literal reading of the section "could proscribe some kinds of conduct which cannot constitutionally be considered criminal."

"An individual might find himself in situations, such as at a party...where he had no relation to the acts of others who might be disposed to use marijuana," the decision said.

"As this court has held: 'If the defendant did not act to aid, assist, or abet the perpetration of the crime, he is guilty of no violation of law from the mere fact that he was present."

However, the court noted that "in one's own residence or automobile one may have the responsibility to prevent the use of the narcotic for illegal purposes in that one has some control over the premises."

The court upheld Cressey's conviction on grounds he controlled the apartment in which the marijuana was found.

Illinois Bloc Claims First In Abortion Law

Sanitary Board Debates Decrease In Yearly Budget

The Ross Valley Sanitary District Board last night discussed a tentative 1970-71 budget of $192,625, a decrease of $1,669 from the 1969-70 figure.

No action was taken and the budget will be discussed further at the Aug. 12 meeting, reported manager Ralph C. Noah.

The board awarded a $3,883 contract to the Soiland Company to replace a siphon on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Ross in coordination with the flood control project on Corte Madera Creek.

The board agreed to send a proposal to San Quentin Prison for a joint study of an outfall line into the bay and to study a possible contract for the district to treat sewage from the prison.

The board also agreed to buy a pumping station site from College of Marin, but no price was set. The site is on the oxbow of Corte Madera Creek.

The Aug. 12 meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the district office.

A picture on Page 1 of yesterday's Independent-Journal showed men and equipment from Maggiora and Ghilotti Co. preparing to relocate water lines for the Marin Municipal Water District in preparation for the next phase of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project in Kentfield and Ross. The picture was captioned incorrectly to indicate the work shown was part of the flood control project itself.

I-J Riot Trial Transferred To Fairfield

Seven men accused of felony crimes in connection with the Valentine's Day riot outside the Independent-Journal building in San Rafael have been ordered to stand trial in Solano County Superior Court in Fairfield the week of Aug. 4

The case was transferred to that county after Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner granted a motion by the defendants' attorney for a change of venue.

Attorney Robert D. Carrow had claimed the men could not receive a fair trial in Marin because of publicity in the I-J.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Milton Hyams said that when he told Judge Thomas N. Healy of Solano County that he wanted an early trial date because there had been no action in the case since April 29 the judge agreed.

Judge Healy also commented that if the defendants, who did not appear in court Monday, were not present at a pretrial conference which was set for July 20, he would hold them in jail until the trial.

(All the men are free on bail.)

The accused men are charged with offenses including assault on officers, possessing unlawful weapons and various misdemeanor counts. They were arrested during a riotous demonstration in support of striking San Francisco Typographical Union 21 on Feb. 14.

They are:

John Joseph DeMartini, 44, of Mill Valley; Nimmes Harrison Shelton, 40, Charles Porter Vance, 29, San Francisco; Joe Earl Reese, 31, Hayward; Alvis Dean Bailey, 43, San Francisco; Terry Warner Lansing, 20, Berkeley; and James Starkey Brooke, 35, San Francisco.

Car Body Producers Open A Marin Office

dia and renewed prospects for peace in Laos.

There were these other major developments in Indochina:

—The U.S. Command announced in Saigon that American servicemen last week suffered the lowest casualties in 3½ years of fighting—61 dead and 463 wounded.

—Military sources in Phnom Penh said the Communists apparently had withdrawn 35,000 men of their 60,000 man force in Cambodia in the face of government counter-offensives supported by air strikes. Large number of civilians were reported returning to their homes in the northern part of Cambodia.

—Laotian government sources in Vietiane said the International Control Commission had offered to mediate the differences between the government and the Communist Pathet Lao, indicating the possibility of early peace talks. The ICC decision apparently represented a softening of the position of Communist Poland, a member of the ICC.

integrated basis," the President said.

It will take over such activities as have been previously performed by Interior's Federal Water Quality Administration, pesticide research and standard-setting of the Food and Drug Administration, and air and water pollution control activities of HEW.

Pesticide control, now performed by the Agriculture Department, and general ecological research now performed by the Council on Environmental Quality, also will fall to the EPA.

The President said the Council on Environmental Quality, which he set up as an arm of the White House, will continue to perform its overall coordinating and advisory role on all aspects of environmental quality such as wildlife preservation, land use and population growth. The EPA would be concerned with pollution abatement.

"The two are not competing, but complementary," the President said.

NOAA, with an initial budget of $270 million and more than 12,000 personnel will take over the work of the Environmental Science Services Administration (ESSA), the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries and the Marine Minerals Technology Program, and the Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife in the Interior Department; the Office of Sea Grant Programs which supervises exploitation of ocean riches and is under the National Science Foundation; and certain functions now performed by the Army, Navy and Coast Guard.

"The government's environmentally related activities have grown up piecemeal over the years," Nixon said. "The time has come to organize them rationally and systematically."

MARIN DELEGATE — Leonard A. Rodriquez, junior leader of the Novato Jets 4-H Club, is representing Marin County at the National 4-H Citizenship Course in Washington, D.C. A 1970 graduate of Novato High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Rodriquez of 1405 Buchanan Street.

Russ Reveal Own Pace In Space Race

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union will leave moonflight space missions to the United States for the time being and will aim solely at orbiting permanent space stations "within the next few years," a Soviet scientist said today.

Mstislav Keldysh, president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, confirmed that the Russians plan no comebacks in the "moon-race." He spoke during a news conference given by the Soyuz 9 cosmonauts, Maj. Gen. Andrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevastianov.

It was the first such conference open to representatives of the world press since the cosmonauts ended the space flight that set a record for endurance last June 19. They complimented U.S. astronauts as well as Soviet cosmonauts for providing them with technical experience and said they were in good health.

Describing "the next step" in the Soviet space program Keldysh said, "our main task now is orbital stations and also the study of the solar system and the earth by unmanned vehicles."

Asked when permanent, manned stations could be expected to be functioning, he said: "I think within the next few years."

He said Soyuz 9 had provided the technical know-how for space missions of more than 30 days.

"We cannot set any maximum time," he said, "but most probably it is now over a month and that is quite long enough for a long-term, orbital mission, because such stations presuppose crew changes."

Marin's Manpower Panel Starts Work

The 11-member Marin County Manpower Commission took its first official steps yesterday toward development of a coordinated job placement and development program.

The commision, holding its organizational meeting in the offices of the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council, was created by the county board of supervisors in April.

It plans to operate a year-long project, composed of employers and representatives of social agencies, under which 75 disadvantaged persons would receive job training and placement as well as services including child care, transportation, remedial education and counseling.

In announcing the opening of a office in the EOC's neighborhood service center at 918 C Street in San Rafael, the commission said that in addition to the year-long project, it would accept job applicants referred by other agencies and also would accept walk-in applicants.

Several commission members worried, however, that the staff, consisting of a manpower coordinating and an employment counselor aide, would get bogged down in excessive record-keeping.

Elmo Petterle of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co., a commission member, said employers needed a place to call to fill jobs that open up quickly and hoped the commission office could fill the role.

The commission elected Joseph Ravarra of the Bay Area Urban League as chairman and Petterle as vice chairman and said it would meet the second Wednesday of each month at noon at the EOC offices.

Marijuana Sale Charges Hearing Set For July 30

A preliminary hearing has been set for July 30 in Marin Municipal Court for Kenneth William Fair, Mill Valley service station attendant charged with possessing marijuana for sale, and William James Talbot II, 21, of Orinda.

Talbot is accused of possessing pot.

They were arrested June 19 after a stakeout by drug agents of the Enco service station and Miller and Evergreen avenues, where agents said they saw Fair lead people to a car, open the trunk and hand them plastic packages.

Upon learning that the car was registered to Fair, the agents asked to search his trunk. Fair first produced keys to Talbot's car, which agents said contained a small package of pot.

Draft Chief Sees Trouble From Courts

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—If courts continue to broaden the qualifications for conscientious objectors it could mean an end to the draft system, says the new director of Selective Service.

Curtis W. Tarr said Wednesday his department expects the number of "valid" requests to increase in light of recent Supreme Court decision. He added, however, that if the courts go on and allow potential inductees to object to specific wars rather than all wars, the draft will become completely unworkable.

"The animosities which would arise between those willing to serve and those unwilling would destroy the system," Tarr said. "Every state director I have consulted has also said this."

If legislation to create an all-volunteer military goes into effect, Tarr continued, "the nation will have to cut back on its commitments.

"I think it would be very difficult to raise a volunteer army now because of the unfavorable opinions in the country today," he said.

"If we increase the economic attractiveness of the military and come to a less divisive and bitter period, the volunteer army will be practical."

OUT OF SPACE—Pat Shepard, Sausalito's new city librarian, looks in vain for an empty space for one of the dozens of new books which come into the library each week. But overcrowded conditions at the tiny library have made it necessary to remove one volume from the shelves for each new book placed theer. (Independent-Journal photo)

New Sausalito Librarian Has Hemmed-In Job

Pat Shepard, Sausalito's new city librarian, glanced around the tiny library, jammed to the bursting point with books and bookcases, and voiced a concern that has plagued Sausalito librarians for years.

"There just isn't room to grow," she said, looking at the evident congestion. Things are so tight, she said, that for every book added, a book must be removed.

Since Mrs. Shepard began her new duties July 1, she has spent most of her time deciding which old books to place in storage to make room for the new volumes which flood into the library each week. Already, thousands of surplus books are stored in city hall (below the library) and in the county library, she said.

AWAITS NEW PLANT

Mrs. Shepard is eagerly awaiting the day when the city builds a new library. Even though voters in June approved land for construction of a new city hall and library, it will probably be several years before a larger library is built.

But, despite the cramped quarters and resultant inconvenience, the 24-year-old Mrs. Shepard is enjoying her job and the chance to live on the West Coast for the first time. Her husband, Robert, is employed with Honeywell Inc. in San Francisco where they live. They moved there from Ohio in March.

The new librarian holds a bachelor's degree in library science and American studies from Bowling Green University in Ohio and was born and reared in that state.

For Mrs. Shepard, the West's most unusual feature is the fog, routine to Marinites, but exciting to someone who has never experienced it.

CHIEF HOBBY

Her chief hobby, not surprisingly, is reading and she will have an opportunity to do a lot of it, since a librarian's duties include reading book reviews from all over the county and scanning all books which come into the library.

In her spare time - when she has any - Mrs. Shepard said she likes to ski and play tennis.

Also, not surprisingly, she finds San Francisco (where she lives) and Sausalito "much livelier" than her native Midwest.

A BAD YEAR TURNS BETTER

Novatan, Wife Win I-J Journey

A Novato woman who has been helping her husband battle cancer all year got a pleasant surprise yesterday.

Jessie Dugan of 306 Olive Street won a trip for two to Hawaii, the grand prize in the Independent-Journal's Lucky License reader contest.

"I think it's wonderful. It's the most wonderful thing that ever happened to us. The year started out pretty bad. We discovered that my husband had cancer and he had to have an operation. I think this trip is going to be the most wonderful thing that ever happened to him," was Mrs. Dugan's reaction.

She said the excitement of the trip would take her husband's mind off his illness.

Mrs. Dugan could not be reached yesterday by the I-J so her husband, Charles, was informed of the results yesterday at the Hamilton Air Force Base barber shop where he works.

Mrs. Dugan, a practical nurse, said she had promised her husband a trip to Lake Tahoe, but when she returned from work yesterday he asked for a trip to Hawaii instead.

She said she couldn't afford it and didn't expect to win the trip —before her husband told her the news.

The couple will receive round-trip tickets on Western Airlines International "The Islander" flight to Hawaii, air transportation to the outer islands, and accommodations for nine days at Sheraton hotels of Hawaii — the Princess Kaiulani, in Waikiki, the Sheraton Maui and the Sheraton Kauai.

The winning license plate was the first to win a daily cash prize in the contest which ran from June 15 to July 4.

The Dugans, formerly of Fairfax, have lived in Novato a year.

HAWAII-BOUND—Jessie and Charles Dugan of Novato smile broadly near the license plate that won them a trip to Hawaii. Mrs. Dugan was the grand prize winner in the Independent-Journal's Lucky License contest. The bumper strip on car was the only requirement to enter the contest. (Independent-Journal photo)

Houseboat Crowding Threat To Bay Life?

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The size and spacing of houseboat developments can have significant effects on the ability of the bay to produce oxygen vital to aquatic life, an ecologist has reported.

Dr. James P. Heath, who teaches at San Jose State College and is a consultant to the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission, termed "undesirable" the fact that any houseboat cuts off light needed in the production of oxygen.

"This effect is not as permanent nor as damaging as fill," he said in a report to the commission, "but it is undesirable. Houseboats that rest on the bottom at low tide simply produce for that period of time a condition of fill," he added.

Floating houseboats "are slightly better" because they allow the current to flow, he said. But also important, Dr. Heath said, is the distance between boats.

Two large houseboats eight feet apart may cut off 50 per cent of the light in that open space, but at 20 feet separation the light loss would be far less, he said.

"It would seem that if houseboats are to be permitted, the factor of spacing should be known," he said. "Furthermore, boats that float at all times should have preference over those that sit on the mud part of the time."

Newspapers Preservation Bill Approved By House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress has gone on record in favor of a bill to exempt from antitrust laws newspapers that pool their noneditorial operations to avoid financial collapse of one or the other of the papers.

All that remains for final congressional approval is reconciliation of differences between an earlier Senate-passed bill which the House rewrote and passed Wednesday by a 292-to-87 roll call vote.

Both bills would provide such joint operations now in effect in 22 cities could continue without change. New joint agreements made after enactment of a compromise bill into law would need approval of the attorney general.

One of the existing joint operations, between two Tucson, Ariz., newspapers, has been ruled by the Supreme Court a violation of antitrust laws. The bills would nullify that ruling.

The measures would allow newspapers to combine their advertising printing, business and circulation operations and pool the profits from the joint operations. The papers, however, would have to maintain separate editorial staffs.

The House version would require a newspaper be in "probable danger of financial failure" to qualify for the antitrust exemption, while the Senate version would require only that a publication "appear unlikely to remain or become a financially sound publication."

Damage suits in the Tucson case and in regard to a similar joint operating agreement in San Francisco would be made moot by either version. Claims in the two suits totaled several million dollars.

Three Hurt When Auto Overturns

Three persons were injured yesterday at 12:10 p.m. when their car overturned on Highway 101, south of Petaluma Boulevard South, Petaluma.

The driver, Rubin Figueroa, 24, of Monte Rio, and a passenger, Mary Wassink, 20, of Eldon, N. Y., were treated at Petaluma General Hospital for face cuts. Another passenger, Dennis McGire, 22, of San Francisco, said he would see his own physician for treatment of cuts.

The California Highway Patrol said the car hit the right berm and overturned, then righted itself in the center divider strip.

Interim Head Named To Agency Post

Wallace K. Shepherd, administrative assistant for the Marin County Housing Authority and Redevelopment Agency, has been named interim executive director for both bodies.

Shepherd was chosen Tuesday by directors of the authority. He will take over the job of Donald O. Stutsman who resigned the post in April and will leave July 15.

The interim administrator will serve until a new executive director is chosen. Shepherd said 10 final candidates, chosen from a field of 76, will be screened next week by directors of both groups and a citizens committee set up to assist in the selection.

The Marin County Housing Authority also:

LOW BID — Directed its engineer to study a low bid of $58,000 from Alvis Allen and Sons, Marin City contractors, for installation of ventilating fans in 300 units of public housing in Marin City.

SALARY HIKE — Approved a 5 per cent salary increase for administrative and clerical staff.

LAND SALE — Authorized acceptance of $36,000, if offered by the City of Tiburon, for 4.8 surplus acres in the Hilarita Housing Project on condition the land be used for recreation.

SPECIAL MEETING — Set a special joint meeting with the redevelopment agency to consider a request from the Marin Urban Development Association that that group be named official Marin City developer. The meeting will be held July 15 at 8 p.m. at Manzanita Center, Marin City.

Two women who rented photography equipment from the Camera Corner, 1 Petaluma Boulevard North, Petaluma, gave false addresses and failed to return the merchandise, according to police.

Shop owner David W. Brainerd, a Petaluma city councilman, told police that two young women rented two movie projectors and screens on July 3 and had failed to return them. He estimated the loss at $364.

Meeting Postponed

Tonight's regularly scheduled meeting of the Marin County Human Rights Commission has been postponed to 8 p.m. next Thursday because some members cannot be present, executive director Austin J. Thompson announced.

Plaza Reelected OAS Secretary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ambassador Galo Plaza of Ecuador has been re-elected to a five-year term as Secretary General of the Organization of American States.

Plaza's election Wednesday came as delegates from 23 Latin-American republics wound up a two-week meeting of the OAS General Assembly.

The delegates, who earlier in the week adopted a resolution condemning political terrorism in the Western Hemisphere—particularly kidnaping of diplomats—also re-elected Miguel Rafael Urquia of El Salvador as Assistant Secretary General.

Hub Design Planners Approve Landscaping

The San Anselmo Design Review Committee last night approved plans for landscaping and a free-standing sign at Guasco Market, 100 Center Boulevard, reported secretary Thelma Foster.

The committee also recommended the property owner plant New Zealand flax in a planting area adjoining the post office at 121 San Anselmo Avenue, to replace a tree which succumbed to wind or vandals several weeks ago.

Mrs. Valory To Lose Job As State Consumer Counsel

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — California's controversial consumer counsel, Kay Valory, will lose her $18,000-a-year job on Aug. 1 as a resut of cuts in the new state budget.

The Legislature slashed the appropriation for the office from $44,000 to $10,000 — leaving just enough to pay for a clerk to refer complaints to other departments.

The cut came after Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post said Mrs. Valory's duties could be performed by the new State Division of Consumer Affairs.

Democrats long have criticized Mrs. Valory for doing nothing about consumer problems. The Association of California Consumers, based in Sausalito, labeled her office a "fraud."

Mrs. Valory was appointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan in 1967. She was a leader in his 1966 gubernatorial campaign.

BACK FROM AN ACCIDENT

Edward DeMaestri appears to be chuckling as he works on the crumpled fender of a San Anselmo police car at Fairfax Garage. Often seen parked near an auto accident, this car and a College of Marin patrol car made their own yesterday. They collided at the intersection of San Anselmo Avenue and Center Boulevard at 1:05 p.m. The uninjured policemen, Martin C. Gent of the San Anselmo force and Denny V. Lawrence of College of Marin, presumably had no trouble getting details of the accident for their reports.

Blacks Help Keep Seaside City Cool

ASHBURY PARK, N.J. (UPI) —Unarmed black youth patrols and state police maintained peace in the violence-scarred streets of this resort community today while Negro leaders canvassed West Side ghetto residents on city government reactions to their 20 demands.

Approximately 300 black leaders met five hours Wednesday with Mayor Joseph F. Mattice to discuss the demands which included a proposal to grant amnesty to the 225 persons arrested during three nights of violence in which 160 were injured and damage was estimated at more than $1 million.

No serious incidents were reported Wednesday as the black youths acted as a buffer between ghetto residents and police in an effort to end the violence. Only 12 arrests were reported during the day.

Black leaders were slated to meet again with Mattice today. Although none of the official decisions on the black demands was revealed, Mattice and black leaders such as Willy Hamm expressed optimism. "We feel encouraged by it," Hamm said of the meeting.

Other key demands included establishment of a civilian police review board and withdrawal of all state police and outside policemen from the community.

Police Chief Thomas Smith, a black, said he was "cautiously optimistic that serious disorders may have ended in the resort community of 22,000 persons.

State police announced earlier Wednesday Maj. Harold Graff, head of the Criminal Investigation Bureau, would lead an investigation into shootings Tuesday that resulted in 46 persons being wounded, four seriously. Police said they fired into the air in a brief battle with a crowd of 200 persons.

Black leaders held a closed meeting earlier Wednesday which produced the idea of using civilian patrols and led to the meeting with Mattice. Roland Copeland, a representative of the Justice Department's Community Regional Services branch in Newark, attended the meeting.

State police said if calm continued they hoped to be able to withdraw patrols from the West Side but said there were no immediate plans to withdraw 150 troopers reinforcing Asbury Park's 48-man force.

Police in towns of Freehold, Hightstown and Red Bank—scenes of disturbances earlier this week—reported no incidents Wednesday.

More Talks In Rome Over Leader Crisis

ROME (UPI)—President Giuseppe Saragat conferred today for 40 minutes with three-time Premier Aldo Moro, a leading candidate to assume the premiership again.

Leaders of the Communist Party met Saragat later and told newsmen they insisted the left wing obtain more influence in the next government. Saragat, the man who appoints premiers, was in the second of three days of consultations with former presidents, premiers and political leaders, seeking advice on how to resolve the nation's latest leadership crisis. The crisis was climaxed Monday when Premier Mariano Rumor resigned after 100 days in office, bringing down the country's 31st post-Fascist government.

Moro returned from an African visit to find himself listed as a leading candidate to succeed Rumor. He made no comment after seeing the president.

Communist leaders followed Moro into Saragat's office. They stayed more than one hour and emerged to tell newsmen they opposed any restoration of the center-left coalition Rumor led.

Pietro Ingrao, leader of the large Communist bloc in Parliament, told newsmen the delegation attacked Rumor's resignation as a political ploy which would hurt the economy and cause tension among workers, students and the man in the street.

Official Praises Marin Residents On Burning Ban

A spokesman for the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District in Marin yesterday praised county residents for their acceptance of the six-month old ban on outdoor burning.

Sam Chapman, the district's Marin enforcement inspector, said he has cited less than 10 incinerator violations and 21 open fire violations since the ban began Jan. 1.

Chapman added that 16 of the 21 open fire violations were issued to Mathews, Humbert and Walker Lumber Co., of North Bend, Ore., for unattended fires on Bolinas Ridge during April and May.

He added, "I think the people of Marin have done a great job."

Couple's Hearing Set In Marijuana Case

A preliminary hearing has been set for July 28 in Marin Municipal Court for Ernest Lewin, 23, and his wife, Kathleen Marie, 22, of San Anselmo who are charged with possessing, cultivating and being under the influence of marijuana.

They were arrested June 19 after a drug agent said he observed Mrs. Lewin in a car apparently smoking a pot cigarette. A search of their car and their house produced a marijuana cigarette and small pot plants.

Everyone Complains About Continued Inflation, But...

Everybody complains about inflation. Most people blame it on the government.

Certainly government policies (and sometimes, lack of policies) at federal, state and local levels contribute to inflation. But there are other causes which many people don't like to recognize.

ITEM: ON JULY 3, "wildcat" Teamsters Union strikes throughout the United States — strikes which spread despite earlier agreement by International Brotherhood of Teamsters officials to new contracts providing a $1.10 per hour increase over three years — were settled by granting bigger increases. The settlement gave truck drivers in the Chicago area raises totaling $1.65 an hour over three years; those elsewhere, $1.85 an hour over three years. These are just the increases.

Item: One day earlier, the Sugar Workers Union rejected an offer by California and Hawaiian Sugar Co. at Crockett for a 10 per cent pay raise now, plus an additional 5 per cent next year and 5 per cent in 1972, and plus a cost-of-living increase not to exceed 3 per cent each year. Not enough, they said.

ITEM: ON JULY 1, the Sheet Metal Workers Union in Los Angeles voted to strike rather than accept an offer of increases in pay and fringe benefits totaling $5 an hour over three years. They demanded this be boosted to $5.71 — the amount of increase, note!

Item: The same day, a strike by Department Store Clerks Union and Shoe and Textile Salesmen's Union in San Francisco was averted with raises ranging from 50 cents to $1.10 an hour — those are the increases — plus boosts in pension benefits ranging from 37 to 62 per cent.

Item: Also on July 1, a strike of non-medical workers at New York hospitals was headed off by granting the Drug and Hospitals Union increases ranging from 25 to 30 per cent over two years.

Shutdown of New York newspapers by an International Typographical Union strike was averted recently 15 per cent to be followed by 11 per when the publishers granted a raise of 15 per cent, to be followed by another 11 per cent next year and still another 11 per cent in 1972. Now the Mailers Union is threatening to strike the New York newspapers unless its members get the same raises. The ITU is the parent union of the Mailers Union.

INFLATION HAS BOOSTED the cost of living appreciably in the last few years — a fact of which almost everyone is painfully aware. But none of these pay increases has much relation to the cost of living increase — yet.

They and others like them will, of course, cause the cost of living to go up still farther.

These inflationary pay grants come at the same time that most companies find themselves in a financial bind, with profits declining or vanishing. To meet that bind, many have begun layoffs of management personnel. Others have cut executive salaries. Hewlett-Packard Corp. in Santa Clara County has begun giving everyone, from the top down, one day off without pay every two weeks.

Commercial as well as public organizations have tended to grow top-heavy with management personnel. Cutting there is a practical approach to an economic squeeze. But it is futile indeed if accompanied by huge pay raises for workers covered by contracts.

EVERYONE COMPLAINS about inflation. But no one, it seems, wants to help curb it. Very few seem willing to recognize that demanding more and more money for no more work must lead eventually to bankruptcy for the employer, whether that employer is the government or a private company.

When that happens, the big pay raise becomes meaningless—because the job is no longer there.

Noises In The Night

In the magnified silence of the post-midnight hours in our neighborhood, little noises bang loudly on the wakeful eardrums.

The meanderings of a deer through the dry grass and underbrush of the orchard next door strikes our ears with the force of a stumbling, clumsy elephant. It is amazing that such a delicate, cautious creature makes such a racket.

The shrill screeching of an angry skunk is dwarfed by titanic growling, hissing and screaming of a bitter battle between a raccoon and a housecat.

The cry of a bird disturbed on its nest by some unknown creature rings out, then stops abruptly, leaving one to speculate on its meaning.

Nights in Marin are relatively quiet, but not without their small dramas.

"The operation was a complete success. . .as the autopsy will show!"

'One Man, One Vote' On Fund Bills To Avoid Budget Delay?

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — There is some concern here in Sacramento that the budget standoffs of the last two years may become the regular pattern unless some basic changes in the legislative process are made.

State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, who must sign all state warrants for pay, services and supplies, says the state has been lucky so far that no dire consequence has resulted from failure to have a budget signed into law by the end of the fiscal year on June 30, as happened last year and this.

He suggests some form of continuing appropriations, or at least continuing authority to function, since under the present system the authority of all state employees except constitutional and statutory officers expires with the fiscal year.

ALL OF THE maneuvering and all of the bargaining positions depend on the constitutional fact that it requires a two-thirds vote in each house to pass any appropriation bill, including the budget, and on the fact that the era of large majorities for either political party seems to have passed.

The Republicans outnumber Democrats in the Assembly, but only by 40 to 39, and in the Senate also, but only by 20 to 19.

Minority parties can and do withhold their votes in the hope of extracting concessions, while majority parties can and do stall proceedings in the hope that the June 30 deadline will cause some minority representatives to cave in rather than set the state adrift, fiscally.

THE DIRECT WAY to get at the problem would be to eliminate the constitutional requirement for a two-thirds vote and let the budget pass on a simple majority.

But this would raise hackles all around, despite the fact that the courts are ruling against two-thirds requirements in local bond elections at a great rate.

And cooler heads may reflect that a few new faces can change a majority into a minority, which just might want to have that handy two-thirds rule around so it could point with pride and view with alarm.

Union Disclaimers Not Convincing

In view of the many strike-connected incidents, namely, hundreds of broken windows, private residences firebombed, automobiles damaged, union members apprehended with lethal weapons in their cars or on their persons, the St. Valentine's Day demonstration, and the latest — an alleged murder attempt, the majority of the Marin citizenry has expended its patience and are on the brink of running the pickets that surround the I-J building out of our peaceful town. Shades of the frontier days when the "bad guys" were run out of town by the "good guys."

It amuses the Marin people when, after union members have been apprehended for either damaging personal property or attempting to murder law-abiding citizens, union officials are reported as stating "the union has nothing to do with these incidents." This might be true but the officials would have a hard time convincing 99 out of 100 Marin residents that the union is not the cause of all this maliciousness.

I wonder if the union officials know that the majority of Marin residents feel that the union has lost its right to picket and that the pickets should be run out of town. Sympathy for the Independent-Journal with its courageous staff of brave workers mounts each day while disdain for unions, particularly ITU Local 21. . . grows greater each hour.

In closing I wish to state that I am not anti-union, yet. I am a member of a union and am proud to say so. However, the day that my union would be accused of the things that the ITU Local 21 is accused of here by Marin residents, I would bow out and tear up my card.

Must be on my way to the blood bank!

One Club Glad To Help Another

In response to a very comprehensive and appealing feature story carried recently by the I-J, which described community service work and the financial crisis of the Boys' Club of Southern Marin, representatives of Ross Valley Kiwanis Club visited this organization and discussed the situation with Manny Chandler, the director.

We were most impressed with the very effective job that Manny and his assistants are doing for these youngsters of Marin City. Their facilities and equipment are grossly inadequate but they are using determination and resourcefulness. They offer educational, recreational and vocational assistance, and there is a desperate need for athletic, photographic and mechanical equipment and books, as well as funds to finance short vacation trips for young and deserving blacks who have never had the experience of a vacation.

The Vocational Guidance Committee of Ross Valley Kiwanis Club was pleased and gratified to make an initial donation of $300 for this very worthwhile work, and we earnestly beseech other individuals and groups to visit with and send donations to: Manny Chandler, Boys' Club of Southern Marin, 640 Drake Avenue, Marin City. . .

Strengthen U.N., Don't Drop It

The letter of July 2 by the lady from San Rafael causes me to reflect upon one of the major problems facing the United Nations: misinformed and fearful Americans.

The United Nations is not the product of the Communists. The United Nations is the most logical product of the evolution of Mankind. . .And, during these first 25 years we have seen many instances of where the UN has met with success.

The Birchers and other fear-mongering groups in this country — and abroad — would like to see the UN fall by the wayside. These groups are so hung up with their own hates and fears that they cannot see the possibility of the UN growing into a truly powerful world government wherein the problems outlined by the woman from San Rafael could be handled. . .

Financing of the UN is not, proportionately, a product of the USA's largesse. Many nations contribute much more money to the UN than the USA on a per capita basis. . .

As to the "shameful treatment of peaceloving little Rhodesia", I find little to state other than to call attention to the fact that Rhodesia practices apartheid openly, whereas in the USA we just practice it without acknowledging the practice as candidly as Rhodesia. . .

The UN has not lived up to our expectations in its first 25 years. So let us work to change it and strengthen it so it can in the next 25!

Twisting Arms For Tax Increase

Many people feel that the Novato School Board, by axing all home to school bus transportation, is "twisting our arm" to force a favorable vote in the coming tax increase election.

Since Novato has no city public transportation, is there anything wrong with operating the school busses on a paying basis to meet expenses? Very few people object to paying for something they use. Those families to whom this would present a hardship should be required to fill out a simple form stating that they are financially unable to pay, and those children should be furnished free transportation. It certainly would be a worthy project for the P-TA, not to mention the Marin Economic Opportunity Council. If that organization can't come through with some funds, perhaps they could get the laws changed so that needy, underage drivers would get permission to ride their unlicensed minibikes to school on the public streets.

Taxpayers are willing and expect to bear most of the school costs, but they have just about reached their limit. It's time California stopped being known as the "biggest give-away state in the nation."

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

Unable to talk a canny New Hampshire storekeeper into buying his line of goods, a glib salesman tried to bribe him by offering him a bottle of champagne. "Never take bribes from salesmen," said the storekeeper proudly. "If it will ease your conscience," proposed the salesman, "I'll sell you the champagne for 10 cents." "That's more like it," nodded the storekeeper. "If that's your price, I'll take six bottles."

MARQUIS CHILDS

Strident 'Patriotism' Sounds Odd Note In Rhode Island

SAUNDERSTOWN, R.I. — In this the smallest state in the union, where the ethnics have almost entirely supplanted the yankees, July 4 was observed with a special fervor. The Italian-Americans, in the majority today, feel a compulsion to testify to their patriotism.

This owes something to heightened sensitivity over the allegation that Italian names are unduly conspicuous in the crime statistics, with the Mafia and its Sicilian origins constantly in the news.

A national organization was formed with Frank Sinatra in the lead to combat what Italian-Americans consider rank defamation. In New York City, they held a big rally, with Joseph Colombo as a prominent speaker. The day following the rally he was arrested for refusing to answer questions about organized crime before a Long Island grand jury, even though he and others had been granted immunity.

BUT THE FERVOR of the patriotic response is more than an ethnic phenomenon. There is something like an inverse ratio between the rise of the troubles afflicting America, the doubts and uncertainties, and the increasingly strident insistence that all must be well. Patriotism, the decal flag, becomes a defensive mechanism, a chip on the shoulder, on the lowest level a commodity to be exploited.

That bumper sticker, "America — love it or leave it," has an odd sound in Rhode Island, or at least it does if anyone recalls the past of what was once called Providence Plantations. Roger Williams, who founded Rhode Island, was a great one to take leave when he felt the standards by which he loved it were betrayed. He is in many ways a unique figure among the founders of America.

For reasons of conscience and his religious convictions, Williams decided to emigrate from England in 1630. In Boston, and later in Plymouth, he was a pastor and teacher of religion. Soon, however, his own views were in conflict with the authoritarian overlords of the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

THIS REBEL dared to say that the civil power of a state had no jurisdiction over the consciences of men. Even more heretical was his stand that the patent of the king gave the colonists no right to the land they occupied. The land, he insisted, rightfully belonged to the Indians, who should be paid for it.

When he refused to recant, he was tried by the Massachusetts General Court, and a sentence of banishment was passed on him. An attempt was made to seize him and transport him to England.

Williams fled to Manton's Neck, and there with four companions he founded the settlement he called providence. He established friendly relations with the Indians, whose language he had learned, and he bought the land for settlement from them.

The concept of the colony was complete religious toleration, "a shelter for persons distressed for conscience." While he helped to found what is considered the first Baptist church in America, he became known as "the Seeker," with no formal religious ties.

In this gentle yet courageous man there was none of the blind patriot, the love it or leave it. He put his own conscience above both custom and law.

ENGLAND LOST thousands of men and women of conscience who found repression intolerable in the 17th and 18th centuries. Among them were the creative minds, the brains, the inspirers, the planners and the doers who set the colonies on a course of greatness.

The patriot who puts on blinders and a gag does his country small service. Over the years men of conscience with courage enough to speak out for unpopular causes, and against the dictum of the popular will when they felt it was wrong, have helped America grow in strength.

They were the abolitionists who often risked life and limb for their belief. They were men such as Gov. John P. Altgeld of Illinois, who freed the Haymarket rioters when he was convinced that their sentence of life imprisonment had come unfairly from a prejudiced jury. Denounced and denied re-election, he has been given justice by the verdict of history.

In this century, the emigrants fled the oppression and the narrow mold of poverty in Russia, Germany, Italy. They brought brains, ingenuity, inventiveness. To enforce patriotism by repression is to risk the loss of those who are the yeast of a society, the leaven in the lump of smug self-satisfaction, blind complacency.

Lambeg Drums May Call Up New Ulster Revolt

By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign News Analyst

In Belfast on July 12, the great Lambeg drums boom, Orangemen don their sashes and parade the streets with banners depicting the lion of Britain.

It is the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne in which in 1690 King William III defeated the former Catholic King James II. It is the greatest day of the Protestant political year.

THIS YEAR the British government fears it also may mark a bloody new high in the religious strife which is the tragedy of the six north Irish counties making up Ulster.

British military strength is being stepped up to more than 10,000 men, but it is feared that even this may not be enough if something like civil war erupts.

Especially worrying to the British, who have taken over responsibility for peacekeeping operations in the embattled area, is the knowledge that large quantities of arms have been smuggled into the north, including machine guns.

Some of these appear to have been used during Belfast and Londonderry rioting in the last week of June. British police say they also have identified known Irish Republican Army guerrillas among the Roman Catholic crowds during recent disturbances.

ULSTER, semi-autonomous under British rule, abounds in anniversary dates, most of which seem to point up the bitter religious differences which for most of half a century have plagued it.

Rev. Ian Paisley, the Protestant firebrand recently elected to the British Parliament from Ulster, frequently winds up his sermons with a shout of "no surrender." It is a recollection of 1689 when a Protestant garrison at Londonderry withstood a seige by Catholic soldiers.

A society called the Apprentice Boys of Derry commemorates 13 apprentices said to have slammed shut the gates of the Londonderry citadel against the approaching enemy. Today, when the society issues a statement it usually is bad news for the Catholics.

The Catholics sometimes call out "Remember 1916." It is a reference to the Easter uprising that sparked the Irish struggle for independence, and even that has its religious overtones.

ULSTER'S DREARY history of strife, then, has its roots in religion, nurtured on the Protestant side by such men as Paisley and on the Catholic side by such a 23-year-old Bernadette Devlin, who is serving a six-month jail sentence for inciting to riot and is beig hailed as a martyr. Like Paisley, she is a member of the British Parliament.

Busiest Hours, Biggest Bargains Come After The Fair Is Over

Maybe the busiest day, or at least the busiest moments, of the Marin Art and Garden Fair came after it closed. The day after closing is sale day, when nurserymen peddle their display plants at bargain prices.

"It was bedlam this morning," a fair official said Monday afternoon. Proving Marin gardeners know a good thing when they see it. Four days on display, in heat that topped 100 on occasion, left some plants wilted despite heavy watering, but nothing that tender care couldn't restore.

Toward mid-afternoon, only handfuls of flowers and plants were left, and one young man was offering fuchsias four for a dollar to save the trouble of packing them back to the store.

Too late to go buy them now, though. The locusts descended Monday morning, and even the leavings were gone by the end of the day.

There should be something sad about the closing of the last fair on the Art and Garden Center grounds, but the weather was too fine and the gardeners too cheerful to sustain such a mood.

Instead, there was a feeling of sleight-of-hand as lush green sod was rolled up in strips, banks of flowers unearthed and carted off in their separate pots, and the gazebos and garden furniture disappeared.

IN SAN ANSELMO, the city council tossed $202,107 into the pot for street repair next year, but even that sizable sum isn't all that's needed.

Hanging in the public works department's office are 43 pictures of city streets in various stages of cracking, sliding, lumpiness and general mess.

The money the council appropriated for 1970-71 was for repairing 5.03 miles of streets. The 43 pictures show the seven miles of the city's 35 miles of streets which City Engineer Charles R. Leitzell had hoped to repair this year.

Among the streets, avenues, drives and boulevards shown in disrepair were Sir Francis Drake, San Francisco, San Anselmo, San Rafael, Kensington, Tunstead, Tamalpais, Scenic, Oak Knoll, Cottage, Ridge, Valley, West, East, Suffield, Rutherford, Bennitt, Nokomis, Carlson, Pine, Saunders, Jordan, Magnolia, Meadowcroft, Morningside, Brookside, Miwok, and Hawthorne.

THAT SHOULD explain why your car rattles driving through San Anselmo, and it will also explain why you will encounter road crews all over town during the next 12 months.

The five miles for which money was appropriated includes the most badly needed projects, Leitzell said.

The figure was arrived at by compromise. Leitzell said the city's streets need repair of some sort an average of every seven years. Some may need work every second year, other none for 10 or 15.

So the council divided the 35 miles of streets by seven, got five, and earmarked the five miles most in need of repair.

With street repair, as with fire fighting and law enforcement, you never win. You just try to gain a little when you can.

Don't Ask That Question, Son–It Scares Me Too Much

WASHINGTON — "Daddy, what does the vice president of the United States do?"

"What do you mean, what does he do?"

"I mean what does he do?"

"Well, he . . . ah . . . uh . . . he raises money for his party."

"How does he do that?"

"Well, he goes to a large fund-raising dinner or a lunch, and he speaks to people in his own party who give $100 or $500 to hear him attack the other party."

"BUT WHAT DOES he do as vice president?"

"I told you what he does. He also dissents with people who dissent."

"I don't understand what dissent means."

"Well, there are a lot of people in this country who don't agree with what President Nixon is doing, and they say so. Now Vice President Agnew doesn't agree with what they're saying. So the vice president dissents with them and calls them names. Then they dissent and call him names. So he gets madder and calls them more names and so on ad infinitum."

"DOESN'T HE do anything else besides dissent?"

"There's so much dissent in the country that dissenting can be a full-time job."

"Does he help President Nixon run the country?"

"Of course not. How could he do that and still fly around raising money for the party? Oh, he sits in the Senate every once in a while just in case he has to break a tie vote, but governing the country isn't Mr. Agnew's bag. Besides, the Constitution is pretty loose about what a vice president has to do. Some play golf, others play tennis, but Agnew prefers to stay out on the road calling a spade a spade."

"DOESN'T THE PRESIDENT get mad that the vice president isn't around?"

"The President's delighted. Most Presidents of the United States never knew what to do with their vice presidents. The fact that Mr. Agnew has found a way of keeping busy pleases President Nixon no end."

"Does the vice president get paid?"

"Very well."

"You mean just for calling people names?"

"He doesn't just call people names, dummy. You see, in this country there are good apples and bad apples. The bad apples have to be separated from the good apples. No one knows who the bad apples are except the vice president. His job is to go to Republican fund-raising dinners and say, 'How about these apples. . . '"

"WHAT DOES THAT do?"

"It gets him a standing ovation."

"Who are the bad apples?"

"Who aren't is a better question. Averell Harriman for one; Cyrus Vance for another; Senators Fulbright, Church, Hatfield, McGovern; James Reston, Herb Block, effete intellectuals; the eastern-establishment press; network commentators and rotten kids and people on welfare and peaceniks. God knows how many bad apples are still in his barrel."

"If all the vice president does is separate the good apples from the bad apples, why doesn't the Republican Party pay him instead of the American government?"

"Because if anything happens to the President, the vice president takes over the country."

"What would happen then?"

"Dammit son, you ask too many questions."

Enchanted Knolls Neutral On Shelter Bay Proposal

Directors of the Enchanted Knolls Homeowners Association have decided to take a neutral position on a plan to build 192 townhouses on the hill above Shelter Ridge.

President Robert B. Rankin said Warner Odenthal, developer of the Shelter Ridge project, presented a precise plan to the association's board Tuesday. It covers the first phase of the ridgeland development, 42 acres out of the 73-acre project.

The board "looked the plan over and found nothing objectionable," Rankin said.

Directors also were informed that the association has asked Mill Valley for permission to city for the work, Rankin said. construct a redwood plank sign with routed letters for the entrances to Enchanted Knolls.

The group will reimburse the city for thw work, Rankin said. Using city facilities will lower the cost of the signs, he said.

The resignations of two directors, Secretary Shirley Griffin and Rev. Howard Scholten, were accepted, and Rankin said the board will seek to fill the vacancies.

Parents To Follow In Footsteps Of Marin Fish And Chips King

If the name C.H. Salt sounds familiar — it should, except perhaps for the initials.

This is the father of H. Salt Esquire, who migrated to Marin County four or five years ago and made his fortune in fish and chips. The senior Salt and his wife came to Marin in their son's wake, returned to England and then came back again to make it permanent. They are now occupying their son's original residence in San Rafael.

Salt Sr. has also gone into business and was hoping to open an imported candy shop, English Confectionery, on Market Street, San Francisco this week. He has leased warehouse space in San Rafael in contractor Johnny Ribeiro's new building at Tiburon and Belvedere Streets through William Hoey and Co.

The younger Salt, by the way, is spending some time here this summer instead of Louisville, Ky., his fish and chips headquarters.

IN THE SAME BUILDING, Hoey and William Root of Grubb and Ellis have leased space to Greg Arts, San Rafael candle manufacturer. This is an expansion of that business, which will still retain its quarters at 658 Irwin Street.

And Robert A. Currie of Mill Valley has also leased space here from Hoey for a new venture, Bob's Automotive Service, to open about Aug. 1. He has been a service station operator.

SOMETIME LATE THIS YEAR, Optoelectronics, Inc., now at 4380 Redwood Highway, Northgate Industrial Park, will move into a new and larger plant at 4340 Redwood Highway.

The firm, engaged in the research and manufacture of infrared optical sensing devices, will lease 20,000 square feet in a bnilding to be constrncted for Dohemann and Co., the developer. This will be the first phase of a 30,000-square foot building development.

WILLIAM H. JOHNSON of Tiburon, vice president and manager of the personnel department at Crocker-Citizens National Bank, has been appointed a senior vice president. He will continue to supervise statewide personnel functions, which he has done since 1966. He originally joined the bank's predecessor, Anglo California National Bank. Through successive appointments he became vice president and manager of the California division of Business Development before taking over the personnel department.

Montana Power Can Offer Promising Growth Outlook

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am considering the purchase of 150 shares of Montana Power Co. What is the growth potential for these shares and do you consider them a good income holding? — T.F.

A. Montana Power, an electric and gas supplier, offers a generous and secure income as well as gradual appreciation potential. Shares are selling at a reasonable 11 times multiple of 1970 earnings estimated at $2.50 a share. In the first quarter, net gained 10 per cent, in line with improvement projected for full year results. Realization of this improvement could foster further liberalization of the 42-cent quarterly dividend disbursement. Directors in the past decade have paid out an average 72 per cent of earnings in dividends.

Construction plans call for expenditures of $125 million in the 1970-1975 period. Although additional financing will be required to complete the projected construction program, sale of equity securities is not contemplated.

Montana Power's earnings are expected to grow at a 6 per cent annual rate. However, coal mining operations carried on by a subsidiary could be an important factor in upgrading this growth rate in the future.

Q. Please give me your opinion of Keystone S-3 fund. Most of my savings are in that fund. — J.B.

A. Having all your eggs in one basket, so to speak, is never a wise plan, regardless of the merits of the particular investment vehicle. You should give serious thought to switching some of your capital to a fund with different investment goals and methods, in order to spread your risk.

Keystone Growth Common Stock Fund Series S-3 has had a creditable performance record for the past decade. In 1969 and for the first five months of 1970, Keystone S-3 outperformed an average of all funds. Net asset value declined in the respective periods 14 per cent and 21 per cent while the average of all growth funds dropped 16 per cent and 28 per cent.

The most recently released list of Keystone's portfolio transactions shows considerable upgrading in its holdings. This fund's comparatively high-grade portfolio should continue to outperform the average as the market recovers.

Stock Spurt Continues In Brisk Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market headed for another strong finish today in brisk trading.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which spurted more than 12½ points Wednesday, was up almost 10 points with about an hour to go.

The UPI Market Indicator, measuring all stocks traded, showed a gain of 1.64 per cent on 1,517 issues crossing the tape. Of these, 1,037 advanced and 276 declined.

A four-hour turnover of 9,800,000 shares compared with 7,910,000 shares traded at a comparable period Wednesday.

Analysts said much of the demand was carried over from Wednesday. But they noted that investors also were cheered by hope that interest rates have peaked, Defense Secretary Melvin Laird's assertion that the United States will "beat" President Nixon's troop withdrawal plan for Vietnam, and a Soviet peace proposal for the Middle East.

In addition, there was growing speculation that the Federal Reserve Board may soon move to make money more available.

One analyst said the Fed is probably close to another credit easing move and what has been hinted at is a possible reduction in bank reserve requirements.

Another analyst suggested that there seemed to be an overnight change in investors' sentiment. He said that part of this change may have resulted from feeling that Washington has broken the back of inflation.

Dr. Thomas G. Gies, a University of Michigan economist, said Wednesday there are signs the rate of inflation is slowing and he expects the DJIA to rise above the 800 level by September or October.

Northwest Airlines was the day's most active stock with more than a million shares traded. It traded a block of 1,020,000 shares at 14½, off ¼, making it the second largest block traded in the history of the New York Stock Exchange. The biggest was a block of 1,153,700 shares of Alcan Aluminum on Oct. 31, 1967.

Also on the most active list were Massey-Ferguson, North American Car, International Nickel, Texaco, and Boeing. The last was awarded a lucrative Air Force contract for an airborne warning system.

Prices also gained in moderately active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Belvedere, Tiburon Stands Stall Southern Marin Sewer Proposal

Plans for the Marin Municipal Water District to get into the sewage business were stalled last night.

The district board continued until Aug. 12 a public hearing on its resolution of intention to create an improvement district to provide sewerage facilities for all Southern Marin areas draining into Richardson Bay.

The plan has run into trouble because the Tiburon Sanitary District board and the Belvedere City Council have expressed opposition to their areas being included in the proposed district.

The resolution of intention wnich the board passed last month defines the area to be included. William R. Seeger, general manager of the water district, said yesterday that if Belvedere and the Tiburon Sanitary District, which comprise 10 per cent of the proposed district, are excluded, the water district would have to kill the resolution of intention and start over again.

Seeger said the law requires that the boundaries of the improvement district when formed cannot vary more than 5 per cent from the boundaries defined in the resolution of intention.

If Belvedere and the Tiburon Sanitary District cannot be wooed into the proposed district, Seeger said the water district board could pass a resolution of formation, including the two areas, anyway.

If less than 10 per cent of the voters in the proposed district protested, the district would be formed in 31 days.

If more than 10 per cent protested, he said, an election would have to be called and a majority vote needed to form the improvement district.

At the request of Dr. William A. Hargreaves, representing Tamalpais Community Services District, and with Seeger concurring, the water board continued the public hearing.

Hargreaves is president of an advisory committee appointed by the water board and made up of representatives of the sanitary districts in the proposed improvement district.

He said the month's delay would allow the advisory committee, which has met only twice, to meet at least once more to discuss the plans and would also allow time to attempt to persuade Belvedere and the Tiburon district to change their minds.

The improvement district plan was given support last night by the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin. Martha Fleischmann, representing the group, urged the water board to form the improvement district as defined in its resolution of intention.

Daniel F. Murphy, area engineer with the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board, represented the regional board's executive officer, Fred H. Dierker, at the meeting.

He commended Marin County and the water district for their actions toward development of a water quality control plan for the Richardson Bay area, and suggested that consideration be given to continued discharge of waste materials into the bay following "fail-safe" treatment for the removal of nutrients, toxicants and bacteria.

He added that the staff of the water quality board will recommend to the board by October upgraded requirements for the disposal of wastes into Richardson Bay.

The water board adjourned to its regular meeting at 1:30 p.m. Aug. 12 with the intention of continuing the public hearing at 8 p.m. that day.

Water Bond Election Help Costs Worry Water Board

The retention of a San Francisco financial consultant was approved in principle yesterday by the Marin Municipal Water District board.

However, the fee schedule proposed by the firm, Stone and Youngberg, was rejected by the board.

The firm will assist the district with its $50 million bond election program.

Stone and Youngberg proposed that it be paid a flat daily rate for some of its work plus a percentage of the bonds sold.

On the percentage schedule, William R. Seeger, general manager of the water district, estimated the firm would make $92,000 from the $11 million bond election scheduled for this November.

The water board directed Seeger to negotiate a revised contract with the firm.

The board did approve the retention of the San Francisco law firm of Orrick, Herrington, Rowley and Sutcliffe as legal counsel for the November bond election.

The company will be paid between $1,000 and $1,500 for preparing the calling and holding of the bond election, and a maximum of $15,000 for preparing for the issuance and sale of the bonds.

The Marin Municipal Water District board also:

TANK — Received, but held for review, bids on the construction of the Escalle water tank in Larkspur.

BIDS — Accepted low bids of $4,700 from Maggiora and Ghilotti Inc. of Corte Madera for piping to the Escalle tank site, and $3,000 from Brown-Ely Co. of San Rafael for the installation of an asphalt ring and sand pad at the site.

SUPPLIES — Awarded to the low bid opened last week of $16,076 for the purchase of 20 tons of copper sulfate from Wilson and George Meyer Co. of South San Francisco.

COMPRESSOR — Rejected four bids received last week for the purchase of an air compressor for Nicasio Lake on the recommendation of the district staff that an alternative method of improving water quality at the lake be considered.

PAYMENTS — Authorized final payment of $686 to Zoellner Construction Co. of Ross for the construction of toilets at Lake Lagunitas; a progress payment of $20,612 to Maggiora and Ghilotti Inc. for water main relocations, and progress payments and a final payment, totaling $11,485, to San Anselmo contractor Earl E. Gilson for four water main renewal jobs.

Arrest Correction

Dennis Victor Chesley, 20, and Robert Sterling Evans, 22, both of San Rafael, were arrested June 10 in the driveway of a house at 283 Crescent Road, San Anselmo. The Independent-Journal erroneously reported Tuesday that the two, who are facing charges of attempted burglary, were arrested inside the house.

Traffic Officers Nab Angela Davis

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Angela Davis, a UCLA philosophy instructor fired by the University of California Board of Regents last month in a controversy over her membership in the Communist Party, was arrested on outstanding traffic warrants Wednesday night.

Police said Miss Davis, 26, was stopped by officers because the tail light on her vehicle was not working. A routine check disclosed she was wanted on five traffic warrants, four for parking violations and one for not having her drivers license and vehicle registration papers in her possession.

Miss Davis was booked and released after posting $103.50 bond.

Convict Is Sent To Vacaville

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court has sent convicted kidnapper Cheston Hope Markham, 23, of San Rafael to the state Department of Corrections medical facility at Vacaville for a 90-day evaluation period.

Markham was convicted by a jury in June of kidnapping a San Rafael woman on April 9, threatening her with a knife and stealing her car.

The woman said that he forced her into her car in a San Rafael apartment house parking lot, made her accompany him to Novato and threatened to rape her there.

She said he released her when she told him her husband, brother and father would kill him if he raped her.

Foes Of Lower Voting Age See Victory

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Opponents of a bill to lower the voting age from 21 to 18 claim they have enough support in the Louisiana House of Representatives to kill the bill when it comes to a vote today.

The State Senate passed the bill last month.

Rep. H. B. Dejean of Opelousas, the leading opponent of the bill, said it would be a dangerous law because it would give adult responsibilities to youths. The bill's opponents amended the bill to give 18-year-olds and over full legal responsibilities.

The amendment also lowered the minimum age requirement for state senators to 21.

"It's going to be close," Rep. Francis Lauricella said of today's vote. Lauricella is the bill's sponsor in the House.

But opponents and legislative observers felt the bill had little chance of winning the two-thirds majority.

"We all have a tendency to rush through life," said Rep. Fred Stinson, another of the bill's opponents. "It's a mistake. They (18-year-olds) shouldn't be interested in trying to vote. They should be interested in being teen-agers."

"I submit to you that the minds of our children are guided by the misguided professors in many instances," DeJean said.

"Most of the radicals on the college campuses today are profesisonals and they're not 18-years-old—they're from 25 to 30," answered Rep. Shady Wall.

"It's only because I'm old fashioned in my thinking that I want to maintain my authority over my children and I'm going to do it whether this bill passes or not," DeJean said. "This is a very dangerous, dangerous thing and I'm sitting here pleading with you not to pass this bill."

Legislature Votes Open Meeting Bill

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill barring public meetings in facilities that discriminate on the basis of race, religious creed, color, national origin, ancestry or sex has won final approval by the Legislature and gone to Gov. Ronald Reagan for his signature.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, introduced the bill after a woman reporter was barred from a governor's conference in a Sacramento club that does not admit women.

The bill would apply to both state and local agencies, and would include any "meeting, conference or other function."

Local Agency Commission Drops Rule On Annexation To Cities

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission washed its hands of a 2-year-old sewerage dispute last night by repudiating a long-time stand to push annexation to cities.

The board voted 3-1, with one abstention, to drop a provision that 14 homes along Lucky Drive in Greenbrae on the south bank of Corte Madera Creek must be annexed into Corte Madera in order to join the Corte Madera Sanitary District and to obtain sewers.

The board originally failed to get the necessary three votes to overturn its two-year policy when new member, Councilman Roy Farrington Jones of Ross, abstained and Chairman Hugh G. Marchant voted to uphold it.

However, an alternate, Mayor Neil R. Brixon of Larkspur, who lives across the creek from the area in question, came forward from the audience to cast the deciding vote after Marchant said he was eligible.

Feeling that he was ineligible to vote on the matter, Brixon previously had urged Jones to reconsider his abstention and invited him down to the creek to smell the raw sewage being discharged from the homes. "He would not want this in Ross," Brixon boomed to applause from the few affected homeowners present.

Brixon and two other members, county Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Louis H. Baar, said the sewerage problem should take precedence over the annexation disagreement and urged the commission to move before the Bay Area Water Quality Control Board does.

A letter from the board to the commission urged prompt action.

After the vote, Marchant told David Jordan of 22 Lucky Drive, the owners spokesman, "Now you're all clear until you get to the (Corte Madera) city council."

He said later, "As a practical matter, I don't think we accomplished anything," but Bear countered, "I think that what we did was take the onus off the LAFC."

Marchant said the owners in the area — regardless of the commission decision — would have to hash out a contract with the sanitary district allowing them to connect into the district for a fee if they build their own lines.

He said the Corte Madera Sanitary District board, which is made up of town council members, would never agree to annexation to the district without annexation to the city.

A letter from Corte Madera Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher to the commission indicated the district wouldn't budge from its stand so commission removal of the annexation requirement would be an idle act.

The commission has no power to make the Corte Madera Sanitary District accept the 27 parcels, executive officer John F. Barrows told the commissioners.

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission also:

COLLEGE PARK — Approved the correction of subdivision lines along College and Magnolia avenues in the College Park Subdivision of Kentfield.

NOVATO — Approved the annexation by Novato of four parcels totalling less than an acre along Santana Drive in the Bahia section; 23.8 acres between Wilson Avenue and McClay Road opposite Sinaloa High School, and 10 acres along South Novato Boulevard near Stone Drive.

MODIFICATION — Granted a modification to the city of Larkspur on an East Drake Boulevard annexation that frees the city from hearings, notice and election because there is written agreement between the owner and the city.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to the next meeting tentatively scheduled for Aug. 3 at 8 p.m. in the supervisor's chambers of the Civic Center.

Bolinas Hearing On Sewage Plan

A public hearing to consider establishing boundary lines for an assessment district for a sewage treatment system will be held by directors of the Bolinas Public Utility District tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the district office, 270 Elm Road.

Clerk Jane Boyer said the meeting is to determine which residents in which areas of the community will be connected to sewer lines in the planned district.

The joint project, in conjunction with the Stinson Beach County Water District, will include construction of a common sewage treatment plan. Each district will construct and pay for its own lines, Mrs. Boyer said.

Youth In Park Killed By Dope

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Coroner Henry W. Turkel reports that an overdose of narcotics killed an unidentified young man whose body was found in Golden Gate Park.

The victim, found Tuesday, wore an undershirt, dark trousers and shoes. He had a drooping moustache, a goatee and his upper body was heavily tattooed, with the word "Mom" on his left arm.

Sgt. Jerry Thompson, 21, of Travis Air Force Base had called police when he saw two small cars rendezvous in the park, heard doors slam and then had seen them disappear. As he drove closer he discovered the blanket-covered body.

Novato Fire Panel Opens Hose Bids

The Novato Fire District board last night opened three bids for new hose and then turned the bids over to the staff for study, according to fire chief Jack Kidder.

The bids were for 3,200 feet of three-inch hose; 2,000 feet of 2.5-inch hose, and 1,800 feet of 1.5-inch hose.

The companies bidding and their bids on the three lots of hose were American Rubber Manufacturer of Oakland, $6,336, $1,310 and $1,602; Curtis and Sons of Oakland, $6,816, $1,280 and $1,512, and Western Fire Equipment Co. of Brisbane, $7,264, $1,390 and $1,548.

The board will hold a special meeting, time and date to be set, to award the contracts and discuss salaries, Kidder said.

The board also promoted John Church and Ray Dougherty to the next step increasing their salaries from $870 to $885 per month and firemen Albert Arendell, John Demers, Larry Glines and Richard Valentine from $760 to $790 per month.

Case Transferred

The case of Dennis Keith West, 18, of San Rafael, has been transferred to juvenile court from Marin Municipal Court. He is accused of possessing marijuana in Larkspur on June 8 when stopped in a speeding truck.

Heat Wave Hits Britain: Apes Eat Ice Cream

LONDON (UPI)—Unseasonably hot temperatures prevailed throughout Britain Tuesday. It was 90 in some places and as a result:

—Apes at Chessington Zoo were fed ice cream. Zookeepers brought in ice for the polar bears.

—A Birmingham candy factory closed and workers were sent me because chocolate sent home because chocolate would not harden in the molds.

—Blacktop roads softened in York and maintenance crews spread sand so the cars would not get stuck in the melting tar.

—Pigs at the Royal Agriculture Show at Kenilworth lay panting with heat exhaustion.

Novato Is Refused On Try To Relocate 101 Overpass

The state Division of Highways has rejected the City of Novato's suggestion to move the San Marin Drive-Atherton Avenue overpass 200 feet north, District Engineer Alan S. Hart told the Independent-Journal yesterday.

Hart said there were many considerations in rejecting the suggestion, such as a year's delay in getting new right-of-way, redesigning the overpass, poorer flow of traffic and approximately $1 million added expenses.

No member of the Novato City Council had talked to him about the change, Hart said. He added that he was willing to meet with the council at any time to discuss it.

"We have been in agreement in the past on this interchange until the present council suddenly wanted this change," Hart said.

A letter explaining the state division's position was sent to City Mgr. Charles Brown last Friday, Hart said. Rejection of the city's plan leaves the next move to the city council, he said.

Hart conceded that the proposed change would alter a 125-foot cut to a 40-foot cut, but said it would require fill slopes which would be a greater eyesore than the cut.

"Another unaesthetic feature of the city's plan is the concrete retaining walls required to keep the new ramp fill off the frontage road," Hart wrote to Brown. Raising the Atherton Avenue profile over the freeway would also be unaesthetic, according to Hart.

The change would cause the "loss of 1,400 feet of frontage road" which would be unreasonably high.

He estimated the change would require an additional five acres of land which would have to be acquired by the state.

A major concern of the state engineers who studied the change would be altering the movement of traffic in 11 places, all detrimental. Only two movements of traffic would be improved Hart said.

"All 11 changes are more dangerous; so when the whole picture of traffic service is considered, the city's plan is clearly inferior," wrote Hart.

Wrong-way driving is invited in the city's plan, as in all plans which feature nonsymmetrical interchanges, the engineers reported.

"A delay of at least one year in completion of the bypass project will unreasonably deny the traveling public the economic and traffic safety benefits which they will derive from the freeway," Hart reported.

Parks Panel Again Hits Supervisors

The Marin County Park and Recreation Commission, frequently critical of the board of supervisors for overruling its recommendations, resumed the attack yesterday.

"I'm glad my term is up next year," said commissioner Lothar Salin. "I've had about as much as I can take. I've never seen a board of supervisors this arbitrary."

Salin was referring to a board decision Tuesday against spending $15,000 to add five acres to the Tiburon Uplands Nature Preserve above the Tiburon Oceanography Center. The funds, originally appropriated in 1969-70, were to have bought surplus government land, but Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell wouldn't approve carrying over the funds to 1970-71 and the board said the expenditure was of low priority.

The commission also criticized board refusal to accept a recommendation by County Administrator Alan Bruce to add a park superintendent to the 1970-71 park and recreation budget and the supervisors' decision — against commission wishes — to permit temporary fencing of a path along Corte Madera Creek in Kentfield that had been used as a pedestrian and bicycle trail.

"I wonder how many supervisors have taken the time to tour the county parks to see the work that is required," said commissioner Leroy Gerner.

The commission directed staff to investigate the cost of acquiring an easement along Corte Madera Creek at the spot where Allan Larkins of 19 Stadium Way was awarded an encroachment permit to erect a fence to protect his property from trespassers.

In other matters, the commission asked to become more involved in planning the Marin Art and Garden Fair and said it will begin planning festivities for the official opening of McNears Beach Park on Aug. 22.

AFTER THREE years of wishing she could afford a houseboat Anne Schoonover decided to build one herself. She has been working since last fall and plans to move in next month. The windows and doors came from an old hospital building being demolished near Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco where she is a speech therapist. (I-J photo by Jim Kean)

Building Herself A House On The Bay

By BETH GAEDDERT

When Anne Schoonover gets a pay check she doesn't go to the nearest shopping center to spend it unless it has a lumber yard.

A speech therapist at Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco, Anne is building her own houseboat in Sausalito.

For the last three years she would come wandering down to the docks wishing she could afford to live on the water. Last summer after an unsuccessful search for a houseboat she could remodel, "I just got the idea to build one," she said. "I toyed with the idea and began solving the problems in my head that are involved with building one."

This summer it is almost ready for occupancy.

Anne designed the split-level houseboat built over a World War II open-hull landing craft with the help of "a friend who had designed everything from a car to a plane." Some mistakes were made in the planning stages, she admits, due to her inexperience as a builder.

But the biggest hurdle so far has been meeting county building requirements. Having studied the building codes, Anne is listed as the contractor on all the permits.

"THE MORE I looked the more I learned about cement hulls, wood hulls, steel hulls and boats and generators," she said. All the requirements are needed for safety, Anne believes, however, they are more house oriented than boat-like. "It's a good reason why people can't build their own houses. You have to have 15 inches above this pipe, vents for this and traps for that."

Although she says costs will probably amount to twice what she counted on, "In the end I'll probably end up spending far less than I would for an equivalent boat."

Her estimates were off when it came to the amount of raw lumber needed. "My fantasies of what it would be like to build a houseboat weren't very accurate," she said. She used common lumber—lots of two-by-four plywood.

ON SUNNY DAYS friends arrive from San Francisco with hammers and saws ready to work (and play) on the boat. But "every so often when costs were going up and things were costing about twice as much as I thought," she said she got discouraged. "But I'd just go back to my picture of what it will look like when it's finished."

In order to be closer to the new boat during building Anne moved into a smaller one on Gate Six. That way "when the winds come roaring down the docks" in the middle of the night, she can check the boat's moorings.

Like her neighbors Anne is irked that insurance is only available for houseboats at very high premiums.

"There's some myth about houseboats," she said. "We consider them safer than other boats (which can be insured) because we don't use gasoline. We use natural gas, which is the same as used in a house — it's just another house, especially now that they're inspected for wiring and other things."

AMONG HER neighbors are people who never work and will never have to, families, professional working people, artists and single people like herself. Although the proximity of dwellers is about the same as at the Mill Valley apartment house she used to live in, the atmosphere is entirely different.

"I can feel it when I go back to visit my roommates," she said. "It's so sterile." Houseboat people all turn out to help a fellow boater in trouble in bad weather but none care what life style his neighbor pursues, she says.

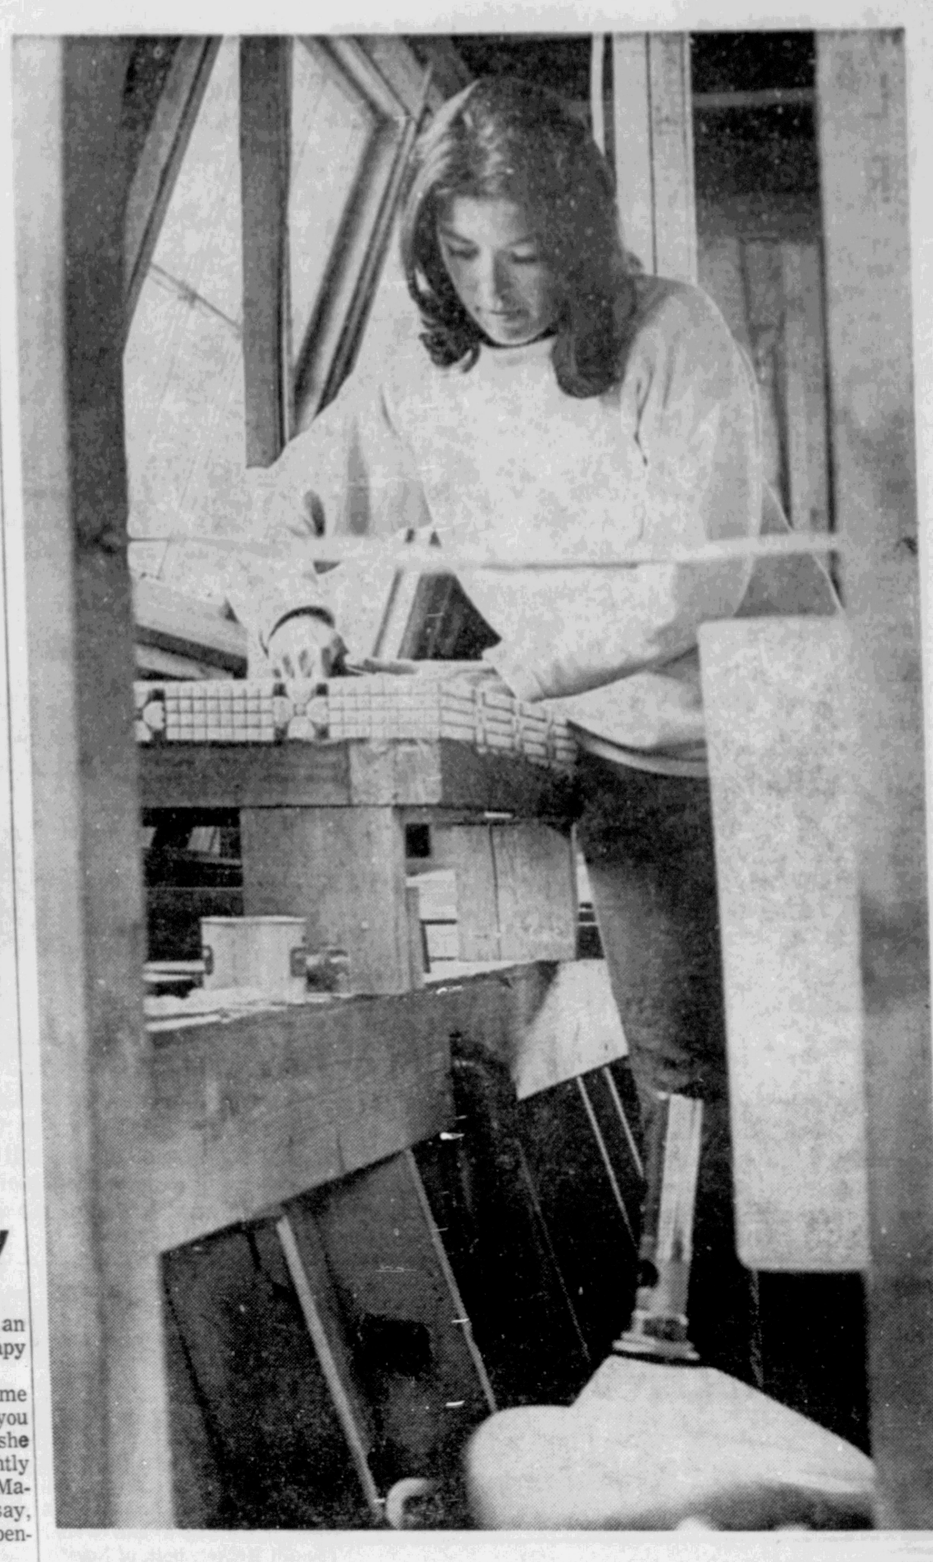
A group of Gate Six residents are involved in a dock clean up project which is well under way. It will include a plan which has to be approved by the county and Bay Area planners and Anne is head of the playground planning.

To Anne who has lived on or near water all her life, houseboat dwelling is only natural. She grew up in Long Island in New York and near a small Michigan lake. At the age of six she and her brother had their first sailboat.

She's a graduate of San Diego State College and has an M.A. degree in speech therapy from Stanford.

"It gets a little tiresome being a carpenter when you start looking like one," she said referring to a few slightly bashed fingers. At one big Marin lumber supply they say, "Here comes that lady carpenter again," she says.

THE MAIN room of Anne's Sausalito houseboat is viewed from the sleeping loft. With the help of six paid labors for the technical aspects, Anne built the houseboat over a surplus landing craft.



CLIPPING TILES around what will be the bathroom sink is Anne Schoonover who is building a houseboat in Sausalito, She admits to a few planning mistakes like some plumbing in the bathroom that had to be redone last week after a plumbing inspector took a tour.

Christening Plans For 'Victoriana'

By MOLLY MARIN

The Marin Yacht Club in San Rafael will be the scene of a large champagne christening party for the "Victoriana," the new 56-foot diesel yacht of the Thomas Marshalls of Kent Woodlands. Some 150 guests are expected to attend the Saturday afternoon affair, when Mrs. Marshall will break the bottle of champagne across the vessel's bow.

Unusual features of the yacht are its catamaran hull and turn-of-the-century interior with red tasseled curtains, Victorian carpet, walnut paneling and gaslight styled lighting fixtures. Double staterooms forward are done in gold crushed velvet with draperies over the bunks of one and the other in blue with matching carpets.

The Marshalls took possession of the Victoriana over a month ago and last weekend made their first long cruise aboard her to the delta where they were guests at the Delta Yacht Club.

After the christening the Marshalls plan to moor the Victoriana in San Rafael and San Francisco and look forward to bay cruising throughout the summer.

The yacht was built in Wisconsin, shipped west by rail, and its fitting-out was completed in the East Bay.

MRS. ALBERT F. Budde and her daughter, Alexa, of Petaluma have returned home from three weeks in Italy, where they spent most of their time on Capri. They also visited in London and Rome. Alexa will be a freshman at the University of California at Davis in the fall.

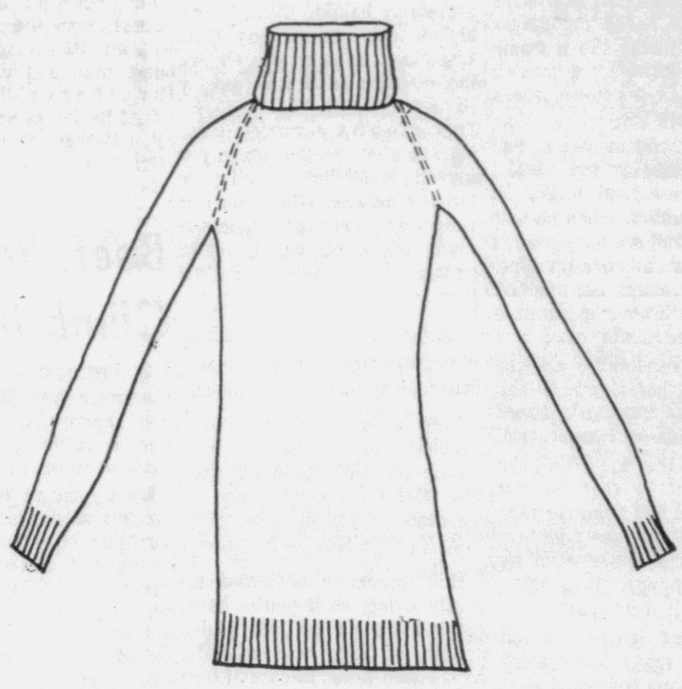
NOW LIVING in Davis are Mr. and Mrs. Grant Tanner, who were married June 20 in a garden ceremony at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Russell Lane in Marinwood. The former Jill Lane is a Terra Linda High School and College of Marin graduate. Grant, the son of the Edward Tanners of Corte Madera, is a San Rafael Military Academy, College of Marin and Sonoma State College graduate and he is taking graduate work in philosophy and psychology at the University of California at Davis.

Pam Gunderson Engaged To Lindy C. Backman II

Pam Gunderson's engagement to Lindy C. Backman II has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gunderson of Petaluma. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lindy C. Backman of Cotati.

Pam, who is the sister of Jan Gunderson of Petaluma and Wayne Gunderson of Sebastopol, is a graduate of Petaluma High School. She attended Santa Rosa Junior College and is employed with Petaluma General Hospital.

Lindy is stationed with the Army in Vietnam. He is also a graduate of Petaluma High School. Mr. and Mrs. Orvil Cooper of San Rafael and Mr. and Mrs. Dan D'Angelo of Rohnert Park are his grandparents and he is the brother of Connie Pagni of Chico and Ben and Joel Backman of Cotati.



This is a how-many-do-you-have?

Three? Five? Eight? You can't have too many, you know. Because it's really hard to dress these days without a bunch of turtlenecks. Not only are they super looking. And warm. But nothing fills in a neckline quite like them. And that includes pantsuit necklines and suitsuit necklines and raincoat necklines and furcoat necklines. Which is why we have lots of turtlenecks. Nice skinny shaped-to-the body ones. Some ribbed. Some not. In lots of juicy new colors. So, how many do you have? We'll bet at least two more than you have right now after you see our collection.

THE WOMEN TAKE REVENGE

Women's liberation movement members fought back against the Milk Foundation's use of shapely young bodies to promote the product with the slogan "Everybody Needs Milk" by painting their own message on this Minneapolis, Minn., billboard. The identity of the "artists" is unknown. The milk promotion is part of a national campaign. Advertisers who use illustrations of shapely women to sex-sell their products are increasingly targets of women's liberationists across the country.

Elegant Trend In Hairstyles

By CAROLYN A. BOWERS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Elegance will rule the waves in hairstyles this fall, to harmonize with the soft, languid midi length clothes.

Hair trends are taking on a new appreciation for the ladylike look that has been missing too long, says Mamie Scott, styles director for the hair fashion committee of the 60,000 member National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

Miss Scott said styles in general will be simple and flowing, giving a softly defined silhouette. Lengths will be "convenient"—that is, long enough to add a hairpiece, but short enough to outline the head.

Although wigs are expected to be very much a part of the fall scene, Miss Scott said that because of the lack of variation in most wigs, there will be an increase in the use of more versatile hairpieces like the postiche.

Helene Curtis introduced two styles—the "electric" and the "rich" peasant—during this week's shows of new fashion collections to visiting reporters from around the nation.

The peasant shape took a center part. Sides were fashioned into lots and lots of tiny braids which were twirled into huge rings set over the ears, like a radio operator tuned in and turned on.

The electric look truly was a "hair raising" story style. Hair was brushed up and out until it stood on its own.

For the black woman who may prefer to stay with a "natural style", the forecast was for a softer and more versatile "Afro", according to Bernice Calvin, an NHCA member and publisher of a black beauty trade magazine.

Miss Calvin said the softness and versatility would come from using a permanent "relaxer" as a base and then setting the hair on very tiny rollers. The result would be a healthier, fuller "Afro" which then could be rinsed and reset on larger rollers for a straight, smooth look.

At a Remington-sponsored beauty show this week, there were new coiffures inspired by the bakery. They were called cruller, croissant, brioche, cinnamon swirl, bagel and jelly doughnut.

Hair shaped this way was parted in the center, rolled at the sides or back into whatever baker shape you desired. Sides draped back like birds' wings over the ears.

Every cosmetics house eyed the midi in planning its new lines. Helena Rubinstein, for instance, introduced the "youngette" face. The look: lips, cheeks and eyes blended in tones and touched with soft colors, as in a lilac haze with an underbrush of palest pink.

Such a look, according to a spokesman, is right for the midi era—which marks the end of harshness achieved via plastics, clunky shoes, tons of hair, charcoal eyes, no lip color and too short skirts.

Miss Scott said that eyes will be soft with very little use of contrasting colors in eye shadow. Individual eyelashes will be added where needed, rather than the whole eyelash strip, she said. Warm colors will be used in lipsticks, which will give moist looks, but not the very wet wet, she added.

HAIR TRENDS FOR the midi skirt era are toward the more elegant, but if wigs are to your liking the newest way to wear a fall is in the rich peasant, left, or the electric look. At left the peasant look takes the center part of the fall and fashioning the sides into braids which are twirled into huge rings over the ears. For the hair-raising electric look, the hair is brushed up and out until it stands on its own.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Father Is Frightened, Insecure And A Terribly Worried Man

DEAR HELEN:

I am 16 and have the same problem as many other girls: My father. Today we had another fight. He called me vulgar names and thinks I'm a tramp because I like to go downtown every day. In this town, that's not going very far.

He reads wild stories in bad magazines about high school sex clubs, etc. and thinks all kids are maniacs. When he tells me to read and see for myself, I won't because this doesn't apply to me. That makes him madder. You see, my brother got in trouble. He figures I will, too.

We are constantly arguing about my friends, where and what they do. They're a bunch of normal clean-cut Americans.

Dad has the idea that he doesn't count — that he just pays the bills and Mom runs the rest. This because she takes my side once in a while when he goes on a rampage. These fights are tearing all of us apart.

Please don't ignore this as just another soggy letter from another unhappy teen-aged girl. Maybe I'm lucky because I get almost everything money can buy, but please tell me, how much does love cost? — NADINE

DEAR NADINE:

Love costs your father almost more than he can manage because he pays for it with fear. He is a frightened, insecure, terribly worried man who won't let himself trust — because he might be hurt again.

Teens can't cure problem-fathers by fighting them, for rebellion only strengthens their suspicions. But they can change the situation (if it isn't too far advanced) with "UN-THINK." That means reversing those built-up attitudes that make you see spite and hate in all your father's actions. When you can understand that his meanness is really misplaced caring, you're on your way towards solving the problem.

Choose a time when things are comparatively quiet at your house and just start talking.

Note to Other Teens With Problem Parents: Be sure you choose the right time for that talk. Never try it when one or the other of you is smoldering from a recent hurt. — H.

Hot Dishwasher

Water in the dishwasher must be at least 140 degrees so the water heater should be set higher — about 150 or 160 degrees. The greater the distance between the dishwasher and the water heater, the higher the heater should be set.

Catholics Plan March But Shun Orangemen

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Roman Catholic leaders called today for Catholic protest marches this weekend to protest alleged British army brutality. The Protestants are planning huge Orange Day parades Monday to celebrate a battle over Catholics nearly 300 years ago.

The Catholics said they would not march in Belfast and that the marches would not coincide with the Protestant celebrations of the victory of the Battle of the Boyne. But both parades raised the specter of new bloody clashes between the rival groups.

Catholics have accused the British army of brutality and of looting during searches of Catholic neighborhoods for illegal arms in the Falls Road area last week. Britain and the Northern Ireland government agreed to investigate the charges.

A spokesman for the Roman Catholic Civil Rights Association said they hoped 50,000 marchers would turn out for the demonstrations which would march through both Protestant and Catholic areas.

The announcement of the Catholic parades came in the wake of a statement by Northern Ireland's minister of commerce, Roy Bradford, that the country's economy could not stand further rioting and violence.

In London, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, said he prayed that tolerance and reconciliation would prevail in Northern Ireland during the weekend.

Lucchesi Park Tree Planting Is Delayed

Tree planting plans at Lucchesi Park were delayed last night by the Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission when it agreed to consider another baseball diamond for the park.

Vincent Mamone, representing parents of eastside youngsters, said a study is being made on the formation of a third little league. He said a survey is under way now to determine how many boys will be eligible to participate in the new league.

The commission, which had begun a study of tree plantings, said they would await the report and hold a special meeting later this month to consider another baseball diamond.

The Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission also:

TENNIS — Approved a tennis lesson program to be offered to residents over the age of 10. Lessons will begin Tuesday and end Aug. 6. Instructor Richard Van Auken said students must furnish their own racquets.

LIGHTING — Heard Commissioner Raymond Roccaleoni report that he is preparing a written report on park lighting. He said the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. is studying the need to update park lighting and will be included in the report.

FUNDS — Heard Richard W. Schollenberger, recreation director, report that letters of intent to apply for federal funds have been submitted. He said it will not be known for at least three months if the city can qualify for federal assistance in park acquisition and development.

Mill Valley Rights Panel Backs Alto Bowl Cottages

A resolution supporting a proposal by Cal-Fong Investment Co. to build 120 garden cottages in Mill Valley's Alto Bowl was passed last night by the city's human rights commission.

Commissioner Roger J. Fleischmann said the resolution was adopted 4-1, with Robert House opposing it and William Williams and Lynn Jessup absent. The Mill Valley City Council rejected the Cal-Fong proposal Monday.

The resolution reads: "The human rights commission believes the preservation of open space and the development of low and moderate cost housing are of primary importance to the future development of Mill Valley. We believe that the Cal-Fong proposal will promote these objectives and urge the city council to reconsider its rejection of the proposal."

The commission also appointed Fleischmann to serve on a citizens group set up to advise the police-community relations committee of the Marin County human rights commission.

No charges were filed in Marin Municipal Court Tuesday against Jerry Wayne Hurd, 19, of Vallejo, and Wymone Walker, 19, of San Rafael, arrested Monday after a dispute over damages from an auto accident a short time ago.

A San Rafael man said they had forced him to sign a $100 note and then stole his car after they claimed he owed them money for damages to Walker's car.

Charges Get Dropped In Drug Sale Case

Charges of selling LSD and benzedrine against James Allen Byrd, 22, of Santa Rosa, were dropped yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court for lack of evidence.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon ordered the dismissal when reports on the drugs failed to be returned from the laboratory. Byrd was arrested June 29 on suspicion of selling drugs at the Sonoma-Marin fair.

Tools valued at $295 were taken from Locke Plumbing Corp. at 865 Sweetser Avenue, Novato, sometime between 5 p.m. Tuesday and 1 p.m. yesterday according to polcie reports.

Viet Reds Denounce Nixon Peace Stand In Paris Talk

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam and the Viet Cong said today President Nixon's latest statement setting out U.S. peace objectives was a plan full of "insolent threats" and "arrogant and unreasonable conditions."

In rejecting statements the President made June 30 and July 1, Hanoi and Viet Cong delegations at the Paris peace conference served notice the war will go on until the United States agrees to withdraw totally and unconditionally its forces, and drops the Saigon administration.

Hanoi's delegate, Nguyen Minh Vy, and the Viet Cong's Dinh Ba Thi coupled the warning with claims that the Nixon administration has stepped up the bombings of Laos and that in spite of the U.S. troops pullout from Cambodia American artillery posted close to the Cambodian frontier was shelling Cambodian territory.

The Viet Cong delegate also accused Nixon of delivering advisers and money to the Saigon government for the upkeep of a "barbarous penitentiary system."

"In spite of his defeats and ever more serious difficulties in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, President Nixon on June 30 and July 1 repeated the same arrogant and unreasonable conditions under which the Vietnamese people should pay ransom for the end of the U.S. aggressive war and accept U.S. neocolonialism in South Vietnam," the Viet Cong official said.

In the session which lasted four and a half hours and again made no progress, Thi said denunciations of the South Vietnamese prisons were "certainly incomplete" and that hundreds of thousands of persons were being held in thousands of prisons. He demanded their liberation.

He rejected the President's demand for mutual troops withdrawal and warned that the South Vietnamese peoples right to self determination was not negotiable.

Acting U.S. delegation leader Philip C. Habib made a new appeal to the Communist side to consider Nixon's policies and open "genuine negotiations."

South Vietnam's Pham Dang Lam also accused the Communists of refusing to negotiate on other but their own terms.

The California Highway Patrol said Mrs. Lehua's vehicle struck Bond's car, which was stopped in heavy traffic at 4:20 p.m. The Bond vehicle was pushed into one driven by Eileen B. King, 36, of Sylvan Lane Ross. A fourth car, driven by Alice S. Taylor, 48, of 65 Fairfax Street, San Rafael, crashed into the others.

Rider's Condition Is Serious After Crash

Roving Band Of Youths Attacks Trio

Three San Rafael men were attacked Tuesday when they tried to stop two carloads of young men from wrecking a sign at 101 Motor Movies on Smith Ranch Road, San Rafael police reported today.

Roger L. Langford, 33, of 76 Smith Ranch Road, told police he saw the 10-11 youths at 11:30 p.m. throwing beer cans at neon lights on the signs, and he and two other men approached them to try to stop the vandalism.

Langford was hit on the side of the face with a beer can as they approached, and a five-foot-seven-inch youth knocked down Anthony G. Walker of 1744 Las Gallinas Avenue, they reported.

Ernest G. Gray of 180 Idylberry Road was also struck, according to the report.

Damage to the lights was estimated at $150. The vandals have not been caught, but police reported having some clues to their identity.

SPEBSQSA Needs Budding Harmonizers

The Marin chapter of the SPEBSQSA is again looking for people with a yen to harmonize.

SPEBSQSA is the Society for Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. The Marin chapter, members of which make up the Golden Gate Barbershop Chorus, plans an evening of combined vocalizing and recruiting Tuesday beginning at 8 p.m. in the Redwood High School Little Theater, Larkspur.

According to Robert W. Johnson, publicist for the chapter, "Each chapter is a breeding ground for any four guys who desire to form their own quartet."

The Tuesday program, strictly informal, will be open for those who just want to listen as well as those who might like to join the harmonizing, he said.

The chorus, directed by Ned Hardin, and its several quartets present an annual show for the community, which this year will be held during August at Dominican College. Its "After-glow Without a Show," cosponsored by the Corte Madera Lions Club, has also become an annual affair. It stages other special events and charitable "sing-outs" at hospitals, convalescent homes, etc.

And every Tuesday at 8 p.m., the members get together at San Clemente School in Corte Madera to practice what they like to do best.

Hawaiian's Leap Before Camera Fatal

The California Highway Patrol identified him as Ronald Miller.

Officers said he hired Paul Kayfetz, owner of a commercial studio in Oakland, to record the leap, apparently after convincing the photographer that he would survive.

The reports said Miller, John Sanford Allen, 24, of Berkeley, and Maurice Rose walked to midspan at 3:15 p.m. while Kayfetz and Kathy Krawcyzk, Miller's finance, cruised below in a rented boat.

Miller stripped to a bathing suit, climbed over the railing and jumped, officers said. Allen likewise climbed over the rail onto a girder to get a better view.

Officers said witnesses saw Miller's body hit the water. A U.S. Coast Guard spokesman said no body was found and the search has been called off.

Bridge employees arrived soon after the leap and pulled Allen from the girder. He was arrested by the highway patrol and booked into San Francisco City Prison on suspicion of trespassing on the bridge structure. He was released on $125 bail to appear today in San Francisco Municipal Court.

A spokesman at the photo studio today said that "it was a very tragic incident" but had no other comment.

Election returns were first broadcast Aug. 31, 1920 when WWJ, Detroit, carriet results of congressional and county primaries.

Murder Attempt Charged In Wounding Of I-J Employee

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A 45-year-old San Bruno man was charged yesterday by the San Francisco district attorney's office with attempting to murder Independent-Journal employee Allan W. Daly, shot Saturday night at his home.

Daly remained in very critical condition today at San Francisco General Hospital where he has used 88 pints of blood since being shot in the abdomen. The hospital said he requires five to 10 pints a day.

Frank Thurber appeared in municipal court today with his attorney, Nathan Cohn, who claimed his client had been "illegally and unlawfully" held by police for two days. He said that Thurber had been held and transported to "various places" since he was arrested Monday night.

Cohn said his client, a member of Newspaper Mailers Union 18, an affiliate of the International Typographical Union, was held in the city jail Tuesday and Wednesday nights without charges being filed by the district attorney's office.

Not until yesterday, Cohn told Judge Joseph G. Kennedy, did the district attorney file felony conspiracy, attempted murder, robbery and burglary charges against Thurber.

"Obviously the charges are not as strong as the police department implies," Cohn said, "otherwise he would have been charged before."

Judge Kennedy set bail at $12,500 and ordered Thurber to appear in municipal court July 17 for entry of plea.

Two San Bruno youths also have been arrested on suspicion of robbery and attempted murder.

Larry G. Rutherford, 16, and Richard A. Wamsley, 17, are being held at San Francisco Juvenile Hall pending decision on whether they will be tried in San Francisco Superior Court, remaining with juvenile authorities, Walter H. Guibbini, chief asst. district attorney, said today.

Daly was shot by one of two youths who forced their way into his home at gunpoint, demanding money. As Daly's wife, accompanied by one youth, was searching for money in the kitchen, Daly was shot in the abdomen while held at gunpoint in the living room.

Daly's wife told police she heard a shot, ran to the living room, and found her husband on the floor, bleeding from a wound in the abdomen. One of the youths grabbed a handbag, containing $6, and they ran.

Police later found the handbag, still containing the $6, outside the house.

Thurber and the two youths were arrested in San Bruno Monday night.

The Irwin Memorial Blood Bank reported today it had received 78 direct donations for Daly — including 24 pints yesterday — and a total of 75 unit releases from groups and individuals.

The blood bank reported 25 releases from International Business Machines Co., five from McGraw-Hill, five from The Surveyors, 22 from the I-J reserve bank and the remainder from individuals.

San Francisco Typographical Union 21, Newspaper and Periodical Drivers and Helpers Union and the Newspapers Mailers Union, all of which have accounts with the blood bank, have not released any units, the bank reported.

The ITU has denied any connection with the attempted murder Saturday as with any of the violence and vandalism that has taken place since the San Francisco Typographical Union struck the Independent-Journal.

Meanwhile, Petaluma police are continuing their investigation into the firebombing Tuesday of the Petaluma home shared by two nonstriking I-J printers.

The firebomb was thrown through a bedroom window endangering the lives of six persons, three of them children. The firebombing was the sixth such instance since the strike began.

HUMANE SOCIETY PROGRAM

Youngsters Learn About Animals

By LARRY MOWELL

To educate people is hardly a novel idea. For a human society to educate them about animals apparently is.

The Marin County Humane Society lays claim to having the only humane education center in the U.S. and draws officials from throughout the country to study it, according to executive director Mel L. Morse.

Roaming the spacious animal care center at 171 Bel Marin Keys Boulevard in Ignacio, one constantly has to sidestep youngsters busy with their duties in one of the society's programs.

The youngsters, 10-17, cheerfully do menial tasks — cleaning an aviary, sweeping floors and hosing dog cages.

The program began in November, 1968, when the society opened its $450,000 headquarters, because youngsters wanted to work with the animals, Morse said. The program is now limited to 100 youngsters, he said.

Working in the antiseptic kennels amid the yappings and yowlings emanating from the pens wouldn't seem to be an appealing job, but the young volunteers seem to enjoy it.

"I have my own boy here and he'll do things here he'll never do at home,' Morse said.

However, working in the din of the kennels or the sunbaked calm of an outdoor stable must have its rewards. Morse said today's young simply have more sympathy for animals than adults. "They genuinely care," he said in explaining why the young enjoy the work.

He told of the helpless rage a couple of youngsters felt recently toward a woman who brought in a box of dead puppies and couldn't understand how they died while locked in a sunbathed car for eight hours.

The juniors have also designated one little girl as puppy watcher and placed her on a stool in the puppy pen to protect them from too much handling.

Morse said the youngsters have not been told how they should feel about animals, but they have developed a great deal of feeling for them.

While it is the most intensive humane education program the society offers, it is also one of the smallest. The largest, which has handled about 8,000 youngsters since the center opened, grew from a demand by school and institutional groups for tours, Morse said.

Tours are offered, but they include an explanation of how the society runs the county animal control program, how animals end up in the shelter and what becomes of them. "They learn what the thing (the society) means to the community," Morse said.

They are also told what man means to animals and how an animal's existence is dependent on man.

Sitting on the floor of the main room, surrounded by exhibits of society functions and a portable glass case partitioned off for snakes, lizards and gila monsters, the children are shown how to handle and care for a live animal.

"We're hopeful they're not doing it just for a field trip," Morse said. "We've had great success with the changing of focus in the young people from themselves to other people, other creatures.

The society also offers dog, cat and horse care classes that run five two-hour Saturday sessions each and draw from 100 to 300 participants each, Morse said.

On occasion, society workers go to schools to show slides, demonstrate equipment or show animals.

Most of the programs cater to youth because Morse feels adult groups don't need society help. The Marin County Cat Fanciers and Exotic Cat Club and other animal interest groups use the facilities, but the society doesn't participate in the activities.

The society, of course, still carries out its traditional duties of housing neglected and helpless animals and prosecuting those who are cruel to animals, but it is trying to emphasize prevention of cruelty through education, not court action.

"We feel that this positive approach rather than lurking around the corner waiting to prosecute will get us to a better situation in this county," Morse said.

However, the most important humane education work of the society may be its example. According to Morse, the surrounding land will eventually be developed as a nature park and educators and legislators have often visited the facility to see how the idea will work.

Morse hopes these leaders will get other counties to move their facilities from corporation yards to central park-like areas where children can associate with them and learn about them in a more humane environment.

LOVING CARE — Pedro the burro gets full attention from three members of the Marin Junior Humane Society as Daisy the goat pokes in her head seeking a share. The girls, Lauri Udaloff, cleaning teeth; Patty Raftician, cleaning a hoof, and Mesan Hanzlik, with brush, are only three of the 100 young volunteers who help care for animals at the Marin County Humane Society in Ignacio. Judge Again Hears Why Car Halted

A preliminary hearing against three men accused of conspiring to damage property of Independent-Journal advertisers moved into its third day today as a sleepy lawman described over and over the circumstances of the arrest.

Attorneys for the three defendants, all members of the International Typographical Union, are striving to convince Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court that the stopping of the men's car by two sheriff's deputies was illegal.

Deputy Richard Borba, who works the midnight to 8 a.m. shift, described again today why he and his partner, deputy Larry Stanfield, stopped the three men about 1:40 a.m. June 3 on a frontage road near the Strawberry Shopping Center.

They then arrested Dennis Joseph Crowley, 41, of San Jose; James Robert Brucato, 31, of Santa Rosa; and Grant William Anders, 30, of Pleasant Hill, who are charged with felony counts of conspiring to break windows of six San Rafael and three Novato businesses.

Deputy Borba, said under cross-examination today that he and Stanfield first noticed the car driving slowly in front of the shopping center and noted that three men were in the car.

The deputies had gone to the center, he said, after hearing a radio report of broken windows of stores in San Rafael, because Stan's for Sports in the shopping center had been the target of such vandalism in the past. As they pulled out to follow the car, the officers noticed the license plate was unreadable, Borba said.

Later the two officers found slingshots, which they had noticed through the car window, as well as chunks of lead, brass knuckles and a picket sign in the car.

The men were the first persons arrested in connection with window smashing of stores belonging to merchants who refused to discontinue advertising in the newspaper. Since San Francisco Typographical Union 21 went on strike against the I-J in January, about 40 businesses have been vandalized.

Assembly Bill Poses Kite Flying Thorn

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — If anyone tells you to "go fly a kite" you may have to go a long way — at least to avoid running afoul of a bill passed unanimously yesterday by the Assembly.

The bill would make it a misdemeanor to fly a kite, balloon or rocket within five miles of any airport.

About the only way a youngster in Marin could be sure of avoiding the law would be to go to Point Reyes. Most of the county's populated areas would be covered by five-mile bans around the heliport at Richardson Bay Bridge, Smith Ranch in San Rafael, Hamilton Air Force Base and Gnoss Field in Novato.

The bill, AB 286 by Assemblyman Kent H. Stacey, R-Bakersfield, still would allow kite flying within five miles of an airport, but not if it "might be ingested by an aircraft engine or might cause a pilot's view of the airport and zone approach to be obstructed."

How a young kite flyer could make this determination was not spelled out in the bill.

Man Named For Sewage Review

Clem C. Slater, newly-appointed director of the Bolinas Public Utility District, last night was named by the district board to serve on a committee to review progress on a joint sewage disposal system being planned with the Stinson Beach County Water District.

Clerk Jane Boyer said a representative of the water district will also serve on the review committee which will assess what has been done so far in the project. Both districts plan to build a common sewage treatment plant, she said, but each will build its own sewer lines.

Four Students Lose $1,100 Each Plus European Dreams

Four College of Marin students were $1,100 losers when World Academy, Inc., went into bankruptcy, taking with it their plans for six weeks of study and vacation in Europe.

But a group of 40 Marin students was spared the loss when their proposed tour was canceled in May by World Academy because the group had spent too long deciding whether to go.

"I feel I'm a victim of grand larceny," said Allan Chinn, 27, of San Francisco. Chinn was one of the four who had planned to leave Tuesday on an "International Rhetoric" tour covering seven countries in 40 days.

Chinn said he received a telegram Sunday saying World Academy had been unable to arrange accommodations and transportation for the tour, and advising him not to go to the airport.

Chinn said another College of Marin student among the 40 on the proposed tour was Carol Richter, but he did not know the names of two other Marin students. The tour was to be led by educators from the University of California at Davis and Berkeley.

Each student, Chinn said, paid a $25 membership fee, $1,015 for the trip, and later was asked to pay another $52 for tuition. Shortly afterward, World Academy declared bankruptcy, disrupting tours planned or in progress by 4,000 students from all over the nation.

Chinn heard of the tour which Robert Minton Jr. had planned to lead. Minton is head of the speech department at College of Marin.

When that tour fell through in mid-May, Chinn and the other three made other arrangements.

Chinn said since the tour was cancelled he has been to the state and federal attorney general offices to lodge complaints.

Chinn was skeptical of the tour price before it began, so he checked with the Better Business Bureau and learned there was no complaint against World Academy.

"It looked completely legitimate," he said.

Gary F. Filosa of San Francisco, who was ragional director for World Academy until mid-May, said today that all California students have been returned home now, and that a lawyer has been hired and chances of getting the students' money back look good.

Filosa did not have names of the other Marin students, and accused an Independent-Journal reporter of trying to make trouble by seeking them. He said he would not be a party to "abusing children," and told the reporter not to seek his facts from "a lot of hysterical children."

The California attorney general's office has asked for national legislation to protect charter flight patrons from nonperformance by promoters, and said yesterday efforts will be made to recover some of the money lost by California students.

Assemblyman John Foran, D-San Francisco, has a bill pending which would require travel promoters to post performance bonds or hold in trust 90 per fent of funds paid by travelers.

Chinn said State Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, is backing the bill and with enough student complaints to his office probably could get enough backing to pass it.

Firemen's Beer Bust To Be Stag Affair

The Belvedere Volunteer Firemen's Association annual stag beer bust will be held Friday, July 17 at 7 p.m. in the Belvedere Fire Station, according to Erwin Farley of the association.

Farley stressed this year's event, to meet fire personnel and inspect equipment, is open only to men of the community "in spite of women's liberation." Each man is asked to bring his own beer mug.

Pre-Election Polls Ban Turned Down

LONDON (UPI)—The government refused Wednesday to ban opinion polls within one month of a parliamentary general election.

Conservative government spokesman Lord Belstead told the House of Lords both Conservative and Labor party leaders opposed the suggestion when it was made several years ago.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, July 9, the 190th day of 1970 with 175 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning Star is Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

On this date in history:

In 1850 President Taylor died of a typhus infection after serving one year and four months. He was succeeded by Millard Fillmore.

In 1900 Queen Victoria signed an act by which Australia agreed to enter into a Federal British Commonwealth.

In 1962 the Telstar satellite relayed television pictures from the United States to Europe and Americans received clear pictures back from France and Britain.

In 1968 French president Charles de Gaulle appointed Maurice Couve de Murville premier of France, replacing Georges Pompidou, who became president in June of 1969.

A thought for the day: Canadian physician Sir William Osler said, "Tact is the saving virtue without which no woman can be a success."

'53 Fine Of $2.50 Paid With 'Tip' Of $17.50

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—In 1953 a visiting Marine visiting here was given a ticket for jaywalking.

In April, 1970, the Marine, now a retired Oklahoma state policeman living in Los Angeles, walked into the Salem City Hall and paid the $2.50 fine —with a $17.50 tip.

"I didn't have the $2.50 to pay the fine then, and it has always bothered me," said Thomas Melton.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Witch Doctor Optimism Loses; Precautions Necessary In Bridge

Some primitive people believe that thinking about bad luck will produce misfortune even if you were otherwise going to have normal luck. For this reason, primitive bridge players tackle all hands optimistically: their witch doctors have warned them against taking any precautions. This little morsel of anthropology may explain South's line of play in today's hand.

EAST GETS DISCARD

South ruffed the first heart with the three of spades and led the five of spades to dummy's king. East discarded a diamond, and South made a mental note to find a new witch doctor.

If declarer took a losing trump finesse, or even if he took the ace of spades and then led the ten to drive out the queen, West would lead another heart to make South ruff again. West's nine of spades would then be the top trump.

If South were a less primitive type he would be willing to think of bad luck before playing to the second trick. South is concerned only about a 4-0 trump break.

SAFETY PLAY

South can provide against four trumps in either hand by leading the ace of trumps at the second trick. When it develops that West has all of the trumps, South can lead the jack of spades for a finesse, winning the second and third round of trumps.

Then declarer leaves the trumps alone, running his winning cards in clubs and diamonds. West gets only his one high trump.

BAD BREAK

It East had all four trumps, South would enter dummy with a side suit to lead a low trump. East would take the queen of trumps and would make South ruff a heart. South would cash the jack of spades, get to dummy in a side suit and draw the last trump with the king. Then declarer would take the rest with good clubs and diamonds.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:

♠ - Q 9 8 7
♥ - A K Q J 10 6 2
♦ - 9
♣ - 8.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four hearts.

Your hand should produce seven or eight tricks on offense but may be worthless on defense. It is the ideal situation for a shutout bid.

Here's New Approach To Student Unrest

MANILA (UPI)—The mayor of the town of San Fernando in Pampanga province has set up a huge billboard in front of the municipal building with this message to would-be demonstrators:

"My dear students:

"This is the wrong place to demonstrate. We are doing our job to the best of our ability in serving public interest and welfare. Please make good use of your concern for the nation elsewhere.

"Thank you.

"Mayor Virgilio Sanchez."

Assembly Demos Blasted Over Opposition To Voting Reforms

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A Republican assemblyman today blasted lower House Democrats for killing his bill designed to prevent a person from voting more than once in the same election.

His measure was defeated by the Assembly Wednesday on a 37-33 vote with all Democrats present opposing it and all but one Republican voting for it. The lone dissenting Republican was Assemblyman Tom Hom of San Diego.

"Obviously, the Democrats are more concerned with winning elections than they are with honest elections," Assemblyman Robert Burke said in a statement issued after his bill was rejected.

His proposal would allow a person's right to vote to be challenged at the polling place if his sample ballot was returned to the post office because the individual had moved.

Present law allows a voter to cast a ballot even if he has moved from his voting address within the past two months. The Burke bill would not change that provision.

Burke said a person now can move from the address where he is registered to vote and more than two months later cast a ballot without the county clerk's office being aware he was ineligible to vote.

"This bill is a step toward honest elections," the Huntington Park Republican told the Assembly. "A vote against this bill would be an indication of your willingness to let fraudulent practices continue."

But Assemblyman Henry Waxman, D-Los Angeles, said the bill "could lead to chaos and confusion in our election system."

He said it was wrong to wait until the election deadline and then base the challenge on the post office determination a vote no longer lives at an address.

But Assemblyman Paul Priolo, R-Pacific Palisades, pointed out voters challenged on the basis of returned sample ballots would be asked if they still live at the address. He said they then could sign an affidavit swearing they had not moved and be allowed to vote.

Californians Will Lose Fur Coat To Ecology

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A bill banning the sale in California of shoes and clothing made from skins, hides or fur of species threatened with extinction has moved a step closer to Assembly passage.

The Assembly Natural Resources Committee Wednesday approved the measure by Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverley Hills, on a voice vote with no audible dissents and sent it to the Assembly floor.

Esther Krueger of the California Fur Industry, an association of furriers, taxidermists and skin dealers, opposed the measure on grounds it was unconstitutional because the federal government had preempted the field.

"We are conservationists," she said. "If the furriers weren't conservationists, we'd be out of business."

The bill would ban the importation into California for commercial purposes the furs, skins or hides of animals, reptiles, birds or fish already considered by the federal government as being endangered. It adds to the list any alligator, crocodile, polar bear, leopard, ocelot, tiger, cheetah, jaguar, red and timber wolf, vicuna, sea otter or Spanish lynx.

Beilenson noted that many endangered animals are the profitable prey of poachers who have threatened certain species — such as the alligator — with extinction.

"It's possible to prevent poaching without closing the major markets first," he told the committee. "They're going to disappear. There won't be anymore of these things in three or four years."

Sales between private citizens of garments fashioned from endangered species would be authorized. So would importation into the state of such an item acquired in another state or country.

Tokyo Newsmen Boast Air Armada To Cover Events

TOKYO (Toronto Telegram News Service) — When a big story breaks in Japan, Tokyo's reporters take to the skies. Newspaper aircraft and helicopters race to the scene, and the battle is on as to which of Japan's three biggest dailies hits the street first with its front-page story.

As with all other phases of business, the miraculous economic boom has boosted the circulations and advertising revenue of Japanese newspapers, and much of the profits has gone into building sophisticated, high-speed and extremely efficient news-gathering organizations.

Asahi Shimbun, largest of the national dailies, owns more aircraft than any other newspaper in the world — a fleet of 10 single and twin-engined airplanes as well as three helicopters.

The Mainichi is not far behind with seven airplanes and two helicopters, and the Yomiuri, the third great daily, is equally competitive.

Japan's national press is keenly aware of the direction in which the country is moving, and of the fantastic rate of change.

The newspapers feel they must keep up with other industries that have given Japan the Bullet Train, the world's largest supertankers and the tiniest transistor radios and television sets.

The Japanese see no reason why they should accept the role of number three in industrial strength behind the United States and the Soviet Union. They want the top spot.

The press of Japan is highly ambitious. It is also fortunate. All its readers are confined to four islands with a land area of only 143,000 square miles.

The main island of Honshu, where most of the action takes place, is only 89,000 square miles, or about the size of Great Britain.

From the main cities of Tokyo, Nagoya and Osaka, the national newspapers each day manage to reach an astounding percentage of the country's 102,000,000.

The daily circulation of Japanese newspapers has passed the 50,000,000 mark, with the Mainichi, Asahi and Yomiuri sharing more than half the total. The Asahi's net paid circulation is now more than 10,000,000 copies daily for morning and evening editions, and its gross annual reveues have reached almost $200 million.

The Mainichi Shimbun sells 5,000,000 copies every morning, and about 3,000,000 in the evening. At least 20 Mainichi correspondents cover the world, five of them being stationed in the United States and most of the others in Asian capitals and in Europe.

The Mainichi head office in Tokyo, a vast yet beautiful 15-story building overlooking the Imperial Palace, is the most modern newspaper plant in the world. Each of its main presses, in operation virtually around the clock, prints 150,000 copies per hour.

By using closed-circuit television cameras built into the ceiling of the composing room, the Mainichi Shimbun's editors can watch the progress of the main newspages as they are being made up without leaving their chairs in the news room. They simply have to press a button.

As you walk around the glittering glass and steel Mainichi building, with its unique twin towers of stone, some of the statistics boggle the mind.

Its research library has 70,000 books, 1,500,000 photographs, 7,000,000 clippings and a complete microfilm file of the Mainichi from the first issue in 1872.

A full-page advertisement inserted regularly in the Mainichi over a half-year period costs more than $17,000. Asahi Shimbun's rates are steeper. A one-day full-page ad in the national edition costs $44,577, but the client prepared to put his ad in once a month for over six months gets the insertion for less than half at $22,171.

The national newspapers claim the regular full-page advertisements are cheap as they work out at less than half a cent per copy.

For the working reporter, the Japanese newspapers provide every possible facility geared to speed. When necessary, helicopter pilots deliver stories and film to the main offices in downtown Tokyo, and drop them on to the roofs of the newspaper by using small parachutes.

Competition is so fierce the national dailies are always coming up with new devices in their efforts to outdo each other. The Mainichi has a fleet of compact newscars equipped with microwave telephone and telephoto devices so pictures and story can be transmitted rapidly back to the news room.

Asahi then came up with vehicle designed specially for riots and other dangerous events. No longer do camermen have to climb on the roof of their car to take photographs during one of Tokyo's wilder riots.

Asahi Shimbun's truck, which resembles a military vehicle except that it is painted white, is equipped with an unusual closed circuit television camera. The camera works rather like a periscope, and can be raised to a height of more than 20 feet.

The TV camera can be fitted with either wide angle or telephoto lenses, and is attached to the roof of the newspaper vehicle. The riot scenes it catches are recorded on a receiving set inside the truck.

The mechanism also is linked to a news camera so that photographers can take pictures merely by watching the screen and pressing a button.

Reporters, instead of risking their necks by going out among the hostile student demonstrators, also can follow the action from inside the truck, and still write eye-witness stories.

Reagan Backs Antipolitical Professors

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has declared his support for efforts by a group of University of California professors to prevent political matters from interfering with classroom activities.

Prof. Ronald Berman said the governor endorsed the purpose of the "Committee to Save the Universities" during a meeting in his office Wednesday with seven UC San Diego professors representing the committee.

At a news conference following the one-hour meeting, Berman said the group had about 70 members on the 400-professor San Diego campus and similar groups were being started on other campuses.

He said Reagan was "glad to know of our existence" and supported the group's "battle to return the university to its traditional function."

The university is endangered by some professors who are more dedicated to politics than to teaching, Berman said.

The group hopes to form a bloc of previously uninvolved professors to influence the faculty academic senate, which Berman said has been "distracted by political issues."

Berman said the group opposed closing campuses for political activity or turning classes over to political discussion of "subjects near and dear to the hearts of the professors."

"Unequivocally, we want classes to teach what they should be teaching," he said.

Two Shots Fired Into San Rafael Home; None Hurt

Two shots were fired into the home of Nolan Frank Shipley, a 24-year-old San Rafael welder, last night, San Rafael police reported today.

Shipley, of 417 Woodland Avenue, reported that he heard glass breaking at 10 p.m. and went outside to investigate but saw nobody in the area.

At 6:30 a.m. today, Shipley told police, his wife discovered a broken window in their son's bedroom. He found two lead slugs when he investigated the damage.

No injuries were reported in the shooting incident, and Shipley told police he has no idea who might want to do such a thing.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Children Appreciate Firmness But Not Unfitting Punishment

A child resents being bossed around but he likes knowing that his parents decide what needs to be done. Many youngsters say "No I won't" when asked to do something and if the issue is important, the parents should never give an inch. They should take a firm stand on things such as bathing, coming indoors when called, going to bed, and brushing the teeth, etc.

It is pointless to have a screaming argument with a child. When it is bed time, tell him so and if he refuses, take him by the scruff of the neck and deposit him in bed. While doing so tell him that he may think mothers are meanies but this is the way it is going to be. There is no harm in letting him play in bed for a few minutes. If he is afraid of the dark, keep the light on.

THE SAME APPLIES to meal time. "It is time to eat" and that's that. On the other had, his likes and dislikes must be respected as wall as his appetite. Urging a child to eat is the main cause of feeding difficulties. All youngsters go thru food preference spells. We refer to the "peanut butter and jelly" stage or perhaps the temporary craving for hamburgers. If a child eats a skimpy meal, he soon learns the consequences of being hungry.

OBEDIENCE IS difficult to enforce before the child's inborn cooperative instinct forms. As we said before, never hedge on important issues. On the other hand, do not ask him to do too many meaningless tasks. Avoid making chores an issue unless the youngster likes to work along with his mother or father. There is a saying that if there's less nagging on minor matters, the more apt a child will be to listen on important issues.

PUNISHMENT SHOULD be used as a last resort — and ought to fit the crime. It is better to criticize, caution, control, or set limits than to apply the back of the hand or take away privileges for too long a time.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

NERVE DIET

M. P. writes: Do you have any recipes for a nervous stomach?

REPLY

It takes more than a diet to soothe the nerves. A normal diet will do the trick provided it can be laced with tranquility and consumed under serene circumstances. Stop talking about your nervousness and start looking for the cause. When you find it, either eliminate it or compensate for it. Only you can do this. Meanwhile, your physician may suggest a tranquilizer or relaxing drug as a temporary measure.

TAKING YOUR MEDICINE

R. T. writes: Why do most medicines have to be taken before meals?

REPLY

They don't. Medicines are taken before, during, or after meals, or at bedtime, depending upon whether the physician believes food will interfere with absorption of the remedy. Many drugs are better tolerated after a meal, because if taken on an empty stomach, they irritate or cause indigestion. Exceptions occur with drugs used to counteract stomach or intestinal distress; these preparations must be timed to have maximal effect when needed most.

FOODS AND VISION

E. E. C. writes: Are there any foods that will improve the eyesight?

REPLY

Carrots have an undeserved reputation along this line. Several years ago a high protein diet for myopic children was mentioned but we never heard any more about it.

Today's Health Hint — Disaster can strike unattended children.

TV REVIEW

Smothers, Everlys Take Bows

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Two new summer series guaranteed to polarize the television audience arrived on ABC-TV Wednesday night: The Smothers Brothers show and the Everly Brothers program.

By now, of course, the Smothers and their tribulations are known to most televiewers, and the polarization in reagard to their show results from their acerbic attitude toward the establishment.

The Everly Brothers, meanwhile, are long-famous country-folk singers, now in their 30s, and their new series heavily emphasizes the contemporary music sound—particularly the stylized grassroots approach that either turns audiences on or off, firmly.

On the Smothers premiere, the brothers kidded on the square about their past censorship troubles, and promised they wouldn't compromise, and occasionally threw barbs at establishment values, and needled their new network for putting on such shows as "Let's Make A Deal," "The Newlywed Game" and the Lawrence Welk series.

Cruiously, though, despite all the self-aimed jokes about censorship, the Wednesday night debut seemed to de-emphasize comedy—or at least the unique kind identified with the Smothers: not merely the heavy social satire, but simply their wildly personal and very funny off-center humor.

Instead, we got great deal of singing, or so it seemed—not just from the expert Smothers themselves, but also from Nancy Sinatra, Harry Nilsson, and Bobby Stevens with the checkmates.

Further one of the program's main features was a young girl, Natalie Brown, who is an incredible baton twirler, and who was introduced by the longtime host of the traditional "Amateur Hour" show, Ted Mack.

The Everly Brothers show was also curiously interesting. They are known to have been admired as pioneers by such pop heroes as Bob Dylan and the Beatles. But television is not usually kind to pioneers. It waits until they have been accepted everywhere else and are safe, so when they finally get to video their pioneering days, and the freshness that went with them, are gone.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Unusual on television tonight:

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 7:30 p.m. — Bill Burrud and his "Animal World" focus upon the adventures of two cougar kittens separated from their mother by big-game hunters. The episode was filmed in Monument Valley, Ariz.

KQED (9), 8:30 p.m. — "The Film Generation On War" protrays young film-makers' anti-war sentiments in a selection of three films: "The Desert" of a boy haunted by images of war; "Opus 007" of sounds and images taken from all media that condition children to war, and "Occurrence at Owl Creek Bridge" of a Southern planter in the Civil War.

KPIX (5), 9 p.m. — "The Venetian Affair" is a spy-thriller movie with Robert Vaughn as a CIA agent in Venice investigating a plot going in three directions. His estranged wife is played by Elke Sommer.

KCRA (?), KRON (4), 10 p.m. — Guests on the Dean Martin Show are Jimmy Stewart, Leslie Uggams and Dom DeLuise. Also appearing are comic Albert Brooks, singer-dancer Danny Lockin and Singer Jan Daley.

Republicans Hit CBS For Time To Refute O'Brien

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Republican party has threatened the Columbia Broadcasting System with legal action unless it gives the GOP free television time to answer what it termed an "unprecedented, inaccurate personal attack" on President Nixon.

Republican National Chairman Rogers C. B. Morton made the threat Wednesday night in a telegram to CBS president Frank Stanton. Morton attacked a program aired Tuesday night in which CBS gave Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien 25 minutes to respond to Nixon's recent hour-long TV interview.

Morton said CBS has "abandoned journalistic judgment and responsibility and has made no attempt to establish guidelines as to the format and content of this type of program.

"This show amounted to an unprecedented, inaccurate personal attack on the Presidentof the United States; yet your network promoted it as a 'public service'," Morton said.

He said the party was insisting on equal time to answer O'Brien and "if we do not receive your reply in 48 housr, appropriate legal action will be taken to require your compliance with the law —and to prevent further abuse of your responsibility to the public."

Morton also said there were ethical questions involved in CBS' giving O'Brien tapes of previous Nixon TV appearances to show and comment on, and both ethical and legal questions arise from "the placement of a paid political appeal for donations immediately following what was promoted by CBS as a public service program."

Morton's move came hours after a group of 14 senators filed a formal complaint with the Federal Communications Commission asking the FCC to order the three major networks to sell them air time to oppose Nixon's war policies.

Third New York Paper Ups Price

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Daily News will raise its price from 8 to 10 cents effective Thursday. The News, the nation's largest circulation daily, announced the increase Tueday. It blamed the rising cost of labor and materials.

Since labor negotiations began following the expiration of the contract between the four major city newspapers and their 13 unions on March 31, The New York Times and the Post have increased their prices to 15 cents.

The Long Island Press is the only one of the four that has not gone up.

THROUGH FOR THE NIGHT — Atlanta starter Phil Niekro, thoroughly dejected after San Francisco got five runs off him in the fifth inning last night, headed for the showers as manager Luman Harris waited for his replacement, Aubrey Gatewood. He proved no relief at all, giving up six more runs in that inning as the Giants rampaged to a 13-0 win. (UPI Telephoto)

Jim Hart Lets N.L. Know He's Back; Hits For Cycle

ATLANTA (UPI)—The trip from Phoenix back to San Francisco is longer than it looks when you take the baseball route and Jim Ray Hart was understandably keyed up about it.

After all, when you're 28 years old and been exiled to the minors for weak hitting after a half dozen years as a major leaguer, one is bound to be a bit nervous about how he'll perform when he returns.

AT THIRD

Hart got the good news Monday night while playing at Tucson, arrived in Atlanta Tuesday and played third base for the Giants Tuesday night.

He hit a couple of long flies, but went 0-for-4 and was openly concerned over whether that .317 he hit for Phoenix was a true sign that he was ready to attack major league pitching again.

"I've been nervous, real nervous," Hart confided Wednesday night. "Willie (Mays) calmed me down some—but that night I had calmed down even more." That night Hart referred to was his performance in the Giants' 13-0 Wednesday night victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Jim Ray tied a National League record by driving in six runs in one inning and had a total of seven RBIs as he hit for the cycle—homer, triple, double and single—before a tightening shoulder finally got him out.

SWEET

"Yes, that's the first time I've had a night like that anywhere, minors or majors," Hart said with a wide grin. "It was a lot sweeter since I'd been down and back.

"No one wants to go down but it turned out to be a good thing for me," Hart continued. "My shoulder was still bothering me and I needed to lose some weight.

"I feel fine now. The shoulder's okay. The pain's gone. It got a little stiff there in the sixth inning, but that's okay too. I hope I'm back to stay."

Giants manager Charley Fox hopes so too since he plans on Hart being his regular third baseman.

ON A TEAR

"We'd been planning to bring him back up ever since he started hitting again," Fox said. "He was on some sort of tear that last month at Phoenix. We were just waiting for him to get into shape."

Hart's hitting overshadowed a fine pitching performance by Gaylord Perry (13-8). Perry, with a five-hitter, turned in the first one-pitcher shutout the Ganots have had this season. It took three to get the only other one.

Tonight, in the windup of a four-game series, it will be Pat Jarvins (9-6) of the Braves vs. Juan Marichal (3-7).

Wednesday night, the Giants, leading 2-0 after four, had the biggest inning of the year in the National League and the biggest inning ever in Atlanta Stadium—11 runs.

TWINS SWEEP SERIES

Athletics Still Reeling

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Minnesota Twins are riding high today while the Oakland A's are wondering what hit them.

The Twins held on for an 8-6 victory over the A's Wednesday night to complete a sweep of their Oakland series and now go on against the California Angels, whom they lead by five games.

Ron Perranoski came to Jim Perry's rescue in the ninth Wednesday night just when the A's came to life and walked off with his 20th save of the season, tops in the majors.

'THE BEST'

Twins manager Bill Rigney calls Perranoski "the best (relief pitcher) in the business, right or left handed. It's a shame he's not on the all-star team," added the Minnesota skipper.

Perry, given a big batting hand by Tony Oliva, was credited with his 13th victory, tying him with Jim Hunter of the A's for most victories in the A.L. He bagged his 13th the same night brother Gaylord registered No. 13 for the San Francisco Giants.

A's manager Johnny McNamara was down after the Minnesota sweep but not out.

"We just couldn't make the big outs when we had to," said McNamara. "Now they (Twins) play the Angels while we play the Brewers. We just have to win and root for the Angels."

The A's trail Minnesota by 9 1-2 games and second place California by 4 1-2. Second place has no appeal for Oakland.

"We're after No. 1," said McNamara. "There still is a long way to go but now we're in a position where we just have to win and not worry about anyone else. I think we can if we put everything together."

What McNamara was referring to was the way the series with Minnesota went. In the first game the A's got good pitching from Diego Segui, only to lose, 2-1. In Wednesday's game, Hunter, who slipped to 13-6 simply didn't have it while the A's were scoring six runs.

Oliva was the man who did Oakland in Wednesday. He hit his 12th homer three singles and a sacrifice fly, drove in four runs and increased his batting average to .332. He figured in every Minnesota rally and seems to play better when Harmon Killebrew is out of the lineup.

Killebrew went home to Idaho for his father-in-law's funeral so Oliva made up for the slack.

Perranoski, as might be expected, was disappointed American League All Star Game manager Earl Weaver of the Baltimore Orioles picked nine starting pitchers instead of seven and two relievers as did Gil Hodges. The World Champion New York Mets skipper who will lead the National League in the 1970 classic at Cincinnati July 14.

"It's hard to pick nine pitchers for a game like this,"

Stoneham Made Move Earlier Than Expected

ATLANTA — Horace Stoneham really isn't a complicated man ever though he often keeps his front office staff in Candlestick Park guessing. He enjoys teasing his staff into guessing contests on a forthcoming decision. He knows the suspense he creates but never would admit it.

Stoneham alternately can be a soft sentimentalist, hard realist, a showman but never a showboat because basically he is shy. The fact that he shuns showboating doesn't mean he isn't a showman.

He isn't the kind of showman comfortable with a microphone. Actually, he acts like an embarrassed schoolboy whenever he must appear before a mike. But he is a behind-the-scenes showman.

The entertainment Stoneham directs from behind-the-scenes is provided by his Giants. Everything he does is to enhance their public image. He knows that the Giants have done little this season to help themselves.

Action: A Switch In Managers

So from time to time he takes action, such as he did in May when he switched managers. The attitude of the team and the atmosphere in Candlestick changed with the change in managers. But the team went on losing just the same.

On the present trip of the team to Atlanta, Stoneham made another move. He appointed Jim Davenport a coach. He knew, as a competent behind-the-scenes showman should, that it would be a popular move.

Davenport always has been a warm favorite of Candlestick fans and those of old Seals Stadium. As one of the original Giants to play in the first major league game on the west coast April 15, 1958, Davenport immediately won the admiration of fans for his smooth work on the hot corner.

Davenport was a Golden Glove third baseman right from the start. Through 12 seasons his wizardry never diminished but age finally caught up with his legs. He no longer could make cat-like moves to left or right. Nobody doubted that this would be Davenport's last year on the active roster.

Had To Keep Davenport In Fold

As a sentimentalist, Stoneham knew he could never let Davenport out of the Giant organization. As a realist, he knew Davenport's appointment as a coach would be well received by Giant fans. Stoneham had planned to make the appointment at the end of the season.

Then, Stoneham, the showman, had second thoughts. Why not right now? In announcing his appointment of Davenport as coach while the team was flying to Atlanta, Stoneham double-barreled his announcement.

Jim Ray Hart would be summoned from his temporary exile to the Phoenix farm club. Hart would take Davenport's place on the active roster.

Thus, Stoneham gave Candlestick fans something to look forward to — Davenport in a coaching box, Hart once again swinging for home runs.

Hart, down to a respectable 193 playing weight after ballooning 10 pounds overweight during the winter, will have to do remarkable things with his bat to move Alan Gallagher off third base. Gallagher has that job now in the rebuilding job of the Giants who are preparing for the future with youth.

Rain, Low Scores In Britain

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI)—Three bogies over the last five holes ruined Tony Jacklin's hopes of a record-busting score when the first round of the British Open golf championship resumed today on the sodden St. Andrews Old Course.

The British and U.S. Open champion, chasing overnight leader and Ryder Cup teammate Neil Coles' record 65, could not combat the changed conditions. He wound up with a 67.

THEN THE RAIN

Jacklin was eight under after 13 holes when Wednesday's torrential rains washed out play for the day with 38 of the 134 entries still out on the course.

The 26-year-old Briton resumed early this morning in steady rain. He had to pick up under penalty on the 14th where his last shot Wednesday afternoon had finished under a bush, to take a bogey six. Even par for the remainder would have put him even with Coles but he dropped strokes on the 16th and 17th.

DISAPPOINTED

"I'm very disappointed. In fact if I said what I really felt it would not be quotable" Jacklin said. "Wearing my oilskins today, I just couldn't feel the clubs and all this rain has made the course much more difficult."

His five under 67 placed the defending champion in a five-way tie for third spot behind Coles and Channel Islander Tommy Horton, who temporarily held the lead Wednesday with his record-equalling round on a day when the historic old course was torn apart with a succession of sub-par rounds.

67s, 68s

The others at 67 after the first round are Florentino Molina of Argentina, South African Harold Henning and Britons John Richardson and Maurice Bembridge.

Pre-tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Peter Thomson—a trio who have won the title eight times between them—were making a log-jam on 68 which was joined today by 1968 U.S. Open winner Lee Trevino, Tommy Aaron and Guy Wolstenholme of Australia.

The others to card 68's Wednesday were Doug Sanders and Briton Brian Huggett.

DI MAGGIO

Pirates Leading Division

The Drake Pirates today are in sole possession of first place in the Southern division of the Marin County Joe DiMaggio baseball league.

Last night they defeated Holiday Magic, 8-4, while the Mill Valley Chiefs, with whom they had been tied at six wins and two losses, were bombed by Annex Motors, 20-1.

TERRA LINDA

North leader Terra Linda stayed a half game in front of Annex by defeating Toby's Truckers, 15-3.

Drake erupted for five runs in the seventh inning in their come-from-behind-win. John Billings' single with the bases loaded sparked the rally. Bob Urquhart had three hits for Holiday Magic.

Gary Conklin doubled and singled and drove in five runs in Annex Motors' rout. Randy Jackson went the distance for the win, allowing only three hits and striking out 10.

TWO DOUBLES

The only bright spot in the Chiefs' lineup was Clifford Hall, who belted a pair of doubles.

Jerry Seefeldt drove in five runs with two doubles and a single as Terra Linda waltzed past Toby's, scoring eight times in the first inning. Tom Olson got the Marin Catholic team on the scoreboard with a solo home run in the sixth.

Clay Shows Disappointment When Exhibition Canceled

CHARLESTON S. C. (UPI)—Cassius Clay has lived with disappointment so many times he has learned to conceal it. Yet sometimes it shows.

The 28-year old deposed champion came to town to box a six-round charity exhibition against England's Joe Bugner and Jeff Merritt of Miami in the Charleston County Hall Thursday night. However, the Charleston County council denied him permission to use the auditorium.

After a frantic search for another site, Clay's hopes for returning to the ring for the first time in more than three years came to an end on the muddy infield of the Charleston Speedway Wednesday when promoter Reggie Barrett couldn't come up with an $800 advance payment to rent the quarter mile jalopy track three miles outside of town.

"I didn't think I was gonna get to box when I came here" Clay said as he got ready to go back to New York, "but the promoter told me everything was set so I agreed to come down. I know by now there is not a promoter anywhere who can get permission for me to fight legally."

"I had the site," said Barrett, who had hoped to raise money for a local amateur boxing league, "but all my funds are gone. I don't have enough time and I don't have enough money. I have to sue the county council and everybody else responsible."

"I don't care that I didn't get a chance to fight," Clay added, "because if fighting was important to me I could just go down to any gym and fight as much as I want. All this scuffling around was humiliating and insulting, but the real losers are the youth who were going to get the money from the show."

When Clay returned to his motel he was surrounded by neighborhood children, who laughed and played with him, and their parents, who voiced their anger over the cancellation.

"If this bout don't come off," one man in bluejeans said, "it't gonna be the start of a hot summer."

"It's not good here, but it has been getting better all the time," said a woman in the crowd who worked in a neighborhood improvement association. "This is just another setback."

The exhibition was expected to be a tuneup for a bout between Clay, who was deposed as champion when he refused to be inducted into the army in 1967, and Joe Frazier, his successor. The Clay-Frazier bout is planned for Detroit in September, unless it also runs into difficulty. The Michigan boxing commission is in favor of the bout and Clay has consented, but Frazier has not yet agreed.

Murphy Revising TV Sports Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California Assemblyman Frank Murphy Jr., R-Santa Cruz, is determined to force the Oakland Raiders to televise their expected sell-out home game with the San Francisco 49ers Dec. 20.

Murphy revealed Wednesday he is revising his televised sports tax bill to levy a $2 head tax on the Raiders for every fan attending the game, if it's not televised. The head tax would apply to every sold-out game involving two California teams.

The entries, who qualified in area Yudanshakai (Black Belt Association) elimination tournaments, will compete through Saturday in two weight divisions for each age group.

10 Swimmers From Marin In Big Santa Clara Meet

Ten Marin County swimmers will be in the star-studded field for this weekend's fourth annual Santa Clara International Invitationals at the Santa Clara International Swim Center.

Among the five world record holders and 14 Olympic medal winners who will compete in the meet, which ranks in stature alongside the Olympics and the United States Senior Nationals, are some of the greatest swimmers in the world.

Dave Edgar of Florida, the fastest swimmer in history, Mark Spitz, Gary Hall and diver Jim Henry of Indiana's NCAA championship team, and fabulous Debbie Meyer from Arden Hills (Sacramento) are some of the headliners for this prestigious event, which will draw swimmers from perhaps a dozen foreign countries.

The Marin contingent will be led by Jo Hislop and Denise Ham of the Marin Aquatic Club, and by Robin Bachrach of the Dolphins of Marin. All three have already qualified for the senior nationals next month in Los Angeles.

Jo has qualified nationally in the 100 freestyle, which she will swim this weekend along with the 200 free, 100 and 200 backstroke and 200 individual medley.

Denise, a national qualifier in the 200 butterfly and the 200 I.M., will also compete in the 100 fly, the 200 breaststroke and the 400 I.M.

Robin will swim in the 200 fly and the 200 I.M. She qualified for the nationals in both events last week in Hawaii.

Only one boy from Marin will compete, Dennis Glass of the Dolphins of Marin, who will swim in the 200 breast.

The Tamalpais Swim Club will have two entries, twin sisters Ginger and Pixie Massey. The other Marin entries, all from Marin Aquatic Club, are Kimi Fox, Kathi Hislop, Anne Engel and Joan Morehouse.

The relay team of Hislop, Hislop, Ham and Engel has turned in a 4:18.8 in the 400 free, eight-tenths of a second off the time needed to qualify for the nationals.

Relievers Again Left Off All-Star Roster

BOSTON (UPI) — American League relief pitchers still aren't being given All-Star recognition but at least they have an apology for being slighted again in the selections.

Earl Weaver, manager of the defending champion Baltimore Orioles and the 1970 AL All-Star team, issued the apology through league headquarters Wednesday after naming nine pitchers, all of them starters, for the July 14 confrontation with the National League in Cincinnati.

Noting that he was compelled to name at least one player from each of the 12 American League Clubs, Weaver singled out seven relief pitchers as particularly deserving but said he still had to go with nine of the league's ranking starters in making his 1970 selections.

Weaver's selection of nine pitchers included three members of his own team with 33 victories among them at the time he made the choice. Thus Dave McNally, Jim Palmer and Mike Cuellar make up one third of the mound staff the American League will use in a bid to break the National League's seven-year domination of the mid-season All-Star games.

Other selections included star game veterans Sam McDowell of Cleveland, and Mel Stottlemyre of New York, Jim Hunter of Oakland, Jim Perry of Minnesota and first time choices Clyde Wright of California and Fritz Peterson of the Yankees.

"I have not and did not select any relievers on the grounds that if we selected one, there would be five or six that are qualified to be placed in the same category," Weaver's statement said.

He then named Eddie Watt and Pete Richert of Baltimore, Ron Perranoski of Minnesota, Darold Knowles of Washington, Ken Tatum of California and both Lindy McDaniel and Jack Aker of the Yankees as the top relief choices—if he could pick them.

BOCCABELLA'S HIT WINS FOR EXPOS

Former Marin Catholic High School star John Boccabella drove in two runs with a bases loaded pinch single to give the Montreal Expos a come-from-behind 5-4 victory over Chicago in the second game of a doubleheader yesterday. The Cubs won the opener, 5-1 on two run homers by Ron Santo and Billy Williams.

Boccabella's decisive hit scored Ron Brand and Gary Sutherland with Montreal's final runs in the seventh inning.

In the opener Milt Pappas scattered seven hits for his fourth win of the season and his second with the Cubs.

said Perranoski. "But I really think they should have picked two relievers, one right handed and one left handed, not to pitch three innings or even one, but to maybe go in there for one hitter in a key spot.

The A's are idle tonight, then go back to work Friday night in the first of four weekended games with Milwaukee, Rollie Fingers pitches against former Giant Bob Bolin in the opening game.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Familiar Scene To Lindy

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Somehow, the scene seemed all to familiar to Lindy McDaniel.

McDaniel, the ace of the New York Yankees relief pitching corps, faced the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night with the bases loaded, nobody out and the Yanks holding an 8-7 lead in the ninth inning. The previous evening, McDaniel served up a bases loaded homer to Brooks Robinson in the 10th inning which gave the Orioles a 6-2 victory.

This time, however, McDaniel seemed about to work his way out of danger as he struck out Terry Crowley and Ellie Hendricks and got two quick strikes on Don Buford. But McDaniel made his 0-2 pitch just a little too good and Buford singled to right, scoring pinch runner Bob Gritch and Dave Johnson with the trying and winning runs as the Orioles pulled out a 9-8 triumph.

CLOSE PLAY

Johnson barely beat rightfielder Jim Lyttle's throw home with a head first slide, enabling Baltimore to increase its lead in the American League's East Division to seven games and dropping the Yankees to third place behind Detroit.

Johnson said he couldn't remember ever running any harder on a play and added his head first slide "wasn't a grandstand play but only a move in which I could better avoid a tag." Yankee catcher Thurman Munson, who made a diving attempt to tag Johnson, lay sprawled in the dirt for a full minute after the game ended—a picture of frustration.

In other AL games, Detroit edged Boston 3-2, Minnesota beat Oakland 8-6, Cleveland shaded Washington 6-5, California got by Kansas City 3-2, and Chicago downed Milwaukee 2-1.

In the National League, New York beat St. Louis 7-5, Philadelphia shutout Pittsburgh 2-0, Los Angeles edged 6-5, San Francisco bombed Atlanta 13-0, San Diego surprised Cincinnati 3-1, and Chicago split a doubleheader with Montreal with the Cubs winning the opener 5-1, and the Expos taking the nightcap 5-4.

The Yanks, thanks to eighth inning home runs by John Ellis and Curt Blefary, took an 8-6 lead into the ninth before Baltimore cut its deficit to a single run on Frank Robinson's second homer of the game and his 17th of the season. Singles by Brooks Robinson and Johnson and a walk to Andy Etchebarren loaded the bases and, all of a sudden, McDaniel had the feeling he had been there before. Monson also homered for the Yanks while Buford and Boog Powell connected for the Orioles in the free swinging affair.

TIGERS SECOND

Pinch-hitter Gates Brown delivered a bases loaded sacrifice fly with one out in the ninth to help Detroit past Boston and into second place. Mickey Lolich went the distance for the Tigers to gain his seventh win but only his first since May 29. Willie Horton slugged his 16th homer for Detroit and Ken Szcotkiewicz ripped his third.

Second place California kept pace with the Twins as Jim Fregosi, who had a double and two singles, scored the winning run in the ninth as the Angels beat Kansas City. Fregosi tallied from third base when he beat the throw home from second baseman Cookie Rojas who had fielded a grounder by Ken McMullen. Reliever Ken Tatum got the win while Ted Abernathy took the loss.

Buddy Bradford's first major league grand slam homer capped a five run eighth inning for Cleveland as the Indians rallied to beat the Senators. Bradford's blow came off ace reliever Darold Knowles and provided Phil Hennigan with the win.

Carlos May singled home the deciding run in the eighth and Tommy John allowed only five hits as Chicago beat Milwaukee. The victory upped John's record to 6-12 while Al Downing suffered his sixth loss in nine decisions. Despite the triumph, Chicago remained in last place in the West, one game behind Milwaukee.

In came reliefer Aubrey Gatewood. Hal Lanier singled, Perry grounded out, Bobby Bonds singled, Gatewood hit Hunt, Rico Carty ran into Sonny Jackson on Willie Mays' fly ball for a two-run error, McCovey and Dietz walked and Hart hit a three-run triple.

Hart, who was averaging 28 homers and .284 a season before last year, hit only three homers and .254 in '69 while plagued by injuries.

"I hope that's all behind me now," he said. "I don't need any more trips to Phoenix."

ARE YOU AFRAID TO TAKE YOUR CAR ON A LONG TRIP?

If you have reservations about your car's ability to stand the strain of a vacation, we can confirm them for you.

There were 72 million emergency road service calls in 1967 alone.

This is not meant to talk you out of a trip. It's meant to talk you into a Volvo.

Volvos are built to stay on the road. That's why you so rarely see one beside it.

Although we don't guarantee it, Volvos are built so well that 9 out of every 10 registered here in the last eleven years are still on the road.

If this alone isn't enough to make you feel at ease, other Volvo features will.

Water Skiers: Healthy Side Of The Young Generation

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Soft drink ads show young, healthy members of the younger generation downing bottle after bottle of their products.

But you sometimes get the feeling that these young people don't really exist, that young people today are just those straggly-haired hippies you pass on the highway, those lost souls with hair down and thumbs out.

20 STARS

There will be 20 of these types at Berkeley's Aquatic Park July 18-19 at the California World Cup tournament, first international invitational tourney held on the west coast.

Chief promoter of the tourney, which draws top skiers from the United States, Australia, Spain, Mexico, Canada, Colombia and Argentina, is Jaap Suyderhoud of San Anselmo, father of the best water skier in the world.

Jaap's son, Mike, current holder of the world water ski title, will be among the competitors in the extravaganza on water.

Another is Kaye Thurlow of Australia, a 19-year-old blonde beauty who is staying as a guest at the Suyderhoud home during her stay here. She is current women's champion of Australia.

VICTORIA

Miss Thurlow, whose father is owner of a wallboard manufacturing company in Bendigo, Victoria, has been water skiing since she was 12. Like other young Australians, she played tennis as a youngster, but then water skiing pushed tennis to the background.

The 5-foot-4 Miss Thurlow is one of only four women to jump 100 feet off a five-foot ramp, one of the three water ski specialties. She was fourth in the World Tournament, finishing third in tricks, second in jumping and seventh in slalom.

As for her chances against the field in the Berkeley meet, the competition is going to be very tough with the likes of Americans Christy Lynn Weir and Lisa St. John going against her.

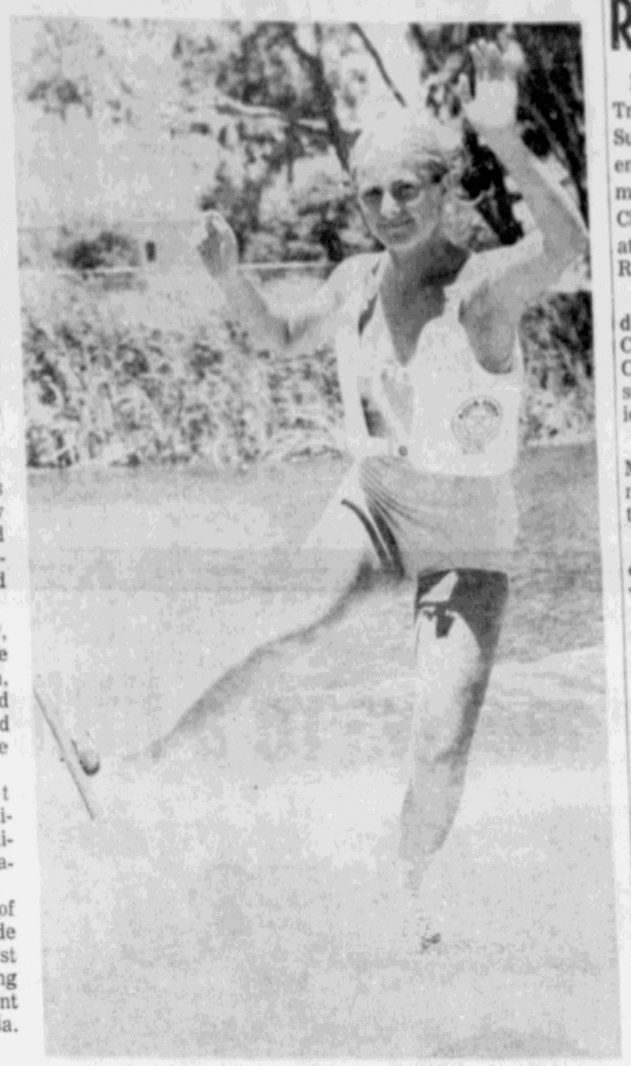
"But I'm sure going to try to win," Kaye said in that very Aussie accent.

Sharoin Boive of Novato will be among the six women competing.

In men's action, Suyderhoud is rated the man to beat, but the field includes 14 other top international skiing stars. Among them are Andres Botero of Colombia and Victor Palomo of Spain.

The World Cup will have a certified World Water Ski Union slalom course and a recognized world slalom record could be established during the two-day meet. Suyderhoud, who already held the jump record at 162 feet, just recently set the world slalom record of two buoys at 36 miles per hour with 31 feet off the rope.

Two rounds of competition will be held in each event, one round Saturday and the other on Sunday, with the total points used to determine the winners. Suyderhoud is favored to take the overall crown in men's competition, while Miss Weir, second overall in the world championships, is famored to win the womens title.



LOOK! NO HANDS — Kaye Thurlow, Australian Women's water ski champ, will be among the international stars at the World Cup tournament at Berkeley's Aquatic Park.

Minter Files Sears Point Race Entry

Milt Minter, winner of the Trans Am Championships last Sunday at Brainerd, Minn., filed entry for this weekend's Sonoma Summersport National Championship Sport Car Races at Sears Point International Raceway.

The rugged Santa Susana driver will handle a Porsche Carrera in the two day Sports Car Club of America meet sponsored by the San Francisco Junior Chamber of Commerce.

A veteran Porsche driver Minter has competed in many major U.S. races under Porsche team banners.

His victory at Brainerd Sunday at the helm of a Camaro was one of racings big upsets of 1970. One of the few private entries in the Trans Am series Minter beat team efforts of American Motors with Mark Donohue, Mustang with George Follmer at the helm, and Plymouth headed by Swede Savage.

Minter's entry brings the field for Sears Point to more than 300. The two days of racing calls for practice and qualifying Saturday and Sunday at 10 a.m. Race action begins both days at 2:30 p.m.

Tickets are now on sale for the Summersport at Macy's, Sears and Ticketron offices throughout the Bay Area.

Double Aces At Meadow

Meadow Club of Fairfax stole a page from "Believe It or Not" this week as two holes-in-one were recorded on the 172-yard fifth hole there. Tom Schall played a four-iron for an ace last Saturday, and Bob Lee used a three wood to duplicate the feat on Tuesday.

Dr. Hal White, Jim Dixon and Bill Gurge finished 1-2-3 in the Meadow Club's Flag Tournament on the Fourth of July.

JAY HARALSON came within two feet of the 19th hole to win Indian Valley's Flag Tourney in Novato, also on the Fourth.

Rohnert Park's second annual Delayed Firecracker Tournament will be held on Sunday. More than 40 players are expected to compete in the low net, full handicap affair.

Bank of Marin's 72-hole Summer Medal Tournament will begin at Petaluma this weekend. Golfers entering the tourney will have five weekends in which to complete four rounds.

McInnis Is Top Spender In Marin

Marin Supervisor John F. McInnis was the biggest spender among local office-seekers in the June primary election, records in the county clerk's office show.

McInnis spent $16,966 in his successful bid for reelection. His challenger, Paul C. Zucker, fired as county planning director after the election, reported spending $7,643.

The deadline for filing campaign expense statements was Tuesday. Candidates had to detail expenditures over $200.

In the other supervisorial race, records showed that Supervisor-elect Arnold M. Baptiste spent $8,835, compared with $13,391 by his opponent, Novato Councilman J. Wayne Womack.

Expenses listed by candidates in other races were:

Municipal Court judge — Donald Rosenberg, $7,831; Tom Thorner, $5,806; Howard K. Morehouse, $3,948; Robert A. Smallman, $14,904; Harry E. Rice, $4,630; Joshua W. Thomas, $1,683; Ernest C. Unopposed candidates listing expenses were Treasurer-Tax Collector Stanley J. Fontez, $454; Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, $734; Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell, $460, and Assessor Bert W. Broemmel, $470. County Clerk George H. Gnoss, Supt. of Schools Virgil S. Hollis, Coroner Donovan O. Cooke and Recorder Noel T. Giacomini said they didn't spend more than $200.

Committee Sends Consumer Bills To Interim Study

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill that would have permitted creation of county offices of consumer affairs has been buried by the Senate Business and Professions Committee.

The author of the bill, Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, said it was sent to interim study along with a host of other consumer bills. He said the committee promised to take a look at the whole field of consumer affairs after the end of the current legislative session.

Another consumer bill by McCarthy, one that would have excluded the weight of juices from the net weight of packaged poultry, fish and meat, was dropped in the agriculture committee. The bill never was heard, McCarthy said.

New Joe's Is Sold To Chain

New Joe's restaurant in San Francisco, founded in 1927 by Peter S. Arigoni of Fairfax, has been sold to a Burlingame chain, Hamburger Dens, and opened yesterday under new management.

New Joe's made famous a sandwich known as Joe's special — hamburger meat, spinach, eggs and onions tossed in a skillet — and was known for its hamburgers on French bread. The new owners were expected to leave the menu, name and operating hours unchanged.

Arigoni and Joseph Ingrassia of Fairfax, a partner since 1947, plan to retire. A third partner, Lorenzo DiBene of San Francisco, who worked at New Joe's since 1927 and became a partner in 1936, planned to open a similar restaurant in another area.

RECORD CAMPAIGN EXPENSES

Behr Spends $84,688 In Primary Contest

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Peter H. Behr, winner of the Republican primary election last month in the Fourth Senatorial District, spent $84,688 in his campaign — more than any other candidate for the California Legislature.

Only about two dozen of the hundreds of candidates for the 100 contested state legislative seats reported spending more than $20,000, and most of these spent less than $40,000.

Adding candidates for the U. S. House of Representatives, only one spent more than Behr. He was Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., R-11th District, who spent $92,576 winning his nomination.

Behr's campaign was the most expensive in Marin County's political history.

Behr's figures were reported under the state law requiring all candidates to file details on contributors and expenses. The deadline to file was Tuesday night, and only a few candidates failed to file.

Failure to file can be a misdemeanor or a felony, but willful violation of the law must be proved in the latter case. As a practical matter, no one is prosecuted for violating campaign reporting laws.

Candidates who fail to file campaign statements, however, cannot take office if they win the general election — at least until they go to court and get an extension of the deadline so they can file belatedly. Courts grant such extensions routinely.

Behr reported a total of $68,525 in contributions, including $13,000 of his own money, thus leaving a deficit of $16,163.

He listed the names of more than 600 contributors, but did not report any new contributions of more than $500 since May.

Under a 1969 state law, contributions over $500 must be reported both before and after elections.

The $55,525 Behr reported as campaign income from others included $46,675 in contributions and $8,850 in loans.

In May, Behr reported having received $13,700 in contributions and loans from 10 persons: Leland H. Jordan, $2,350; George W. Wheelwright, $2,000; Fred Drexler Jr., $2,000; Alexander R. Imlay, $2,000; Philip J. McCoy, $1,050; Craig Wallace, $1,000; Dean N. Meyer, $1,000; Edward S. Bullard Jr., $1,000; William M. Spencer, $700, and William S. Picher, $600.

Two of the three candidates defeated by Behr, Don Pinkerton and Hugh O. Pessner, also filed statements. The fourth, Raymond H. Shone, did not file.

Pinkerton reported contributions totaling $10,360, none over $500, plus $2,600 of his own money for a total income of $12,960. He spent $12,927.

Pessner got $2,376 in contributions, and added $243 of his own money to cover expenses totaling $2,620.

Behr's Democratic opponent, Michael Peevey, reported contributions of $7,813, and expenses of $4,543. He reported receiving a $1,250 contribution from the Committee on Political Education of the AFL-CIO. Peevey was uncontested in the primary.

Anne Smart, the American Independent Party nominee for the Senate, reported $211 in contributions and $44 in her own money to cover expenses of $255.

In the Seventh Assembly District, Republican incumbent William T. Bagley reported contributions of $1,570 and expenses limited to the $192 fee to file for the primary. He listed no contributions over $500.

His contributors included Sears, Roebuck and Co. and Leonard M. Sperry Jr. of Belvedere, a prominent Democrat.

Bagley's Democratic opponent, also unchallenged in the primary, Joseph A. Forest, filed a statement with the county elections office that he had received no contributions over $500. He did not file the required statement with the Secretary of State on campaign income and expenses.

The American Independent Party nominee for the Assembly seat, Glenn A. Bernd, reported contributions and expenses at $472.

In the Sixth Congressional District, incumbent Republican William S. Mailliard reported $15,388 in contributions and $9,247 in expenses. Neither Democratic candidate, winner Russell R. Miller or Zaide Kirtley, filed the required statements in Sacramento.

In the First Congressional District, incumbent Republican Don H. Clausen reported a $5,074 contribution from his campaign committee, and expenses in the same amount.

His Democratic opponent, Dr. William M. Kortum, reported $1,177 in contributions and $711 in expenses.

In the State Board of Equalization race for the Republican nomination, winner Ernest N. Kettenhofen reported campaign expenses totaling $30,394 in a statement filed at the county elections office. But he failed to file in Sacramento the required statement on contributions.

In statements filed by other Republicans in the race, Raymond E. Paschke got $3,337 in contributions and added $3,466 to cover expenses of $6,803. Robert H. Smith got $605 and added $1,075 for $1,680 in expenses. Charles N. Hamilton got $822, and added $463 of his own for $1,285 in expenses.

Sesto F. Lucchi got $120 and put in $631 of his own for $751 in expenses. John M. Mayfield Jr. got $13,636 in contributions and spent $6,387 of his own for a total of $20,023. Lowell S. Mengell II got $498 and spent $95 of his own for a total of $593.

William M. Bennett, winner of the Democratic nomination for the board seat, reported $1,675 in contributions, including $1,000 from the Teamsters. He also put in $300 of his own money, and spent a total of $1,357.

John C. Williamson got $2,049 and added $2,810 of his own for $4,859 in expenses. Henry R. Tweith got $2,480 and added $1,200 of his own to cover $3,483 in expenses.

No statements were filed by Republicans Robert E. Mihalisin, George R. O'Connor, E. Paul Rogers and Kettenhofen, Democrat Harry F. Sublett, or by the American Independent Party candidate, Teresa E. Montara.

E. Warren McGuire, Marin Superior Court judge seeking reelection unopposed, reported spending $318 —the filing fee for nomination.

Reagan Spends More Than Unruh In Race

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan, who faced no opposition for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, spent nearly three times as much as Assemblyman Jess Unruh in the June primary election race, according to official state records.

In campaign finance statements on file Wednesday with Secretary of State H. P. Sullivan, Reagan reported contributions of more than $1.2 million. He listed spending at $860,000.

Unruh, who won the Democratic nomination over Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, reported receiving $383,000 and spending $320,000. He said he spent nothing for broadcast advertising.

Republican Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke listed $66,399 in contributions in his unopposed campaign for the GOP nomination. He spent $79,138.

Portions of Reinecke's statement were received late, however, and Sullivan said the lieutenant governor is obtaining a court order to have them accepted. Filings of some other nominees appeared incomplete.

Sen. Alfred E. Alquist of San Jose received $22,841 in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor. He listed expenditures of $22,888.

In the race for the U.S. Senate, Republican incumbent George Murphy reported contributions totaling $573,530 and spent $548,075 to defeat multimillionaire industrialist Norton Simon. Simon's statement was not received by the filing deadline midnight Tuesday.

Rep. John Tunney, Democratic nominee for the Senate, said his primary campaign cost $568,180. He said he received only $476,004 in cash plus several thousands in loans.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Max Rafferty listed $185,929 in contributions and expenditures totaling $182,000 in his campaign for reelection. Rafferty faces a runoff challenge in November for the nonpartisan post from Wilson Riles.

Riles reported receipts of $75,659 and expenditures totaling $72,893.

Edmund G. Brown Jr., son of the former governor, winner of the Democratic nod for Secretary of State, said he received $63,228, including a $5,000 contribution from his father. He listed spending at $52,609.

James Flournoy, GOP Secretary of State nominee, filed a statement showing he received $9,026 in contributions and spent $8,824.

Los Angeles District Attorney Evelle J. Younger, GOP candidate for attorney general, reported receipts of $528,000. His spending totaled $530,000.

Deputy Attorney General Charles O'Brien, who won the Democratic nomination, listed campaign contributions of $145,700. He spent $154,000.

State Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest listed expenses of $8,747 and receipts of $870 in her unopposed campaign for the Republican nomination. Milton G. Gordon, who won the Democratic nomination, received $14,400 and spent $12,000.

Republican State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, also unopposed, spent $24,000 of his contributions totaling $132,000 for renomination.

Flournoy's Democratic opponent, Ronald G. Cameron, listed primary race expenses of $5,500, the sum he said he received.

School Tax Raise Campaign Begins

The Novato Unified School District Board will meet with citizens interested in owrking on the campaign for the school tax increase at 8 p.m. today in the school administration office.

They will plan a telephone campaign, name guest speakers and organize a student's march to distribute informational materials on the election, according to board president William G. Schneeflock.

So far 20 people have volunteered to work for the campaign to increase the school tax limit by 85 cents or from $3.43 to $4.28 per $100 assessed valuation at a special election on July 28. The district's 1969-70 total tax rate was $5.345.

Tate Trial Jury Choice Drags On

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Jury selection in the Tate-LaBianca murder trial, already in its fourth week, may take another month, according to the prosecution.

Deputy District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi said Wednesday the selection was continuing "slowly and tediously" in the chambers of Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older.

During the session another 11 prospective jurors were excused because of the influence of pre-trial publicity or because of hardship imposed by the expected length of the trial, which is about six months.

House Hawks Ax Asian Troops Curb Proposal

Senate Proposal Loses

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House today rejected out of hand language agreed to by the Senate after seven weeks of debate to curb presidential authority on future U.S. military actions in Cambodia.

After less than 10 minutes of debate, the House shelved a motion to approve the restrictive Cooper-Church Senate amendment, by a 237 to 153 vote.

The House then sent the Foreign Military Sales Act, with the Cooper-Church amendment which had been added in the Senate, to a joint conference committee which will try to draft a compromise.

During the brief debate, House doves charged that the Nixon administration had threatened to withhold approval of projects in districts of members who voted to curb the President's warmaking powers.

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., and Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., told the House of what Waldie called "thinly veiled threats" telephoned to members today by representatives of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Waldie said he was specifically reminded by the young woman who telephoned him that he had a grant request pending, and was urged to vote with the President against the Cooper-Church amendment.

Fraser told the House he knew of two other members who had received similar calls.

The House vote was on the Senate amendment sponsored by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho.

It would require specific congressional approval in advance for sending U.S. troops in force to Cambodia, paying expenses of mercenary troops from other countries in Cambodia, sending U.S. advisers or instructors to Cambodia, or providing direct air support for Cambodian government troops.

From the start, Nixon and his supporters have relied on the more hawkish House to save them from Senate-imposed restrictions.

Problems Beset Successor To Wilson In Health Job

Difficulties somewhat comparable to those experienced by Dr. Donald P. Wilson as director of the Marin Community Mental Health Center plagued the man chosen to succeed Wilson when director of a similar center in New York City.

The problems that beset Dr. Harris B. Peck at Lincoln Community Mental Health Center in the Bronx are not yet ended. An attempt today to reach his successor there, a Dr. Ruiz, was unsuccessful because workers at the center staged a morning-long work stoppage and Dr. Ruiz was gone when they returned.

Dr. Harris B. Peck, chosen last month by Marin County supervisors and Marin Hospital District directors to head the county's mental health center at $30,000 per year, was director of the center in the Bronx from its inception in 1963 until the spring of last year.

The center — like public schools in the same area — became embroiled in "local control" demands by the predominantly black and Puerto Rican population. Dr. Peck bowed out after he and his administrators were locked out by the staff in March, 1969, in an administrative-staff dispute which apparently was still going on today.

County Administrator Alan Bruce said today that Dr. Peck's New York troubles had been known to the screening committee which recommended that Dr. Peck be hired without interviewing any of a score of other applicants.

"They didn't disturb me or other members of the committee as best I recall," he said.

Bruce said that "among his strong supporters are top people in the National Institute for Mental Health."

The Lincoln Center was funded through the national institute, a federal agency, and operated by the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, which is a division of Yeshiva University in New York. Dr. Peck was a member of the staff of the Einstein college and assigned to direct the center.

The National Institute for Mental Health in a 1968 report was sharply critical of operation of the center. A team of investigators from the institute said deficiencies were "of such magnitude as to ordinarily warrant suspension of the grant until the center can achieve compliance." It recommended against withdrawing the federal funds, however.

No mention was made of Dr. Peck's experience at the Lincoln Center when his choice for the Marin County position was announced.

Chairman John F. McInnis of the county board of supervisors said today that the Lincoln Center difficulties were not described to the supervisors and hospital board "in any detail."

"At this point it would not reflect on his desirability here," however, said McInnis, pointing out that most community mental health centers have been embroiled in difficulties in the few years since the first ones were established under the Short-Doyle Act. "The interviewing committee went into this to their satisfaction," he said.

McInnis suggested that details of Dr. Peck's career had been withheld when the choice was announced because he had not yet accepted the Marin job.

He still had not accepted it today, and McInnis said it was uncertain whether he would do so. He now is on the staff of the University of California at Los Angeles school of medicine.

Another U.S. General Dead In War Zone?

SAIGON (UPI)—Maj. Gen. George W. Casey, the missing commander of the U. S. Army 1st Air Cavalry Division, is presumed to have been killed along with six others in a helicopter crash last Tuesday, military sources said Thursday night.

He was the sixth America general lost in the Vietnam War.

The sources said the wreckage of Casey's helicopter, in which he was flying to visit wounded troops, was discovered late Thursday without apparent survivors in the vicinity. Location of the crash was not disclosed for security reasons. Casey, a qualified pilot, was believed at the controls.

Casey, 48, of North Scituate, Mass., took command of the division last May when it was spearheading American units involved in the Cambodian operation. A 1945 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, he was one of the Army's youngest generals.

The Command identified the six others with Casey aboard the helicopter as:

Capt. John A. Hottell III of St. Bethlehem, Tenn., the general's aide; Spec. 4 Vernon K. Smolik of Garfield Heights, Ohio, the general's stenographer; Sgt. Maj. Kenneth W. Cooper of Colorado Springs, Colo., the sergeant major of the division; Lt. William F. Michel of Monroe, Wash., the helicopter pilot; Spec. 4 William L. Christenson of St. Paul, Minn., door gunner, and Spec. 4 Ronald F. Fuller of Providence, R. I., crew chief.

Casey's wife, Elaine, and their five children live in North Scituate.

Israeli Planes Rake Suez; Foes Voice Differing Fears

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Waves of Israeli planes attacked missile bases and other targets along the Suez Canal for the 50th consecutive day today. Cairo newspapers reported the United States would replace Israeli planes lost to missiles and Tel Aviv newspapers expressed fear of a U.S. sellout.

An Egyptian military spokesman said 50 Israeli aircraft struck along the Suez Canal and that "each wave of enemy aircraft was engaged by our air defense systems." There were no other details and no claims of planes hit or shot down.

In Cairo, the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram said the United States has decided to send Israel six Phantom warplanes to replace ones shot down over the Suez Canal area by SAM2 missiles in the past two weeks.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli newspapers said Israeli authorities are concerned lest Washington fail to react firmly against reported Soviet military intervention in the Israeli-Arab conflict and instead seek a deal with the Russians at Israel's expense.

"Washington's future steps still constitute an enigma," the newspaper Maariv said. "It is estimated the United States is awaiting the completion of the Moscow talks with Nasser in the hope President Nixon's firm oarl warnings will deter the Soviets."

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt conferred in Moscow today with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

"...A growing fear is felt in Jerusalem lest the U.S. is likely to agree to an additional softening of her peace formula," Maariv said. "In practice this hints at additional American concessions to Israel's detriment."

Military spokesmen in Tel Aviv said Israeli gunners fired into Jordan during the night in response to the shelling of two Israeli border villages. No Israel casualties were reported.

Palestinian sources in Jordan said King Hussein and Arab guerrilla leaders have agreed on a settlement to tensions that led to three days of fighting and an estimated 1,000 deaths in Amman during June.

Mideast Peril Is Eyed; Russ Air Peace Plan

LONDON (UPI)—The Soviet Union believes no current international issue, including the Middle East, is worth going to war with the West, a study published by the Royal Institute of International Affairs said today.

The study said the use of Soviet forces in troublespots such as the Middle East is part of a policy to enable Moscow to pursue an active global foreign policy while limiting the West's freedom of action in critical areas.

"Basically, the Soviet Union, however, has always left herself a tactical loophole through which to escape from the commitments whose risks become too high," the study said. "So far no issue has appeared which is worth a war with the West."

Malcolm Mackintosh, consultant on Soviet affairs at the prestigious Institute for Strategic Studies, drafted the study, which appeared in "The World Today", published by the Royal Institute of International Affairs.

Israel has asserted there are 8,000 Soviet soldiers in Egypt, including 3,000 weapons operators and missile and aircraft crews, and that Soviets are manning Egyptian missile sites. Egypt denies the Soviets are involved in actual fighting.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union spelled out formally today the details of its Middle East peace plan for a "settlement by stages."

The plan was published in the Soviet Embassy's publication "Soviet Weekly," dated July 11, and circulated today. "That's the Soviet plan, clear to the point," it said.

Under the headline "Where The USSR Really Stands," the publication said the plan reflects basically Russia's "initial stand," but conceded subsequent negotiations and consultation have produced "new ideas."

The plan, it said, makes these provisions:

—It provides for a settlement in stages:

—First, Israel and the Arab nations must confirm their willingness in good faith to carry out the 1967 United Nations security resolution in all its aspects.

—All parties must accept that territorial gains by war cannot be permitted.

—After that document has been drafted, withdrawal of Israeli troops would be carried out, and the state of war between Israel and the Arabs ended.

—The deposition of this document with the United Nations and the completion of the withdrawal of Israel's

Laird Says Russ Still Multiplying Missiles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said today that the Russians have gone ahead with new intercontinental missile deployment, including the huge SS9, since the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks began in Vienna in April.

But Laird told a Pentagon news conference that he still is confident the United States and Russia can reach an agreement that will spare both countries from a further acceleration of the arms race.

The secretary also said:

—The United States will reduce its force of 64,000 troops in South Korea early next year, and there is no standing agreement to prevent such a reduction. He did not confirm reports that the cut might be 40 per cent, but said the United States still will have a "substantial military presence in South Korea after the reductions are made next spring."

(He had no comment on South Korean reports that it might pull back a proportional number of the 50,000 ROK troops serving in South Vietnam.)

—The United States will "beat" President Nixon's goal calling for withdrawal of another 50,000 U.S. troops from Vietnam by Oct. 15, and another 150,000 by next spring. He would not say how much greater the reductions would be.

Meanwhile, the Nixon administration plans to limit the strength of South Vietnam's air force to prevent it from launching "aggressive" raids into foreign territory, another cabinet member said.

kWhen U.S. forces in Vietnam are reduced to a minimum level, according to Air Force Secretary Robert C. Seamans Jr., the South Vietnam air force still would only be strong enough to operate within its own borders.

Seamans told the Senate Armed Services committee the present plan "would not give them (South Vietnam) a capability of interdicting the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

Environment Agency Plan To Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon today proposed creation of two new federal agencies to control pollution and coordinate research and exploration in the oceans.

The President said the proposals represented "a profund commitment to the rescue of our natural environment and the preservation of the earth as a place both habitable by and hospitable to man."

The President's plan, transmitted to Congress today, would create an independent agency, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), to set and enforce antipollution standards and an agency in the Commerce Departmet, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) coordinate research on the actions of the oceans and atmosphere now spread over several departments.

The President's proposed reorganization will go into effect within 60 days unless Congress disapproves.

The President said he was departing from his normal aversion to adding to the proliferation of new federal agencies in order to tighten control on pollution and to better focus research into the interacting aspects of the oceans and atmosphere.

The EPA will bring together in a single organization the major federal pollution control programs now spread over the departments of Health, Education and Welfare, Interior, Agriculture and such independent agencies as the Atomic Energy Commission.

The mission of the EPA, with an initial budget of $1.4 billion and 5,650 employees, "will be to organize the fight against environmental pollution on an

Cosmonaut Credits U.S. Space Influence

MOSCOW (UPI)—Maj. Gen. Andrian Nikolayev, commander of the Soyuz 9 spaceflight, said today he and his copilot profited from the experience of American astronauts as well as Soviet cosmonauts in preparing for their record space endurance voyage.

Nikolayev gave brief credit to the influence of the U.S. space program in a speech delivered during the first open news conference given by him and copilot Vitaly Sevastianov since they set the world record for length of a single space mission.

"I don't intend to dwell long upon our training," the burly air force officer said. "But I wish to say that in our training we took into consideration the considerable experience of the Soviet cosmonauts as well as the American astronauts."

Nikolayev said he and Sevastianov felt fine and had completely recupterated from the effects of nearly 18 days of weightlessness in space.

He said total recovery from a feeling of leaden heaviness, caused by the sudden pull of gravity upon them, had occurred about six days after they landed June 19.

The Cosmonauts sat at a long table with military men and space experts, before the backdrop of a huge modernistic mural and white marble bust of Lenin on a tall column.

The slim, wavy haired Sevastianov, a civilian, tugged nervously at the knot of his tie as an introductory speaker hailed their achievements and the audience applauded warmly.

Nikolayev, his broad shoulders newly decorated with major general's insignia, stared somberly ahead without returning the glances of his wife, cosmonette Valentina Tershkova. She sat two places down at his right hand.

Nikolayev said he and Sevastianov had felt well during their entire mission and joked about their ability to sleep deeply at

Arab Ammo Halted

DAMASCUS (UPI) — About 2,000 rounds of ammunition en route to Jordan from West Germany were confiscated by Syrian customs officers at the port of Latakia Wednesday, the official Syrian Arab news agency reported. It gave no reason for the seizure.

Antipollution Cost

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A national survey by two civic organizations has estimated it would take between $33 billion to $37 billion to combat water pollution over the next six years.

The survey—a joint venture of the National League of Cities and the U.S. Conference of Mayors—was made at the request of Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, chairman of the Senate Air and Water Pollution subcommittee.

Russ Fight Taxes

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (UPI)—A 36-acre estate owned by the Soviet delegation to the United Nations will be sold at auction for $50,000 in back taxes unless the Russians pay up, Andrew J. DiPaola said Wednesday.

This Long Island city and the Soviet government have been battling for nearly 20 years over whether the estate with its 49-room mansion enjoys tax-exempt status.

Kennedy Son Hurt

HYANNIS Mass. (UPI)—Robert Kennedy Jr. fractured ris right wrish Wednesday night when he fell about 25 feet from a tree as he attempted to recover his pet falcon.

Robert, 16, second eldest son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was reported in good condition at Cape Cod Hospital here. He was expected to be released today or Friday.

Rhineland Storm

BONN (UPI)—A severe thunderstorm carrying rain, hail and lightning swept the Rhineland Wednesday, briefly cutting communications in Bonn. All teletype and telephone links were out for two hours.

Space Future Eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Space agency head Dr. Thomas O. Paine has predicted the United States will have regularly scheduled "space shuttles" to permanently orbiting stations by 1980.

Paine, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), also told a group of the nation's top teen-age scientists Wednesday that although the United States at present has no plans for landing a man on Mars, it is "inevitable."

British Strike Set

LONDON (UPI)—The Association of Broadcasting Staff, a labor union representing 10,000 technicians, producers and other employes of the British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC), said Wednesday the union will strike next month.

Union Secretary Tom Rhys said the dispute was over a BBC decision to keep using for studio work engineers belonging to a rival union.

General On Mend

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. Military commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creifghton W. Abrams, was reported "rested and in good spirits" today in his recovery from surgery to remove his gall bladder.

Abrams underwent the operation July 3 in a military hospital in Japan.

Senator Smith Has Hip Surgery

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, 72, the only woman in the Senate, underwent surgery Wednesday for removal of her arthritic right hip and received a plastic and metal hip bone and leg joint in its place.

The Maine Republican was in "satisfactory" condition today, a spokesman at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center said. Mrs. Smith was expected to be hospitalized for about two weeks.

She suffered from what doctors described as "a congenital dislocation" of the hip for several years, forcing her to rely on a small electric cart to get around the Capitol.

The spokesman said Mrs. Smith entered the Harkness Pavillion section of the medical center Monday to await the operation performed by Dr. Frank E. Stinchfield, considered one of the world's foremost bone surgeons.

Mrs. Smith always wears a rose at the Senate but asked that no flowers be sent while she is confined. Aides said she would "continue her official correspondence and paperwork" while hospitalized.

Saigon Denies 'Tiger Cages' Are Inhumane

SAIGON (UPI)—The Saigon government admitted today that some Communist criminals are held in so-called "Tiger Cages" on the island prison of Con Son. But officials said inspections by the International Red Cross have shown conditions generally good there.

It was unclear whether the government would take the advice of U.S. Embassy officials to send an investigating team to the prison, 140 miles southeast of Saigon in the South China Sea, where a Congressional inspection team reported prisoners in a maximum security section called "The Tiger Cage" were given inhumane treatment.

INSPECTION URGED

U.S. officials, offering support for the Vietnamese and repudiating the Congressional team, let it be known that they had suggested to the Interior Ministry that if an inspection team were dispatched to the island it would quell criticism.

A South Vietnamese government spokesman said such a team was unnecessary because inspections were regularly conducted by the ministry.

The prison reports obviously caused considerable consternation both in Saigon and in Washington, in part because the reported conditions could be used by the Communists to blunt international efforts aimed at improving the situation of U.S. prisoners of war in the North.

HANOI VERSION

Hanoi Radio, monitored in Saigon today, reported that Reps. Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif. and William R. Anderson, D-Tenn., "denounced the atrocious prison regime in Con Son directed by the Thieu-Ky-Khiem regime."

The South Vietnamese government issued a five point communique "to make clear our position":

—"From the more than 9,000 criminals presently detained at Con Son, only about 400 persons, for disciplinary reasons, are temporarily detained in separate quarters. They are neither political prisoners nor prisoners of war, but Communist prisoners.

—"Those detained in so-called "Tiger Cages" are criminals who are Communists and have also caused internal trouble at the prison. They receive disciplinary measures in separate quarters to avoid damaging effects to other criminals and to prevent further revolts. "They will not be detained for a long time in separate quarters. As soon as they show themselves repentant and agree to abide by prison rules they will be freed. So far, no cases of paralyzed criminals have been reported."

NIXON'S VIEWS

In Washington, a spokesman for President Nixon said Wednesday "obviously the U.S. government and the White House do not condone this type of interment." But he declined to say whether Nixon was concerned about what might happen to U.S. war prisoners as a result.

The White House has directed all questions on the matter to the State Department and the U.S. Embassy in Saigon. An American Embassy spokesman in the South Vietnamese capital said "final responsibility...rests with the South Vietnamese interior ministry and the U.S. government has no public safety advisers stationed at Con Son."

North Vietnamese prisoners of war normally are held in South Vietnamese prisoner of war camps regularly inspected by the International Committee of the Red Cross, an all-Swiss humanitarian organization which oversees the Geneva prisoner of war convention. The ICRC has reported favorably about the treatment of North Vietnamese prisoners of war.

APPLAUDS EDUCATORS

Agnew Doubts If His Remarks Triggered Unrest On Campuses

DENVER (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Wednesday he doubted whether his comments had provoked student demonstrations or riots on the nation's campuses.

Agnew made his remarks shortly after sources in Washington reported President Nixon had been told the Vice President had become a symbol of frustration in segments of the academic community.

"Let me say unequivocally, I don't believe anything I've been saying has been of any monumental significance in campus unrest," the Vice President said.

"The problem has been with us a long time. It's due to a lot of factors, unrelated to a few comments that any person might make, regardless of what position he occupies.

"Principally, it comes from a multiplicity of factors, not the least of which has been the fashionableness of not enforcing sufficient internal discipline on college campuses."

Earlier in Washington, it was reported that Vanderbilt University chancellor Alexander Heard, the president's adviser on student dissent, had warned Nixon to expect renewed trouble on some college campuses this fall.

White House sources said samples of campus sentiment showed particularly that the Vice President had become in some sections of the academic community a symbol of frustration.

Agnew said the constant bombardment by cries of what is wrong with America has led too many people to believe the nation is in the grip of "anarchy, panic, repression and despair."

"It just isn't so," Agnew said in a speech prepared for the more than 500 delegates at a meeting of the Education Commission of the States. "And let every American be assured that it is not going to be so."

Agnew said teachers played an important role in getting the true picture into focus.

"Educators are among the most important communicators in our society," the Vice President said. "And I believe that it is important that everyone involved in education realize how great an effect he can have on the morale of our country.

"If educators are positive in their approach to the problems our country faces—if they place our liabilities in proper perspective along with our assets—they will have a positive effect on the search for solutions.

Estate Of Oswald Put At $17,654

DALLAS (UPI) — An appraiser appointed by the federal court ruled Wednesday the property left behind by presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald was valued at $17,654.

Oswald's widow, Mrs. Marie Oswald Porter, had argued the estate was worth $480,000 because of its increased historical value, and the government had said it was worth only $3,000.

If either Mrs. Porter or the government wishes to argue the case further, a jury trial will be held to determine the estate's worth. If not, Mrs. Porter will get the $17,654.

The value was set by William B. West on 500 items placed permanently in the U. S. Archives in Washington. The most valuable items, West said, were typewrittten and handwritten documents and dissertations by Oswald.

A $5,000 evaluation—largest given by West—was placed on sections of Oswald's diary. A 32-page typewritten comment giving a brief history of Oswald's political, domestic and labor life in Russia was given a $2,000 evaluation.

The rifle used to kill President John F. Kennedy and a pistol used to kill Patrolman J. D. Tippitt were not included in the estate. They were sold by Mrs. Porter to a Denver gun collector for $11,350, but were confiscated by the government.

The collector, John J. King, claims the government owes him $2 million for the two guns.

W. German Pay Up

BONN (UPI) — The average wage in West Germany rose by 13 per cent in 1969 to 1,200 marks ($325) a month, the Institute of German Industry reports. Average production per employe rose during the same period by 3 per cent, the Institute said.

Texas Ex-Governor Flatly Denies Secret Cabinet Deal With Nixon

FLORESVILLE, Tex. (UPI) —Former Democratic Gov. John B. Connally secretly worked for President Nixon's 1968 campaign while believing he would be secretary of defense in the Nixon Cabinet, a report published Wednesday said.

The former Texas governor, wounded by gunfire while riding in the limousine in which President John F. Kennedy was assassinated, immediately branded the report "an out and out lie."

Appearing in the book "The Resurrection of Richard Nixon," by Washington newsman Jules Witcover, the report said Connally joined the campaign of Hubert H. Humphrey at the last minute, apparently fearing the former vice president would carry Texas and leave him "out in the cold in a state that went Democratic without him."

The switch cost him a spot in the Republican-appointed cabinet, the report said.

The book said Connally, working for former President Lyndon B. Johnson, left the Democratic National Convention "personally unhappy," partly because he was passed over as the vice presidential nominee.

Aware of his disenchantment, Nixon agents "began at once to woo Connally ardently," Witcover wrote. "Fellow Texan and fellow conservative John Tower, Fred Larue and other Southern Republicans applied their persuasive powers — and spoken or implied promise of a major plum in the Nixon administration — and Connally played ball."

"Humphrey's final margin of victory, only 39,000 votes out of nearly 3,100,000 cast, suggests Connally could well have swung the state for Nixon had he not caved in at the end," Witcover said.

He quotes a "Nixon insider" as later saying: "If the fellow had had a few more guts, he'd be secretary of defense today."

Two Police Fired For Keeping Gun Seized On Duty

OAKLAND (UPI)—Two Oakland policemen have been fired from the force after they failed to turn in a revolver seized as "evidence," the department announced Wednesday.

Patrolmen Dean A. Leatherman, 30, and Roger C. Morrow, 25, were discharged Monday for unofficerlike conduct and untruthfulness to their superiors.

Police said Leatherman, a three-year veteran who was formerly on the Beverly Hills police force, did not turn in a .38 revolver seized following a family quarrel at the home of a Mrs. Mattie Watson.

Morrow, on the force for almost a ear, was said to have alibied for Leatherman.

The Federal Aviation Agency restricts amateur missiles from a weight and composition standpoint rather than potential altitude range.

Sinatra Does A Turnabout, Will Campaign For Reagan

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Frank Sinatra, who campaigned for John F. Kennedy and Franklin D. Roosevelt, is now backing Republican Ronald Reagan for re-election as California's governor.

Although announcing Wednesday he will serve as cochairman of the Californians for Reagan organization, Sinatra added "I have been—and will continue to be—a Democrat."

The singer-actor declared "it is my duty as a citizen to put aside the partisan considerations when I think the other party's candidate is clearly the outstanding candidate for office."

Californians for Reagan is an organization made up of Democrats and the other cochairmen are George Killion, onetime steamship firm president and former national Democratic Party treasurer, and State Sen. Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno.

Reagan, a former actor, said in Sacramento he was "very pleased that Frank will support our efforts."

There was no comment from assemblyman Jess Unruh, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, who is vacationing.

In explaining his decision, Sinatra issued a news release declaring "the youth of our state is one of our biggest assets."

"To protect that asset, we must all work together to end the turmoil on the campuses and improve the communications between the students and what they refer to as the Establishment.'"

Bull Runner Hurt

PAMPLONA, Spain (UPI)—One man was gored seriously and 38 others were bruised in Wednesday's running of the bulls as part of Pamplona's San Fermin Fiesta.

The most seriously injured was a Spaniard gored in the left leg as a crowd of young men ran six fighting bulls through the streets to the bullring for the daily bullfight.

The weeklong festival opened Tuesday with the biggest crowds in the history of the celebration.

Berkeley Police Seize Firebombs

BERKELEY (UPI)—Police, who reported seizing 30 firebombs, held five persons under arrest Wednesday for investigation of conspiracy and possession of incendiary materials.

A plainclothesman, equipped with a shortwave transmitter, noticed suspicious actions near Telegraph Avenue and led to the arrests, the department said.

Included on the arrest list were three unnamed juveniles and Robert M. Hagans, 23, a transient, and Lewis Nelson Turnbaugh, 23, Berkeley.

College Grades Plan Draws Split Reaction

A majority of College of Marin students are satisfied with the school's present grading system, which eliminates D and F grades, according to a survey conducted by Irwin P. Diamond, dean of students.

Only about a third, however, prefer it over any other system.

The college over a year ago abolished the D and F, giving only a "no credit" rating to students falling below C. At the time, it was argued this would do away with the onus of a failing grade; though there were some objections from the athletic department that it would cause some border-line students to lose athletic eligibility.

A questionnaire was distributed to the first 500 students, alphabetically, during this year's spring semester. Of these, 159 filled it out and returned it.

Eighty-eight per cent said they understood the grading system. Fifty-seven per cent said they are satisfied with it.

Reinstating the D grade was advocated by 36 per cent but opposed by 46 per cent, with the remaining 18 per cent expressing no opinion.

Asked which system they prefer, 31 per cent said the present system; 18 per cent, A-B-C-D-F, 16 per cent, pass-no pass; 14 per cent, optional written or oral evaluation, and 6 per cent, no evaluation at all. There were scattered votes for other systems.

Of those polled, only 4 per cent said they had ever been disqualified from the college. The new grading system has resulted in more disqualifications than the former A-B-C-D-F system because a D grade was considered passing.

Sixty-two per cent thought the present disqualification system (demanding all grades average at C) satisfactory; 27 per cent said it is too strict.

Teachers apparently are less satisfied with the system than are students. Questionnaires were distributed to the 130 full-time faculty members. Only 42 responded, but of them, 23 said D grades should be reinstated.

Of the balloting teachers, 31 thought the present probation standards not too strict, 25 thought them not too lenient — a confusing division which Diamond did not attempt to explain.

Hearing Scheduled In Store Burglary Case

A preliminary hearing has been set for next Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court for Mark Jefferson Lee, 21, of 100 Bayo Vista Drive, San Rafael, who is accused of burglarizing the Terra Linda Variety Store Sunday.

Lee and a companion who fled were seen inside the store about 4 a.m. by Terra Linda officers who caught Lee as he came out. He allegedly took about $25 in coins from the store.

Bill To Delay 'Smokeless' Jet Gains

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to give airlines two additional years to convert to "smokeless" jet engines has cleared the Senate Transportation Committee and gone to the finance committee for approval that would send the measure to the upper house floor.

Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, author of the bill, said it had the support of the airline industry.

A law passed by the 1969 Legislature required that jet emissions be virtually smokeless by Jan. 1, 1971. McCarthy's bill would postpone the date to Dec. 31, 1972.

A top airline official reported in January that jets operating in and to California could not possibly meet the new state limits. Ralph T. Glasson, vice president of United Air Lines' base maintenance at San Francisco International Airport, said then that the airline industry was aiming instead to substantially complete conversion to "smokeless" operation throughout the nation by the end of 1972.

The new state law would limit the emissions to Ringelmann 2, an eyeball measurement that allows the smoke to obscure up to 40 per cent of the light passing through the plume.

Larkspur Parks Panel Delaying On Master Plan

After discussing proposals by park planners for a parks master plan, the Larkspur Park and Recreation Commission last night agreed to hold a further interview with the San Francisco firm of Berridge, Becker and Julin at the commission's August meeting.

No date for the August meeting has been set, reported recreation director Harlan Barry.

The commission asked Barry to produce a draft ordinance for the August meeting setting out some formula under which new subdivisions would have to provide specified amounts of open space. The commission also sent a letter to the Schultz Building Company requesting the company set aside open space along Corte Madera Creek frontage.

A report on Dolliver Park, which is being rehabilitated at the request of residents of Madrone Canyon, indicated the park is receiving more use this year than before and that no vandalism has occurred as in past years.

Touring Car Buyers To Lose Break On Tax

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — California tourists planning to buy cars abroad are headed for a shock — most of them no longer will be able to dodge the 5 per cent sales tax on their cars.

The state Board of Equalization, in a pending amendment of its regulations, apparently is going to tighten its definition of whether a car is bought for use out of state. The measure of intended use is the board's "90-day test," which long has said that no sales tax was due on cars bought more than 90 days before entering the state.

The 90 days is counted from the date the car is delivered to the buyer to the date the car enters the state. As a result, tourists often store their cars in Europe after using them for a few weeks, and then shop around for a slow boat.

But the pending amendment will stop the 90-day count after the tourist delivers his car to a shipping agent. The new rule would count the 90 days "exclusive of any time of shipment to California or time of storage for shipment to California."

The tougher limitation was to have been applied to all cars ordered on or after July 1, but board adoption of the change was slowed by strong opposition from U. S. dealers handling overseas sales.

A spokesman for the board told the Independent-Journal that the effective date of the amendment probably would be one month after it is adopted. He declined to predict that it would be adopted, but said the staff was recommending its adoption by August.

The ease of dodging the sales tax under current rules is a big selling point for buying cars abroad. The effect of the change will be to eliminate virtually all of the saving on overseas delivery for all but the most expensive cars.

Petaluma Lab Given A New Lease On Life

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A bill permitting poultry and livestock inspection stations in Petaluma and Turlock to remain open was signed Wednesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The bill by Assemblyman Clare Berryhill, R-Ceres, authorizes the laboratories to collect fees from ranchers for services to finance their continued operation. The stations had been scheduled for closure when funds for their operation were excluded from the 1970-71 budget.

If the laboratories had been closed, ranchers would have had to use facilities in Sacramento to test turkeys, chickens, cows and livestock for diseases.

NATION HAS SURPLUS TEACHERS

Will Students Benefit?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It used to be that a young lady could while away a few years before marriage as a teacher. A young man could always try teaching, and if he was suited and liked it, could fashion a respected —if not well paid — career.

Now, say the teacher-counters, the young ladies would be well advised to consider matrimony first and the young men had better be serious about classroom careers, because the competition is heavy.

The national teacher shortage is over.

For the first time since World War II, more teachers are being produced than there are teaching positions.

"The new graduate's problem of finding employment is a real one," says a soon-to-be-published federal education report. "Fewer jobs are available. Employers are choosing more carefully. Many graduates will eventually accept positions they would not have considered earlier."

Won't all this work be to the advantage of students, who for years have sat in overcrowded classrooms and attended school in half-day sessions?

Not necessarily, says Don Davies, a U. S. Office of Education associate commissioner for personnel development.

"Such reactions indicate a serious and dangerous detachment from reality," Davies recently told the prestigious Council of Chief State School Officers.

"A surplus of people with teaching credentials will not guarantee all children a quality education any more than our annual surplus of crops has guaranteed all Americans an adequate diet."

While Davies admits of a new potential to improve the quality of education, he cautions that critical shortages still exist.

"Severe manpower shortages plague the fields of vocational and early childhood education," he said. "The same is true in education for the handicapped. Schools in low income areas continue to be manned in many cases by personnel emotionally unprepared and academically untrained to work effectively with youngsters in these communities."

Educational statisticians generally agree that during the just-completed school year, public schools had available more teachers than they could use.

The National Education Association estimates that only 215,700 new teachers, among a supply of 255,200, found teaching jobs last year, leaving a surplus of 39,500 —the majority trying for high schools.

The teacher boom has reduced the national pupil-teacher ratio by two children since 1965, the National Center for Educational Statistics reported. The present 22.7 to 1 ratio is not, however, a valid measure of average class size, the agency said.

It recorded 2,013,836 full and part-time public school teachers last fall, a 4 per cent increase over the previous year.

The surplus came about when post-World War II babies grew up and graduated from college. It was augmented by a declining national birth rate in the 1960's that leveled off elementary school attendance and the demand for teachers.

It is being fueled by the economic downswing.

"Many people in business, industry, government and even in professional associations are looking to education as their jobs are eliminated or as their opportunities seem to fade," said the unpublished government report.

"It is not unusual in such areas as the West Coast where unemployment is extensive for wives to return to teaching so their husbands can remain in the vicinity in hopes that their old jobs will reopen."

As the economy dips, the pressures for ex-teachers to return to the classroom will increase. With the closing of other vocational avenues, young liberal arts graduates who entered college with no interest in teaching are putting in their bids for classroom jobs.

Easing the pressure a bit, but only a slight bit, was the decision to end draft deferments for teaching. However, fewer than 5 per cent of next fall's estimated 300,000 newly available teachers (both men and women) can expect to be drafted, the statisticians report.

Veterans coming back into the job market could well offset that number.

So educators have stopped wringing their hands about where to find teachers and — in fact — the U. S. Office of Education is calling teacher oversupply "a matter of unusual concern."

Davies hopes the educational system will take advantage of this "once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to focus primarily on the quality and scope of educational services."

Top State Court Upholds Conviction On Marijuana

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The state Supreme Court Wednesday upheld the conviction of a Los Angeles man who was arrested when police found a burning pipe and an envelope of marijuana in his apartment.

The court unanimously upheld the conviction of Jesse Cressey Jr. for violating a controversial section of the Health and Safety Code.

Section 11556 states it is a crime for a person to be "in any room or place where any narcotics are being unlawfully smoked or used with knowledge that such activity is occurring."

The court, however, clarified the section because Cressey's attorney attacked its constitutionality.

The panel said a literal reading of the section "could proscribe some kinds of conduct which cannot constitutionally be considered criminal."

"An individual might find himself in situations, such as at a party...where he had no relation to the acts of others who might be disposed to use marijuana," the decision said.

"As this court has held: 'If the defendant did not act to aid, assist, or abet the perpetration of the crime, he is guilty of no violation of law from the mere fact that he was present."

However, the court noted that "in one's own residence or automobile one may have the responsibility to prevent the use of the narcotic for illegal purposes in that one has some control over the premises."

The court upheld Cressey's conviction on grounds he controlled the apartment in which the marijuana was found.

The beetle-browed flier, a shy man who dislikes public speaking, said the space twins had been surprised at first by the effects of gravity upon them, describing the drag upon their legs and arms as like "being inside a centrifuge."

Illinois Bloc Claims First In Abortion Law

CHICAGO (AP) — Laws controlling the termination of pregnancies by abortion are the target for repeal by many groups and an Illinois group says it is the first to adovcate a confidential woman-physician relationship.

Ralph Brown, president of The Illinois Citizens for the Medical Control of Abortion, said the organization is the first of its kind in the United States to adopt as its platform the making of termination of pregnancies as a private decision between the woman and her physician.

I-J Riot Trial Transferred To Fairfield

Seven men accused of felony crimes in connection with the Valentine's Day riot outside the Independent-Journal building in San Rafael have been ordered to stand trial in Solano County Superior Court in Fairfield the week of Aug. 4

The case was transferred to that county after Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner granted a motion by the defendants' attorney for a change of venue.

Attorney Robert D. Carrow had claimed the men could not receive a fair trial in Marin because of publicity in the I-J.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Milton Hyams said that when he told Judge Thomas N. Healy of Solano County that he wanted an early trial date because there had been no action in the case since April 29 the judge agreed.

Judge Healy also commented that if the defendants, who did not appear in court Monday, were not present at a pretrial conference which was set for July 20, he would hold them in jail until the trial.

(All the men are free on bail.)

The accused men are charged with offenses including assault on officers, possessing unlawful weapons and various misdemeanor counts. They were arrested during a riotous demonstration in support of striking San Francisco Typographical Union 21 on Feb. 14.

They are:

John Joseph DeMartini, 44, of Mill Valley; Nimmes Harrison Shelton, 40, Charles Porter Vance, 29, San Francisco; Joe Earl Reese, 31, Hayward; Alvis Dean Bailey, 43, San Francisco; Terry Warner Lansing, 20, Berkeley; and James Starkey Brooke, 35, San Francisco.

Sanitary Board Debates Decrease In Yearly Budget

The Ross Valley Sanitary District Board last night discussed a tentative 1970-71 budget of $192,625, a decrease of $1,669 from the 1969-70 figure.

No action was taken and the budget will be discussed further at the Aug. 12 meeting, reported manager Ralph C. Noah.

The board awarded a $3,883 contract to the Soiland Company to replace a siphon on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Ross in coordination with the flood control project on Corte Madera Creek.

The board agreed to send a proposal to San Quentin Prison for a joint study of an outfall line into the bay and to study a possible contract for the district to treat sewage from the prison.

The board also agreed to buy a pumping station site from College of Marin, but no price was set. The site is on the oxbow of Corte Madera Creek.

The Aug. 12 meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the district office.

Incorrect Caption

A picture on Page 1 of yesterday's Independent-Journal showed men and equipment from Maggiora and Ghilotti Co. preparing to relocate water lines for the Marin Municipal Water District in preparation for the next phase of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project in Kentfield and Ross. The picture was captioned incorrectly to indicate the work shown was part of the flood control project itself.

dia and renewed prospects for peace in Laos.

There were these other major developments in Indochina:

--The U.S. Command announced in Saigon that American servicemen last week suffered the lowest casualties in 3½ years of fighting—61 dead and 463 wounded.

—Military sources in Phnom Penh said the Communists apparently had withdrawn 35,000 men of their 60,000 man force in Cambodia in the face of government counter-offensives supported by air strikes. Large number of civilians were reported returning to their homes in the northern part of Cambodia.

—Laotian government sources in Vietiane said the International Control Commission had offered to mediate the differences between the government and the Communist Pathet Lao, indicating the possibility of early peace talks. The ICC decision apparently represented a softening of the position of Communist Poland, a member of the ICC.

Russ Reveal Own Pace In Space Race

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union will leave moonflight space missions to the United States for the time being and will aim solely at orbiting permanent space stations "within the next few years," a Soviet scientist said today.

Mstislav Keldysh, president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, confirmed that the Russians plan no comebacks in the "moon-race." He spoke during a news conference given by the Soyuz 9 cosmonauts, Maj. Gen. Andrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevastianov.

It was the first such conference open to representatives of the world press since the cosmonauts ended the space flight that set a record for endurance last June 19. They complimented U.S. astronauts as well as Soviet cosmonauts for providing them with technical experience and said they were in good health.

Describing "the next step" in the Soviet space program Keldysh said, "our main task now is orbital stations and also the study of the solar system and the earth by unmanned vehicles."

Asked when permanent, manned stations could be expected to be functioning, he said: "I think within the next few years."

He said Soyuz 9 had provided the technical know-how for space missions of more than 30 days.

"We cannot set any maximum time," he said, "but most probably it is now over a month and that is quite long enough for a long-term, orbital mission, because such stations presuppose crew changes."

Marin's Manpower Panel Starts Work

The 11-member Marin County Manpower Commission took its first official steps yesterday toward development of a coordinated job placement and development program.

The commision, holding its organizational meeting in the offices of the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council, was created by the county board of supervisors in April.

It plans to operate a year-long project, composed of employers and representatives of social agencies, under which 75 disadvantaged persons would receive job training and placement as well as services including child care, transportation, remedial education and counseling.

In announcing the opening of a office in the EOC's neighborhood service center at 918 C Street in San Rafael, the commission said that in addition to the year-long project, it would accept job applicants referred by other agencies and also would accept walk-in applicants.

Several commission members worried, however, that the staff, consisting of a manpower coordinating and an employment counselor aide, would get bogged down in excessive record-keeping.

Elmo Petterle of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co., a commission member, said employers needed a place to call to fill jobs that open up quickly and hoped the commission office could fill the role.

The commission elected Joseph Ravarra of the Bay Area Urban League as chairman and Petterle as vice chairman and said it would meet the second Wednesday of each month at noon at the EOC offices.

Marijuana Sale Charges Hearing Set For July 30

A preliminary hearing has been set for July 30 in Marin Municipal Court for Kenneth William Fair, Mill Valley service station attendant charged with possessing marijuana for sale, and William James Talbot II, 21, of Orinda.

Talbot is accused of possessing pot.

They were arrested June 19 after a stakeout by drug agents of the Enco service station and Miller and Evergreen avenues, where agents said they saw Fair lead people to a car, open the trunk and hand them plastic packages.

Upon learning that the car was registered to Fair, the agents asked to search his trunk. Fair first produced keys to Talbot's car, which agents said contained a small package of pot.

Draft Chief Sees Trouble From Courts

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—If courts continue to broaden the qualifications for conscientious objectors it could mean an end to the draft system, says the new director of Selective Service.

Curtis W. Tarr said Wednesday his department expects the number of "valid" requests to increase in light of recent Supreme Court decision. He added, however, that if the courts go on and allow potential inductees to object to specific wars rather than all wars, the draft will become completely unworkable.

"The animosities which would arise between those willing to serve and those unwilling would destroy the system," Tarr said. "Every state director I have consulted has also said this."

If legislation to create an all-volunteer military goes into effect, Tarr continued, "the nation will have to cut back on its commitments.

"I think it would be very difficult to raise a volunteer army now because of the unfavorable opinions in the country today," he said.

"If we increase the economic attractiveness of the military and come to a less divisive and bitter period, the volunteer army will be practical."

OUT OF SPACE—Pat Shepard, Sausalito's new city librarian, looks in vain for an empty space for one of the dozens of new books which come into the library each week. But overcrowded conditions at the tiny library have made it necessary to remove one volume from the shelves for each new book placed theer. (Independent-Journal photo)

New Sausalito Librarian Has Hemmed-In Job

Pat Shepard, Sausalito's new city librarian, glanced around the tiny library, jammed to the bursting point with books and bookcases, and voiced a concern that has plagued Sausalito librarians for years.

"There just isn't room to grow," she said, looking at the evident congestion. Things are so tight, she said, that for every book added, a book must be removed.

Since Mrs. Shepard began her new duties July 1, she has spent most of her time deciding which old books to place in storage to make room for the new volumes which flood into the library each week. Already, thousands of surplus books are stored in city hall (below the library) and in the county library, she said.

AWAITS NEW PLANT

Mrs. Shepard is eagerly awaiting the day when the city builds a new library. Even though voters in June approved land for construction of a new city hall and library, it will probably be several years before a larger library is built.

But, despite the cramped quarters and resultant inconvenience, the 24-year-old Mrs. Shepard is enjoying her job and the chance to live on the West Coast for the first time. Her husband, Robert, is employed with Honeywell Inc. in San Francisco where they live. They moved there from Ohio in March.

The new librarian holds a bachelor's degree in library science and American studies from Bowling Green University in Ohio and was born and reared in that state.

For Mrs. Shepard, the West's most unusual feature is the fog, routine to Marinites, but exciting to someone who has never experienced it.

CHIEF HOBBY

Her chief hobby, not surprisingly, is reading and she will have an opportunity to do a lot of it, since a librarian's duties include reading book reviews from all over the county and scanning all books which come into the library.

In her spare time - when she has any - Mrs. Shepard said she likes to ski and play tennis.

Also, not surprisingly, she finds San Francisco (where she lives) and Sausalito "much livelier" than her native Midwest.

A BAD YEAR TURNS BETTER

Novatan, Wife Win I-J Journey

A Novato woman who has been helping her husband battle cancer all year got a pleasant surprise yesterday.

Jessie Dugan of 306 Olive Street won a trip for two to Hawaii, the grand prize in the Independent-Journal's Lucky License reader contest.

"I think it's wonderful. It's the most wonderful thing that ever happened to us. The year started out pretty bad. We discovered that my husband had cancer and he had to have an operation. I think this trip is going to be the most wonderful thing that ever happened to him," was Mrs. Dugan's reaction.

She said the excitement of the trip would take her husband's mind off his illness.

Mrs. Dugan could not be reached yesterday by the I-J so her husband, Charles, was informed of the results yesterday at the Hamilton Air Force Base barber shop where he works.

Mrs. Dugan, a practical nurse, said she had promised her husband a trip to Lake Tahoe, but when she returned from work yesterday he asked for a trip to Hawaii instead.

She said she couldn't afford it and didn't expect to win the trip —before her husband told her the news.

The couple will receive round-trip tickets on Western Airlines International "The Islander" flight to Hawaii, air transportation to the outer islands, and accommodations for nine days at Sheraton hotels of Hawaii — the Princess Kaiulani, in Waikiki, the Sheraton Maui and the Sheraton Kauai.

The winning license plate was the first to win a daily cash prize in the contest which ran from June 15 to July 4.

The Dugans, formerly of Fairfax, have lived in Novato a year.

HAWAII-BOUND—Jessie and Charles Dugan of Novato smile broadly near the license plate that won them a trip to Hawaii. Mrs. Dugan was the grand prize winner in the Independent-Journal's Lucky License contest. The bumper strip on car was the only requirement to enter the contest.

Houseboat Crowding Threat To Bay Life?

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The size and spacing of houseboat developments can have significant effects on the ability of the bay to produce oxygen vital to aquatic life, an ecologist has reported.

Dr. James P. Heath, who teaches at San Jose State College and is a consultant to the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission, termed "undesirable" the fact that any houseboat cuts off light needed in the production of oxygen.

"This effect is not as permanent nor as damaging as fill," he said in a report to the commission, "but it is undesirable. Houseboats that rest on the bottom at low tide simply produce for that period of time a condition of fill," he added.

Floating houseboats "are slightly better" because they allow the current to flow, he said. But also important, Dr. Heath said, is the distance between boats.

Two large houseboats eight feet apart may cut off 50 per cent of the light in that open space, but at 20 feet separation the light loss would be far less, he said.

"It would seem that if houseboats are to be permitted, the factor of spacing should be known," he said. "Furthermore, boats that float at all times should have preference over those that sit on the mud part of the time."

Newspapers Preservation Bill Approved By House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress has gone on record in favor of a bill to exempt from antitrust laws newspapers that pool their noneditorial operations to avoid financial collapse of one or the other of the papers.

All that remains for final congressional approval is reconciliation of differences between an earlier Senate-passed bill which the House rewrote and passed Wednesday by a 292-to-87 roll call vote.

Both bills would provide such joint operations now in effect in 22 cities could continue without change. New joint agreements made after enactment of a compromise bill into law would need approval of the attorney general.

One of the existing joint operations, between two Tucson, Ariz., newspapers, has been ruled by the Supreme Court a violation of antitrust laws. The bills would nullify that ruling.

The measures would allow newspapers to combine their advertising printing, business and circulation operations and pool the profits from the joint operations. The papers, however, would have to maintain separate editorial staffs.

The House version would require a newspaper be in "probable danger of financial failure" to qualify for the antitrust exemption, while the Senate version would require only that a publication "appear unlikely to remain or become a financially sound publication."

Damage suits in the Tucson case and in regard to a similar joint operating agreement in San Francisco would be made moot by either version. Claims in the two suits totaled several million dollars.

Three Hurt When Auto Overturns

Three persons were injured yesterday at 12:10 p.m. when their car overturned on Highway 101, south of Petaluma Boulevard South, Petaluma.

The driver, Rubin Figueroa, 24, of Monte Rio, and a passenger, Mary Wassink, 20, of Eldon, N. Y., were treated at Petaluma General Hospital for face cuts. Another passenger, Dennis McGire, 22, of San Francisco, said he would see his own physician for treatment of cuts.

The California Highway Patrol said the car hit the right berm and overturned, then righted itself in the center divider strip.

Interim Head Named To Agency Post

Wallace K. Shepherd, administrative assistant for the Marin County Housing Authority and Redevelopment Agency, has been named interim executive director for both bodies.

Shepherd was chosen Tuesday by directors of the authority. He will take over the job of Donald O. Stutsman who resigned the post in April and will leave July 15.

The interim administrator will serve until a new executive director is chosen. Shepherd said 10 final candidates, chosen from a field of 76, will be screened next week by directors of both groups and a citizens committee set up to assist in the selection.

The Marin County Housing Authority also:

LOW BID — Directed its engineer to study a low bid of $58,000 from Alvis Allen and Sons, Marin City contractors, for installation of ventilating fans in 300 units of public housing in Marin City.

SALARY HIKE — Approved a 5 per cent salary increase for administrative and clerical staff.

LAND SALE — Authorized acceptance of $36,000, if offered by the City of Tiburon, for 4.8 surplus acres in the Hilarita Housing Project on condition the land be used for recreation.

SPECIAL MEETING — Set a special joint meeting with the redevelopment agency to consider a request from the Marin Urban Development Association that that group be named official Marin City developer. The meeting will be held July 15 at 8 p.m. at Manzanita Center, Marin City.

Two women who rented photography equipment from the Camera Corner, 1 Petaluma Boulevard North, Petaluma, gave false addresses and failed to return the merchandise, according to police.

Shop owner David W. Brainerd, a Petaluma city councilman, told police that two young women rented two movie projectors and screens on July 3 and had failed to return them. He estimated the loss at $364.

Meeting Postponed

Tonight's regularly scheduled meeting of the Marin County Human Rights Commission has been postponed to 8 p.m. next Thursday because some members cannot be present, executive director Austin J. Thompson announced.

Plaza Reelected OAS Secretary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ambassador Galo Plaza of Ecuador has been re-elected to a five-year term as Secretary General of the Organization of American States.

Plaza's election Wednesday came as delegates from 23 Latin-American republics wound up a two-week meeting of the OAS General Assembly.

The delegates, who earlier in the week adopted a resolution condemning political terrorism in the Western Hemisphere—particularly kidnaping of diplomats—also re-elected Miguel Rafael Urquia of El Salvador as Assistant Secretary General.

Hub Design Planners Approve Landscaping

The San Anselmo Design Review Committee last night approved plans for landscaping and a free-standing sign at Guasco Market, 100 Center Boulevard, reported secretary Thelma Foster.

The committee also recommended the property owner plant New Zealand flax in a planting area adjoining the post office at 121 San Anselmo Avenue, to replace a tree which succumbed to wind or vandals several weeks ago.

Mrs. Valory To Lose Job As State Consumer Counsel

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — California's controversial consumer counsel, Kay Valory, will lose her $18,000-a-year job on Aug. 1 as a resut of cuts in the new state budget.

The Legislature slashed the appropriation for the office from $44,000 to $10,000 — leaving just enough to pay for a clerk to refer complaints to other departments.

The cut came after Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post said Mrs. Valory's duties could be performed by the new State Division of Consumer Affairs.

Democrats long have criticized Mrs. Valory for doing nothing about consumer problems. The Association of California Consumers, based in Sausalito, labeled her office a "fraud."

Mrs. Valory was appointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan in 1967. She was a leader in his 1966 gubernatorial campaign.

BACK FROM AN ACCIDENT

Edward DeMaestri appears to be chuckling as he works on the crumpled fender of a San Anselmo police car at Fairfax Garage. Often seen parked near an auto accident, this car and a College of Marin patrol car made their own yesterday. They collided at the intersection of San Anselmo Avenue and Center Boulevard at 1:05 p.m. The uninjured policemen, Martin C. Gent of the San Anselmo force and Denny V. Lawrence of College of Marin, presumably had no trouble getting details of the accident for their reports.

Blacks Help Keep Seaside City Cool

ASHBURY PARK, N.J. (UPI) —Unarmed black youth patrols and state police maintained peace in the violence-scarred streets of this resort community today while Negro leaders canvassed West Side ghetto residents on city government reactions to their 20 demands.

Approximately 300 black leaders met five hours Wednesday with Mayor Joseph F. Mattice to discuss the demands which included a proposal to grant amnesty to the 225 persons arrested during three nights of violence in which 160 were injured and damage was estimated at more than $1 million.

No serious incidents were reported Wednesday as the black youths acted as a buffer between ghetto residents and police in an effort to end the violence. Only 12 arrests were reported during the day.

Black leaders were slated to meet again with Mattice today. Although none of the official decisions on the black demands was revealed, Mattice and black leaders such as Willy Hamm expressed optimism. "We feel encouraged by it," Hamm said of the meeting.

Other key demands included establishment of a civilian police review board and withdrawal of all state police and outside policemen from the community.

Police Chief Thomas Smith, a black, said he was "cautiously optimistic that serious disorders may have ended in the resort community of 22,000 persons.

State police announced earlier Wednesday Maj. Harold Graff, head of the Criminal Investigation Bureau, would lead an investigation into shootings Tuesday that resulted in 46 persons being wounded, four seriously. Police said they fired into the air in a brief battle with a crowd of 200 persons.

Black leaders held a closed meeting earlier Wednesday which produced the idea of using civilian patrols and led to the meeting with Mattice. Roland Copeland, a representative of the Justice Department's Community Regional Services branch in Newark, attended the meeting.

State police said if calm continued they hoped to be able to withdraw patrols from the West Side but said there were no immediate plans to withdraw 150 troopers reinforcing Asbury Park's 48-man force.

Police in towns of Freehold, Hightstown and Red Bank—scenes of disturbances earlier this week—reported no incidents Wednesday.

More Talks In Rome Over Leader Crisis

ROME (UPI)—President Giuseppe Saragat conferred today for 40 minutes with three-time Premier Aldo Moro, a leading candidate to assume the premiership again.

Leaders of the Communist Party met Saragat later and told newsmen they insisted the left wing obtain more influence in the next government. Saragat, the man who appoints premiers, was in the second of three days of consultations with former presidents, premiers and political leaders, seeking advice on how to resolve the nation's latest leadership crisis. The crisis was climaxed Monday when Premier Mariano Rumor resigned after 100 days in office, bringing down the country's 31st post-Fascist government.

Moro returned from an African visit to find himself listed as a leading candidate to succeed Rumor. He made no comment after seeing the president.

Communist leaders followed Moro into Saragat's office. They stayed more than one hour and emerged to tell newsmen they opposed any restoration of the center-left coalition Rumor led.

Pietro Ingrao, leader of the large Communist bloc in Parliament, told newsmen the delegation attacked Rumor's resignation as a political ploy which would hurt the economy and cause tension among workers, students and the man in the street.

Official Praises Marin Residents On Burning Ban

A spokesman for the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District in Marin yesterday praised county residents for their acceptance of the six-month old ban on outdoor burning.

Sam Chapman, the district's Marin enforcement inspector, said he has cited less than 10 incinerator violations and 21 open fire violations since the ban began Jan. 1.

Chapman added that 16 of the 21 open fire violations were issued to Mathews, Humbert and Walker Lumber Co., of North Bend, Ore., for unattended fires on Bolinas Ridge during April and May.

He added, "I think the people of Marin have done a great job."

Senator Muskie Has A Grandchild

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, has a new title—"grandad."

His daughter Ellen, 20, wife of Ernest Allen of Arlington, Va., gave birth to a six pound 10 ounce baby boy Tuesday at Georgetown University Hospital.

The boy, named Ethan Michael, is the Senator's first grandchild.

Couple's Hearing Set In Marijuana Case

A preliminary hearing has been set for July 28 in Marin Municipal Court for Ernest Lewin, 23, and his wife, Kathleen Marie, 22, of San Anselmo who are charged with possessing, cultivating and being under the influence of marijuana.

They were arrested June 19 after a drug agent said he observed Mrs. Lewin in a car apparently smoking a pot cigarette. A search of their car and their house produced a marijuana cigarette and small pot plants.

Everyone Complains About Continued Inflation, But...

Everybody complains about inflation. Most people blame it on the government.

Certainly government policies (and sometimes, lack of policies) at federal, state and local levels contribute to inflation. But there are other causes which many people don't like to recognize.

ITEM: ON JULY 3, "wildcat" Teamsters Union strikes throughout the United States — strikes which spread despite earlier agreement by International Brotherhood of Teamsters officials to new contracts providing a $1.10 per hour increase over three years — were settled by granting bigger increases. The settlement gave truck drivers in the Chicago area raises totaling $1.65 an hour over three years; those elsewhere, $1.85 an hour over three years. These are just the increases.

Item: One day earlier, the Sugar Workers Union rejected an offer by California and Hawaiian Sugar Co. at Crockett for a 10 per cent pay raise now, plus an additional 5 per cent next year and 5 per cent in 1972, and plus a cost-of-living increase not to exceed 3 per cent each year. Not enough, they said.

ITEM: ON JULY 1, the Sheet Metal Workers Union in Los Angeles voted to strike rather than accept an offer of increases in pay and fringe benefits totaling $5 an hour over three years. They demanded this be boosted to $5.71 — the amount of increase, note!

Item: The same day, a strike by Department Store Clerks Union and Shoe and Textile Salesmen's Union in San Francisco was averted with raises ranging from 50 cents to $1.10 an hour — those are the increases — plus boosts in pension benefits ranging from 37 to 62 per cent.

Item: Also on July 1, a strike of non-medical workers at New York hospitals was headed off by granting the Drug and Hospitals Union increases ranging from 25 to 30 per cent over two years.

Shutdown of New York newspapers by an International Typographical Union strike was averted recently 15 per cent to be followed by 11 per when the publishers granted a raise of 15 per cent, to be followed by another 11 per cent next year and still another 11 per cent in 1972. Now the Mailers Union is threatening to strike the New York newspapers unless its members get the same raises. The ITU is the parent union of the Mailers Union.

INFLATION HAS BOOSTED the cost of living appreciably in the last few years — a fact of which almost everyone is painfully aware. But none of these pay increases has much relation to the cost of living increase — yet.

They and others like them will, of course, cause the cost of living to go up still farther.

These inflationary pay grants come at the same time that most companies find themselves in a financial bind, with profits declining or vanishing. To meet that bind, many have begun layoffs of management personnel. Others have cut executive salaries. Hewlett-Packard Corp. in Santa Clara County has begun giving everyone, from the top down, one day off without pay every two weeks.

Commercial as well as public organizations have tended to grow top-heavy with management personnel. Cutting there is a practical approach to an economic squeeze. But it is futile indeed if accompanied by huge pay raises for workers covered by contracts.

EVERYONE COMPLAINS about inflation. But no one, it seems, wants to help curb it. Very few seem willing to recognize that demanding more and more money for no more work must lead eventually to bankruptcy for the employer, whether that employer is the government or a private company.

When that happens, the big pay raise becomes meaningless—because the job is no longer there.

Noises In The Night

In the magnified silence of the post-midnight hours in our neighborhood, little noises bang loudly on the wakeful eardrums.

The meanderings of a deer through the dry grass and underbrush of the orchard next door strikes our ears with the force of a stumbling, clumsy elephant. It is amazing that such a delicate, cautious creature makes such a racket.

The shrill screeching of an angry skunk is dwarfed by titanic growling, hissing and screaming of a bitter battle between a raccoon and a housecat.

The cry of a bird disturbed on its nest by some unknown creature rings out, then stops abruptly, leaving one to speculate on its meaning.

Nights in Marin are relatively quiet, but not without their small dramas.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

'One Man, One Vote' On Fund Bills To Avoid Budget Delay?

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — There is some concern here in Sacramento that the budget standoffs of the last two years may become the regular pattern unless some basic changes in the legislative process are made.

State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, who must sign all state warrants for pay, services and supplies, says the state has been lucky so far that no dire consequence has resulted from failure to have a budget signed into law by the end of the fiscal year on June 30, as happened last year and this.

He suggests some form of continuing appropriations, or at least continuing authority to function, since under the present system the authority of all state employees except constitutional and statutory officers expires with the fiscal year.

ALL OF THE maneuvering and all of the bargaining positions depend on the constitutional fact that it requires a two-thirds vote in each house to pass any appropriation bill, including the budget, and on the fact that the era of large majorities for either political party seems to have passed.

The Republicans outnumber Democrats in the Assembly, but only by 40 to 39, and in the Senate also, but only by 20 to 19.

Minority parties can and do withhold their votes in the hope of extracting concessions, while majority parties can and do stall proceedings in the hope that the June 30 deadline will cause some minority representatives to cave in rather than set the state adrift, fiscally.

THE DIRECT WAY to get at the problem would be to eliminate the constitutional requirement for a two-thirds vote and let the budget pass on a simple majority.

But this would raise hackles all around, despite the fact that the courts are ruling against two-thirds requirements in local bond elections at a great rate.

And cooler heads may reflect that a few new faces can change a majority into a minority, which just might want to have that handy two-thirds rule around so it could point with pride and view with alarm.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Union Disclaimers Not Convincing

In view of the many strike-connected incidents, namely, hundreds of broken windows, private residences firebombed, automobiles damaged, union members apprehended with lethal weapons in their cars or on their persons, the St. Valentine's Day demonstration, and the latest — an alleged murder attempt, the majority of the Marin citizenry has expended its patience and are on the brink of running the pickets that surround the I-J building out of our peaceful town. Shades of the frontier days when the "bad guys" were run out of town by the "good guys."

It amuses the Marin people when, after union members have been apprehended for either damaging personal property or attempting to murder law-abiding citizens, union officials are reported as stating "the union has nothing to do with these incidents." This might be true but the officials would have a hard time convincing 99 out of 100 Marin residents that the union is not the cause of all this maliciousness.

I wonder if the union officials know that the majority of Marin residents feel that the union has lost its right to picket and that the pickets should be run out of town. Sympathy for the Independent-Journal with its courageous staff of brave workers mounts each day while disdain for unions, particularly ITU Local 21. . . grows greater each hour.

In closing I wish to state that I am not anti-union, yet. I am a member of a union and am proud to say so. However, the day that my union would be accused of the things that the ITU Local 21 is accused of here by Marin residents, I would bow out and tear up my card.

Must be on my way to the blood bank!

One Club Glad To Help Another

In response to a very comprehensive and appealing feature story carried recently by the I-J, which described community service work and the financial crisis of the Boys' Club of Southern Marin, representatives of Ross Valley Kiwanis Club visited this organization and discussed the situation with Manny Chandler, the director.

We were most impressed with the very effective job that Manny and his assistants are doing for these youngsters of Marin City. Their facilities and equipment are grossly inadequate but they are using determination and resourcefulness. They offer educational, recreational and vocational assistance, and there is a desperate need for athletic, photographic and mechanical equipment and books, as well as funds to finance short vacation trips for young and deserving blacks who have never had the experience of a vacation.

The Vocational Guidance Committee of Ross Valley Kiwanis Club was pleased and gratified to make an initial donation of $300 for this very worthwhile work, and we earnestly beseech other individuals and groups to visit with and send donations to: Manny Chandler, Boys' Club of Southern Marin, 640 Drake Avenue, Marin City. . .

Strengthen U.N., Don't Drop It

The letter of July 2 by the lady from San Rafael causes me to reflect upon one of the major problems facing the United Nations: misinformed and fearful Americans.

The United Nations is not the product of the Communists. The United Nations is the most logical product of the evolution of Mankind. . .And, during these first 25 years we have seen many instances of where the UN has met with success.

The Birchers and other fearmongering groups in this country — and abroad — would like to see the UN fall by the wayside. These groups are so hung up with their own hates and fears that they cannot see the possibility of the UN growing into a truly powerful world government wherein the problems outlined by the woman from San Rafael could be handled. . .

Financing of the UN is not, proportionately, a product of the USA's largesse. Many nations contribute much more money to the UN than the USA on a per capita basis. . .

As to the "shameful treatment of peaceloving little Rhodesia", I find little to state other than to call attention to the fact that Rhodesia practices apartheid openly, whereas in the USA we just practice it without acknowledging the practice as candidly as Rhodesia. . .

The UN has not lived up to our expectations in its first 25 years. So let us work to change it and strengthen it so it can in the next 25!

Twisting Arms For Tax Increase

Many people feel that the Novato School Board, by axing all home to school bus transportation, is "twisting our arm" to force a favorable vote in the coming tax increase election.

Since Novato has no city public transportation, is there anything wrong with operating the school busses on a paying basis to meet expenses? Very few people object to paying for something they use. Those families to whom this would present a hardship should be required to fill out a simple form stating that they are financially unable to pay, and those children should be furnished free transportation. It certainly would be a worthy project for the P-TA, not to mention the Marin Economic Opportunity Council. If that organization can't come through with some funds, perhaps they could get the laws changed so that needy, underage drivers would get permission to ride their unlicensed minibikes to school on the public streets.

Taxpayers are willing and expect to bear most of the school costs, but they have just about reached their limit. It's time California stopped being known as the "biggest give-away state in the nation."

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

Unable to talk a canny New Hampshire storekeeper into buying his line of goods, a glib salesman tried to bribe him by offering him a bottle of champagne. "Never take bribes from salesmen," said the storekeeper proudly. "If it will ease your conscience," proposed the salesman, "I'll sell you the champagne for 10 cents." "That's more like it," nodded the storekeeper. "If that's your price, I'll take six bottles."

Strident 'Patriotism' Sounds Odd Note In Rhode Island

SAUNDERSTOWN, R.I. — In this the smallest state in the union, where the ethnics have almost entirely supplanted the yankees, July 4 was observed with a special fervor. The Italian-Americans, in the majority today, feel a compulsion to testify to their patriotism.

This owes something to heightened sensitivity over the allegation that Italian names are unduly conspicuous in the crime statistics, with the Mafia and its Sicilian origins constantly in the news.

A national organization was formed with Frank Sinatra in the lead to combat what Italian-Americans consider rank defamation. In New York City, they held a big rally, with Joseph Colombo as a prominent speaker. The day following the rally he was arrested for refusing to answer questions about organized crime before a Long Island grand jury, even though he and others had been granted immunity.

BUT THE FERVOR of the patriotic response is more than an ethnic phenomenon. There is something like an inverse ratio between the rise of the troubles afflicting America, the doubts and uncertainties, and the increasingly strident insistence that all must be well. Patriotism, the decal flag, becomes a defensive mechanism, a chip on the shoulder, on the lowest level a commodity to be exploited.

That bumper sticker, "America — love it or leave it," has an odd sound in Rhode Island, or at least it does if anyone recalls the past of what was once called Providence Plantations. Roger Williams, who founded Rhode Island, was a great one to take leave when he felt the standards by which he loved it were betrayed. He is in many ways a unique figure among the founders of America.

For reasons of conscience and his religious convictions, Williams decided to emigrate from England in 1630. In Boston, and later in Plymouth, he was a pastor and teacher of religion. Soon, however, his own views were in conflict with the authoritarian overlords of the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

THIS REBEL dared to say that the civil power of a state had no jurisdiction over the consciences of men. Even more heretical was his stand that the patent of the king gave the colonists no right to the land they occupied. The land, he insisted, rightfully belonged to the Indians, who should be paid for it.

When he refused to recant, he was tried by the Massachusetts General Court, and a sentence of banishment was passed on him. An attempt was made to seize him and transport him to England.

Williams fled to Manton's Neck, and there with four companions he founded the settlement he called providence. He established friendly relations with the Indians, whose language he had learned, and he bought the land for settlement from them.

The concept of the colony was complete religious toleration, "a shelter for persons distressed for conscience." While he helped to found what is considered the first Baptist church in America, he became known as "the Seeker," with no formal religious ties.

In this gentle yet courageous man there was none of the blind patriot, the love it or leave it. He put his own conscience above both custom and law.

ENGLAND LOST thousands of men and women of conscience who found repression intolerable in the 17th and 18th centuries. Among them were the creative minds, the brains, the inspirers, the planners and the doers who set the colonies on a course of greatness.

The patriot who puts on blinders and a gag does his country small service. Over the years men of conscience with courage enough to speak out for unpopular causes, and against the dictum of the popular will when they felt it was wrong, have helped America grow in strength.

They were the abolitionists who often risked life and limb for their belief. They were men such as Gov. John P. Altgeld of Illinois, who freed the Haymarket rioters when he was convinced that their sentence of life imprisonment had come unfairly from a prejudiced jury. Denounced and denied re-election, he has been given justice by the verdict of history.

In this century, the emigrants fled the oppression and the narrow mold of poverty in Russia, Germany, Italy. They brought brains, ingenuity, inventiveness. To enforce patriotism by repression is to risk the loss of those who are the yeast of a society, the leaven in the lump of smug self-satisfaction, blind complacency.

Lambeg Drums May Call Up New Ulster Revolt

By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign News Analyst

In Belfast on July 12, the great Lambeg drums boom, Orangemen don their sashes and parade the streets with banners depicting the lion of Britain.

It is the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne in which in 1690 King William III defeated the former Catholic King James II. It is the greatest day of the Protestant political year.

THIS YEAR the British government fears it also may mark a bloody new high in the religious strife which is the tragedy of the six north Irish counties making up Ulster.

British military strength is being stepped up to more than 10,000 men, but it is feared that even this may not be enough if something like civil war erupts.

Especially worrying to the British, who have taken over responsibility for peacekeeping operations in the embattled area, is the knowledge that large quantities of arms have been smuggled into the north, including machine guns.

Some of these appear to have been used during Belfast and Londonderry rioting in the last week of June. British police say they also have identified known Irish Republican Army guerrillas among the Roman Catholic crowds during recent disturbances.

ULSTER, semi-autonomous under British rule, abounds in anniversary dates, most of which seem to point up the bitter religious differences which for most of half a century have plagued it.

Rev. Ian Paisley, the Protestant firebrand recently elected to the British Parliament from Ulster, frequently winds up his sermons with a shout of "no surrender." It is a recollection of 1689 when a Protestant garrison at Londonderry withstood a seige by Catholic soldiers.

A society called the Apprentice Boys of Derry commemorates 13 apprentices said to have slammed shut the gates of the Londonderry citadel against the approaching enemy. Today, when the society issues a statement it usually is bad news for the Catholics.

The Catholics sometimes call out "Remember 1916." It is a reference to the Easter uprising that sparked the Irish struggle for independence, and even that has its religious overtones.

ULSTER'S DREARY history of strife, then, has its roots in religion, nurtured on the Protestant side by such men as Paisley and on the Catholic side by such a 23-year-old Bernadette Devlin, who is serving a six-month jail sentence for inciting to riot and is beig hailed as a martyr. Like Paisley, she is a member of the British Parliament.

Busiest Hours, Biggest Bargains Come After The Fair Is Over

Maybe the busiest day, or at least the busiest moments, of the Marin Art and Garden Fair came after it closed. The day after closing is sale day, when nurserymen peddle their display plants at bargain prices.

"It was bedlam this morning," a fair official said Monday afternoon. Proving Marin gardeners know a good thing when they see it. Four days on display, in heat that topped 100 on occasion, left some plants wilted despite heavy watering, but nothing that tender care couldn't restore.

Toward mid-afternoon, only handfuls of flowers and plants were left, and one young man was offering fuchsias four for a dollar to save the trouble of packing them back to the store.

Too late to go buy them now, though. The locusts descended Monday morning, and even the leavings were gone by the end of the day.

There should be something sad about the closing of the last fair on the Art and Garden Center grounds, but the weather was too fine and the gardeners too cheerful to sustain such a mood.

Instead, there was a feeling of sleight-of-hand as lush green sod was rolled up in strips, banks of flowers unearthed and carted off in their separate pots, and the gazebos and garden furniture disappeared.

IN SAN ANSELMO, the city council tossed $202,107 into the pot for street repair next year, but even that sizable sum isn't all that's needed.

Hanging in the public works department's office are 43 pictures of city streets in various stages of cracking, sliding, lumpiness and general mess.

The money the council appropriated for 1970-71 was for repairing 5.03 miles of streets. The 43 pictures show the seven miles of the city's 35 miles of streets which City Engineer Charles R. Leitzell had hoped to repair this year.

Among the streets, avenues, drives and boulevards shown in disrepair were Sir Francis Drake, San Francisco, San Anselmo, San Rafael, Kensington, Tunstead, Tamalpais, Scenic, Oak Knoll, Cottage, Ridge, Valley, West, East, Suffield, Rutherford, Bennitt, Nokomis, Carlson, Pine, Saunders, Jordan, Magnolia, Meadowcroft, Morningside, Brookside, Miwok, and Hawthorne.

THAT SHOULD explain why your car rattles driving through San Anselmo, and it will also explain why you will encounter road crews all over town during the next 12 months.

The five miles for which money was appropriated includes the most badly needed projects, Leitzell said.

The figure was arrived at by compromise. Leitzell said the city's streets need repair of some sort an average of every seven years. Some may need work every second year, other none for 10 or 15.

So the council divided the 35 miles of streets by seven, got five, and earmarked the five miles most in need of repair.

With street repair, as with fire fighting and law enforcement, you never win. You just try to gain a little when you can.

Don't Ask That Question, Son–It Scares Me Too Much

WASHINGTON — "Daddy, what does the vice president of the United States do?"

"What do you mean, what does he do?"

"I mean what does he do?"

"Well, he . . . ah . . . uh . . . he raises money for his party."

"How does he do that?"

"Well, he goes to a large fund-raising dinner or a lunch, and he speaks to people in his own party who give $100 or $500 to hear him attack the other party."

"BUT WHAT DOES he do as vice president?"

"I told you what he does. He also dissents with people who dissent."

"I don't understand what dissent means."

"Well, there are a lot of people in this country who don't agree with what President Nixon is doing, and they say so. Now Vice President Agnew doesn't agree with what they're saying. So the vice president dissents with them and calls them names. Then they dissent and call him names. So he gets madder and calls them more names and so on ad infinitum."

"DOESN'T HE do anything else besides dissent?"

"There's so much dissent in the country that dissenting can be a full-time job."

"Does he help President Nixon run the country?"

"Of course not. How could he do that and still fly around raising money for the party? Oh, he sits in the Senate every once in a while just in case he has to break a tie vote, but governing the country isn't Mr. Agnew's bag. Besides, the Constitution is pretty loose about what a vice president has to do. Some play golf, others play tennis, but Agnew prefers to stay out on the road calling a spade a spade."

"DOESN'T THE PRESIDENT get mad that the vice president isn't around?"

"The President's delighted. Most Presidents of the United States never knew what to do with their vice presidents. The fact that Mr. Agnew has found a way of keeping busy pleases President Nixon no end."

"Does the vice president get paid?"

"Very well."

"You mean just for calling people names?"

"He doesn't just call people names, dummy. You see, in this country there are good apples and bad apples. The bad apples have to be separated from the good apples. No one knows who the bad apples are except the vice president. His job is to go to Republican fund-raising dinners and say, 'How about these apples. . . '"

"WHAT DOES THAT do?"

"It gets him a standing ovation."

"Who are the bad apples?"

"Who aren't is a better question. Averell Harriman for one; Cyrus Vance for another; Senators Fulbright, Church Hatfield, McGovern; James Reston, Herb Block, effete intellectuals; the eastern-establishment press; network commentators and rotten kids and people on welfare and peaceniks. God knows how many bad apples are still in his barrel."

"If all the vice president does is separate the good apples from the bad apples, why doesn't the Republican Party pay him instead of the American government?"

"Because if anything happens to the President, the vice president takes over the country."

"What would happen then?"

"Dammit son, you ask too many questions."

Enchanted Knolls Neutral On Shelter Bay Proposal

Directors of the Enchanted Knolls Homeowners Association have decided to take a neutral position on a plan to build 192 townhouses on the hill above Shelter Ridge.

President Robert B. Rankin said Warner Odenthal, developer of the Shelter Ridge project, presented a precise plan to the association's board Tuesday. It covers the first phase of the ridgeland development, 42 acres out of the 73-acre project.

The board "looked the plan over and found nothing objectionable," Rankin said.

Directors also were informed that the association has asked Mill Valley for permission to city for the work, Rankin said. construct a redwood plank sign with routed letters for the entrances to Enchanted Knolls.

The group will reimburse the city for thw work, Rankin said. Using city facilities will lower the cost of the signs, he said.

The resignations of two directors, Secretary Shirley Griffin and Rev. Howard Scholten, were accepted, and Rankin said the board will seek to fill the vacancies.

Parents To Follow In Footsteps Of Marin Fish And Chips King

If the name C.H. Salt sounds familiar — it should, except perhaps for the initials.

This is the father of H. Salt Esquire, who migrated to Marin County four or five years ago and made his fortune in fish and chips. The senior Salt and his wife came to Marin in their son's wake, returned to England and then came back again to make it permanent. They are now occupying their son's original residence in San Rafael.

Salt Sr. has also gone into business and was hoping to open an imported candy shop, English Confectionery, on Market Street, San Francisco this week. He has leased warehouse space in San Rafael in contractor Johnny Ribeiro's new building at Tiburon and Belvedere Streets through William Hoey and Co.

The younger Salt, by the way, is spending some time here this summer instead of Louisville, Ky., his fish and chips headquarters.

IN THE SAME BUILDING, Hoey and William Root of Grubb and Ellis have leased space to Greg Arts, San Rafael candle manufacturer. This is an expansion of that business, which will still retain its quarters at 658 Irwin Street.

And Robert A. Currie of Mill Valley has also leased space here from Hoey for a new venture, Bob's Automotive Service, to open about Aug. 1. He has been a service station operator.

SOMETIME LATE THIS YEAR, Optoelectronics, Inc., now at 4380 Redwood Highway, Northgate Industrial Park, will move into a new and larger plant at 4340 Redwood Highway.

The firm, engaged in the research and manufacture of infrared optical sensing devices, will lease 20,000 square feet in a bnilding to be constrncted for Dohemann and Co., the developer. This will be the first phase of a 30,000-square foot building development.

WILLIAM H. JOHNSON of Tiburon, vice president and manager of the personnel department at Crocker-Citizens National Bank,, has been appointed a senior vice president. He will continue to supervise statewide personnel functions, which he has done since 1966. He originally joined the bank's predecessor, Anglo California National Bank. Through successive appointments he became vice president and manager of the California division of Business Development before taking over the personnel department.

Johnson Talbott

ROBERT N. TALBOTT of Novato has been appointed administrative manager of Investments of Novato Valley, Inc. and its subsidiaries. This will include managing the corporation's Chicken Delight operation in Novato. He has retired as chief master sergeant from the U.S. Air Force after 23 years of service. His last assignment was at Hamilton Air Force Base in charge of management analysis for the western Communications Region.

LATEST COUNT on Marin retail outlets from the Board of Equalization is 1,650. Add to these 584 business and personal services and 1829 outlets classified as "all other" and you have a total of 4,063 businesses.

Speciality stores are the most numerous among retailers — 337; followed by 294 eating and drinking establishments and the automotive group — 279. Food and liquor stores account for 176; apparel stores 159; household, home furniture and appliance stores 137; general merchandise stores 123; and building materials 82.

Lower on the list are 58 gift and art goods stores, 40 stationery and book stores, 31 packaged liquor stores, 29 garden supply stores, 24 sporting goods stores, 23 jewelry stores, 21 music stores, 13 florists and 12 photo equipment stores.

Montana Power Can Offer Promising Growth Outlook

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am considering the purchase of 150 shares of Montana Power Co. What is the growth potential for these shares and do you consider them a good income holding? — T.F.

A. Montana Power, an electric and gas supplier, offers a generous and secure income as well as gradual appreciation potential. Shares are selling at a reasonable 11 times multiple of 1970 earnings estimated at $2.50 a share. In the first quarter, net gained 10 per cent, in line with improvement projected for full year results. Realization of this improvement could foster further liberalization of the 42-cent quarterly dividend disbursement. Directors in the past decade have paid out an average 72 per cent of earnings in dividends.

Construction plans call for expenditures of $125 million in the 1970-1975 period. Although additional financing will be required to complete the projected construction program, sale of equity securities is not contemplated.

Montana Power's earnings are expected to grow at a 6 per cent annual rate. However, coal mining operations carried on by a subsidiary could be an important factor in upgrading this growth rate in the future.

Q. Please give me your opinion of Keystone S-3 fund. Most of my savings are in that fund. — J.B.

A. Having all your eggs in one basket, so to speak, is never a wise plan, regardless of the merits of the particular investment vehicle. You should give serious thought to switching some of your capital to a fund with different investment goals and methods, in order to spread your risk.

Keystone Growth Common Stock Fund Series S-3 has had a creditable performance record for the past decade. In 1969 and for the first five months of 1970, Keystone S-3 outperformed an average of all funds. Net asset value declined in the respective periods 14 per cent and 21 per cent while the average of all growth funds dropped 16 per cent and 28 per cent.

The most recently released list of Keystone's portfolio transactions shows considerable upgrading in its holdings. This fund's comparatively high-grade portfolio should continue to outperform the average as the market recovers.

(Mr. Spear welcomes questions for use in his column but cannot answer all mail personally.)

Stock Spurt Continues In Brisk Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market headed for another strong finish today in brisk trading.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which spurted more than 12½ points Wednesday, was up almost 10 points with about an hour to go.

The UPI Market Indicator, measuring all stocks traded, showed a gain of 1.64 per cent on 1,517 issues crossing the tape. Of these, 1,037 advanced and 276 declined.

A four-hour turnover of 9,800,000 shares compared with 7,910,000 shares traded at a comparable period Wednesday.

Analysts said much of the demand was carried over from Wednesday. But they noted that investors also were cheered by hope that interest rates have peaked, Defense Secretary Melvin Laird's assertion that the United States will "beat" President Nixon's troop withdrawal plan for Vietnam, and a Soviet peace proposal for the Middle East.

In addition, there was growing speculation that the Federal Reserve Board may soon move to make money more available.

One analyst said the Fed is probably close to another credit easing move and what has been hinted at is a possible reduction in bank reserve requirements.

Another analyst suggested that there seemed to be an overnight change in investors' sentiment. He said that part of this change may have resulted from feeling that Washington has broken the back of inflation.

Dr. Thomas G. Gies, a University of Michigan economist, said Wednesday there are signs the rate of infaltion is slowing and he expects the DJIA to rise above the 800 level by September or October.

Northwest Airlines was the day's most active stock with more than a million shares traded. It traded a block of 1,020,000 shares at 14½, off ¼, making it the second largest block traded in the history of the New York Stock Exchange. The biggest was a block of 1,153,700 shares of Alcan Aluminum on Oct. 31, 1967.

Also on the most active list were Massey-Ferguson, North American Car, International Nickel, Texaco, and Boeing. The last was awarded a lucrative Air Force contract for an airborne warning system.

Prices also gained in moderately active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Belvedere, Tiburon Stands Stall Southern Marin Sewer Proposal

Plans for the Marin Municipal Water District to get into the sewage business were stalled last night.

The district board continued until Aug. 12 a public hearing on its resolution of intention to create an improvement district to provide sewerage facilities for all Southern Marin areas draining into Richardson Bay.

The plan has run into trouble because the Tiburon Sanitary District board and the Belvedere City Council have expressed opposition to their areas being included in the proposed district.

The resolution of intention which the board passed last month defines the area to be included. William R. Seeger, general manager of the water district, said yesterday that if Belvedere and the Tiburon Sanitary District, which comprise 10 per cent of the proposed district, are excluded, the water district would have to kill the resolution of intention and start over again.

Seeger said the law requires that the boundaries of the improvement district when formed cannot vary more than 5 per cent from the boundaries defined in the resolution of intention.

If Belvedere and the Tiburon Sanitary District cannot be wooed into the proposed district, Seeger said the water district board could pass a resolution of formation, including the two areas, anyway.

If less than 10 per cent of the voters in the proposed district protested, the district would be formed in 31 days.

If more than 10 per cent protested, he said, an election would have to be called and a majority vote needed to form the improvement district.

At the request of Dr. William A. Hargreaves, representing Tamalpais Community Services District, and with Seeger concurring, the water board continued the public hearing.

Hargreaves is president of an advisory committee appointed by the water board and made up of representatives of the sanitary districts in the proposed improvement district.

He said the month's delay would allow the advisory committee, which has met only twice, to meet at least once more to discuss the plans and would also allow time to attempt to persuade Belvedere and the Tiburon district to change their minds.

The improvement district plan was given support last night by the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin, Martha Fleischmann, representing the group, urged the water board to form the improvement district as defined in its resolution of intention.

Daniel F. Murphy, area engineer with the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board, represented the regional board's executive officer, Fred H. Dierker, at the meeting.

He commended Marin County and the water district for their actions toward development of a water quality control plan for the Richardson Bay area, and suggested that consideration be given to continued discharge of waste materials into the bay following "fail-safe" treatment for the removal of nutrients, toxicants and bacteria.

He added that the staff of the water quality board will recommend to the board by October upgraded requirements for the disposal of wastes into Richardson Bay.

The water board adjourned to its regular meeting at 1:30 p.m. Aug. 12 with the intention of continuing the public hearing at 8 p.m. that day.

Water Bond Election Help Costs Worry Water Board

The retention of a San Francisco financial consultant was approved in principle yesterday by the Marin Municipal Water District board.

However, the fee schedule proposed by the firm, Stone and Youngberg, was rejected by the board.

The firm will assist the district with its $50 million bond election program.

Stone and Youngberg proposed that it be paid a flat daily rate for some of its work plus a percentage of the bonds sold.

On the percentage schedule, William R. Seeger, general manager of the water district, estimated the firm would make $92,000 from the $11 million bond election scheduled for this November.

The water board directed Seeger to negotiate a revised contract with the firm.

The board did approve the retention of the San Francisco law firm of Orrick, Herrington, Rowley and Sutcliffe as legal counsel for the November bond election.

The company will be paid between $1,000 and $1,500 for preparing the calling and holding of the bond election, and a maximum of $15,000 for preparing for the issuance and sale of the bonds.

The Marin Municipal Water District board also:

TANK — Received, but held for review, bids on the construction of the Escalle water tank in Larkspur.

BIDS — Accepted low bids of $4,700 from Maggiora and Ghilotti Inc. of Corte Madera for piping to the Escalle tank site, and $3,000 from Brown-Ely Co. of San Rafael for the installation of an asphalt ring and sand pad at the site.

SUPPLIES — Awarded to the low bid opened last week of $10,076 for the purchase of 20 tons of copper sulfate from Wilson and George Meyer Co. of South San Francisco.

COMPRESSOR — Rejected four bids received last week for the purchase of an air compressor for Nicasio Lake on the recommendation of the district staff that an alternative method of improving water quality at the lake be considered.

PAYMENTS — Authorized final payment of $686 to Zoellner Construction Co. of Ross for the construction of toilets at Lake Lagunitas; a progress payment of $20,612 to Maggiora and Ghilotti Inc. for water main relocations, and progress payments and a final payment, totaling $11,485, to San Anselmo contractor Earl E. Gilson for four water main renewal jobs.

Arrest Correction

Dennis Victor Chesley, 20, and Robert Sterling Evans, 22, both of San Rafael, were arrested June 10 in the driveway of a house at 283 Crescent Road, San Anselmo. The Independent-Journal erroneously reported Tuesday that the two, who are facing charges of attempted burglary, were arrested inside the house.

Traffic Officers Nab Angela Davis

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Angela Davis, a UCLA philosophy instructor fired by the University of California Board of Regents last month in a controversy over her membership in the Communist Party, was arrested on outstanding traffic warrants Wednesday night.

Police said Miss Davis, 26, was stopped by officers because the tail light on her vehicle was not working. A routine check disclosed she was wanted on five traffic warrants, four for parking violations and one for not having her drivers license and vehicle registration papers in her possession.

Miss Davis was booked and released after posting $103.50 bond.

Convict Is Sent To Vacaville

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court has sent convicted kidnapper Cheston Hope Markham, 23, of San Rafael to the state Department of Corrections medical facility at Vacaville for a 90-day evaluation period.

Markham was convicted by a jury in June of kidnapping a San Rafael woman on April 9, threatening her with a knife and stealing her car.

The woman said that he forced her into her car in a San Rafael apartment house parking lot, made her accompany him to Novato and threatened to rape her there.

She said he released her when she told him her husband, brother and father would kill him if he raped her.

Foes Of Lower Voting Age See Victory

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Opponents of a bill to lower the voting age from 21 to 18 claim they have enough support in the Louisiana House of Representatives to kill the bill when it comes to a vote today.

The State Senate passed the bill last month.

Rep. H. B. Dejean of Opelousas, the leading opponent of the bill, said it would be a dangerous law because it would give adult responsibilities to youths. The bill's opponents amended the bill to give 18-year-olds and over full legal responsibilities.

The amendment also lowered the minimum age requirement for state senators to 21.

"It's going to be close," Rep. Francis Lauricella said of today's vote. Lauricella is the bill's sponsor in the House.

But opponents and legislative observers felt the bill had little chance of winning the two-thirds majority.

"We all have a tendency to rush through life," said Rep. Fred Stinson, another of the bill's opponents. "It's a mistake. They (18-year-olds) shouldn't be interested in trying to vote. They should be interested in being teen-agers."

"I submit to you that the minds of our children are guided by the misguided professors in many instances," DeJean said.

"Most of the radicals on the college campuses today are profesisonals and they're not 18-years-old—they're from 25 to 30," answered Rep. Shady Wall.

"It's only because I'm old fashioned in my thinking that I want to maintain my authority over my children and I'm going to do it whether this bill passes or not," DeJean said. "This is a very dangerous, dangerous thing and I'm sitting here pleading with you not to pass this bill."

Legislature Votes Open Meeting Bill

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill barring public meetings in facilities that discriminate on the basis of race, religious creed, color, national origin, ancestry or sex has won final approval by the Legislature and gone to Gov. Ronald Reagan for his signature.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, introduced the bill after a woman reporter was barred from a governor's conference in a Sacramento club that does not admit women.

The bill would apply to both state and local agencies, and would include any "meeting, conference or other function."

Local Agency Commission Drops Rule On Annexation To Cities

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission washed its hands of a 2-year-old sewerage dispute last night by repudiating a long-time stand to push annexation to cities.

The board voted 3-1, with one abstention, to drop a provision that 14 homes along Lucky Drive in Greenbrae on the south bank of Corte Madera Creek must be annexed into Corte Madera in order to join the Corte Madera Sanitary District and to obtain sewers.

The board originally failed to get the necessary three votes to overturn its two-year policy when new member, Councilman Roy Farrington Jones of Ross, abstained and Chairman Hugh G. Marchant voted to uphold it.

However, an alternate, Mayor Neil R. Brixon of Larkspur, who lives across the creek from the area in question, came forward from the audience to cast the deciding vote after Marchant said he was eligible.

Feeling that he was ineligible to vote on the matter, Brixon previously had urged Jones to reconsider his abstention and invited him down to the creek to smell the raw sewage being discharged from the homes. "He would not want this in Ross," Brixon boomed to applause from the few affected homeowners present.

Brixon and two other members, county Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Louis H. Baar, said the sewerage problem should take precedence over the annexation disagreement and urged the commission to move before the Bay Area Water Quality Control Board does.

A letter from the board to the commission urged prompt action.

After the vote, Marchant told David Jordan of 22 Lucky Drive, the owners spokesman, "Now you're all clear until you get to the (Corte Madera) city council."

He said later, "As a practical matter, I don't think we accomplished anything," but Bear countered, "I think that what we did was take the onus off the LAFC."

Marchant said the owners in the area — regardless of the commission decision — would have to hash out a contract with the sanitary district allowing them to connect into the district for a fee if they build their own lines.

He said the Corte Madera Sanitary District board, which is made up of town council members, would never agree to annexation to the district without annexation to the city.

A letter from Corte Madera Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher to the commission indicated the district wouldn't budge from its stand so commission removal of the annexation requirement would be an idle act.

The commission has no power to make the Corte Madera Sanitary District accept the 27 parcels, executive officer John F. Barrows told the commissioners.

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission also:

COLLEGE PARK — Approved the correction of subdivision lines along College and Magnolia avenues in the College Park Subdivision of Kentfield.

NOVATO — Approved the annexation by Novato of four parcels totalling less than an acre along Santana Drive in the Bahia section; 23.8 acres between Wilson Avenue and McClay Road opposite Sinaloa High School, and 10 acres along South Novato Boulevard near Stone Drive.

MODIFICATION — Granted a modification to the city of Larkspur on an East Drake Boulevard annexation that frees the city from hearings, notice and election because there is written agreement between the owner and the city.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to the next meeting tentatively scheduled for Aug. 5 at 8 p.m. in the supervisor's chambers of the Civic Center.

Bolinas Hearing On Sewage Plan

A public hearing to consider establishing boundary lines for an assessment district for a sewage treatment system will be held by directors of the Bolinas Public Utility District tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the district office, 270 Elm Road.

Clerk Jane Boyer said the meeting is to determine which residents in which areas of the community will be connected to sewer lines in the planned district.

The joint project, in conjunction with the Stinson Beach County Water District, will include construction of a common sewage treatment plan. Each district will construct and pay for its own lines, Mrs. Boyer said.

Youth In Park Killed By Dope

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Coroner Henry W. Turkel reports that an overdose of narcotics killed an unidentified young man whose body was found in Golden Gate Park.

The victim, found Tuesday, wore an undershirt, dark trousers and shoes. He had a drooping moustache, a goatee and his upper body was heavily tattooed, with the word "Mom" on his left arm.

Sgt. Jerry Thompson, 21, of Travis Air Force Base had called police when he saw two small cars rendezvous in the park, heard doors slam and then had seen them disappear. As he drove closer he discovered the blanket-covered body.

Novato Fire Panel Opens Hose Bids

The Novato Fire District board last night opened three bids for new hose and then turned the bids over to the staff for study, according to fire chief Jack Kidder.

The bids were for 3,200 feet of three-inch hose; 2,000 feet of 2.5-inch hose, and 1,800 feet of 1.5-inch hose.

The companies bidding and their bids on the three lots of hose were American Rubber Manufacturer of Oakland, $6,336, $1,310 and $1,602; Curtis and Sons of Oakland, $6,816, $1,280 and $1,512, and Western Fire Equipment Co. of Brisbane, $7,264, $1,390 and $1,548.

The board will hold a special meeting, time and date to be set, to award the contracts and discuss salaries, Kidder said.

The board also promoted John Church and Ray Dougherty to the next step increasing their salaries from $870 to $885 per month and firemen Albert Arendell, John Demers, Larry Glines and Richard Valentine from $760 to $790 per month.

Case Transferred

The case of Dennis Keith West, 18, of San Rafael, has been transferred to juvenile court from Marin Municipal Court. He is accused of possessing marijuana in Larkspur on June 8 when stopped in a speeding truck.

Heat Wave Hits Britain: Apes Eat Ice Cream

LONDON (UPI)—Unseasonably hot temperatures prevailed throughout Britain Tuesday. It was 90 in some places and as a result:

—Apes at Chessington Zoo were fed ice cream. Zookeepers brought in ice for the polar bears.

—A Birmingham candy factory closed and workers were sent me because chocolate sent home because chocolate would not harden in the molds.

—Blacktop roads softened in York and maintenance crews spread sand so the cars would not get stuck in the melting tar.

—Pigs at the Royal Agriculture Show at Kenilworth lay panting with heat exhaustion.

Novato Is Refused On Try To Relocate 101 Overpass

The state Division of Highways has rejected the City of Novato's suggestion to move the San Marin Drive-Atherton Avenue overpass 200 feet north, District Engineer Alan S. Hart told the Independent-Journal yesterday.

Hart said there were many considerations in rejecting the suggestion, such as a year's delay in getting new right-of-way, redesigning the overpass, poorer flow of traffic and approximately $1 million added expenses.

No member of the Novato City Council had talked to him about the change, Hart said. He added that he was willing to meet with the council at any time to discuss it.

"We have been in agreement in the past on this interchange until the present council suddenly wanted this change," Hart said.

A letter explaining the state division's position was sent to City Mgr. Charles Brown last Friday, Hart said. Rejection of the city's plan leaves the next move to the city council, he said.

Hart conceded that the proposed change would alter a 125-foot cut to a 40-foot cut, but said it would require fill slopes which would be a greater eyesore than the cut.

"Another unaesthetic feature of the city's plan is the concrete retaining walls required to keep the new ramp fill off the frontage road," Hart wrote to Brown. Raising the Atherton Avenue profile over the freeway would also be unaesthetic, according to Hart.

The change would cause the "loss of 1,400 feet of frontage road" which would be unreasonably high.

He estimated the change would require an additional five acres of land which would have to be acquired by the state.

A major concern of the state engineers who studied the change would be altering the movement of traffic in 11 places, all detrimental. Only two movements of traffic would be improved Hart said.

"All 11 changes are more dangerous; so when the whole picture of traffic service is considered, the city's plan is clearly inferior," wrote Hart.

Wrong-way driving is invited in the city's plan, as in all plans which feature nonsymmetrical interchanges, the engineers reported.

"A delay of at least one year in completion of the bypass project will unreasonably deny the traveling public the economic and traffic safety benefits which they will derive from the freeway," Hart reported.

Parks Panel Again Hits Supervisors

The Marin County Park and Recreation Commission, frequently critical of the board of supervisors for overruling its recommendations, resumed the attack yesterday.

"I'm glad my term is up next year," said commissioner Lothar Salin. "I've had about as much as I can take. I've never seen a board of supervisors this arbitrary."

Salin was referring to a board decision Tuesday against spending $15,000 to add five acres to the Tiburon Uplands Nature Preserve above the Tiburon Oceanography Center. The funds, originally appropriated in 1969-70, were to have bought surplus government land, but Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell wouldn't approve carrying over the funds to 1970-71 and the board said the expenditure was of low priority.

The commission also criticized board refusal to accept a recommendation by County Administrator Alan Bruce to add a park superintendent to the 1970-71 park and recreation budget and the supervisors' decision — against commission wishes — to permit temporary fencing of a path along Corte Madera Creek in Kentfield that had been used as a pedestrian and bicycle trail.

"I wonder how many supervisors have taken the time to tour the county parks to see the work that is required," said commissioner Leroy Gerner.

The commission directed staff to investigate the cost of acquiring an easement along Corte Madera Creek at the spot where Allan Larkins of 19 Stadium Way was awarded an encroachment permit to erect a fence to protect his property from trespassers.

In other matters, the commission asked to become more involved in planning the Marin Art and Garden Fair and said it will begin planning festivities for the official opening of McNears Beach Park on Aug. 22.

AFTER THREE years of wishing she could afford a houseboat Anne Schoonover decided to build one herself. She has been working since last fall and plans to move in next month. The windows and doors came from an old hospital building being demolished near Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco where she is a speech therapist. (I-J photo by Jim Kean)

Building Herself A House On The Bay

By BETH GAEDDERT

When Anne Schoonover gets a pay check she doesn't go to the nearest shopping center to spend it unless it has a lumber yard.

A speech therapist at Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco, Anne is building her own houseboat in Sausalito.

For the last three years she would come wandering down to the docks wishing she could afford to live on the water. Last summer after an unsuccessful search for a houseboat she could remodel, "I just got the idea to build one," she said. "I toyed with the idea and began solving the problems in my head that are involved with building one."

This summer it is almost ready for occupancy.

Anne designed the split-level houseboat built over a World War II open-hull landing craft with the help of "a friend who had designed everything from a car to a plane." Some mistakes were made in the planning stages, she admits, due to her inexperience as a builder.

But the biggest hurdle so far has been meeting county building requirements. Having studied the building codes, Anne is listed as the contractor on all the permits.

"THE MORE I looked the more I learned about cement hulls, wood hulls, steel hulls and boats and generators," she said. All the requirements are needed for safety, Anne believes, however, they are more house oriented than boat-like. "It's a good reason why people can't build their own houses. You have to have 15 inches above this pipe, vents for this and traps for that."

Although she says costs will probably amount to twice what she counted on, "In the end I'll probably end up spending far less than I would for an equivalent boat."

Her estimates were off when it came to the amount of raw lumber needed. "My fantasies of what it would be like to build a houseboat weren't very accurate," she said. She used common lumber—lots of two-by-four plywood.

ON SUNNY DAYS friends arrive from San Francisco with hammers and saws ready to work (and play) on the boat. But "every so often when costs were going up and things were costing about twice as much as I thought," she said she got discouraged. "But I'd just go back to my picture of what it will look like when it's finished."

In order to be closer to the new boat during building Anne moved into a smaller one on Gate Six. That way "when the winds come roaring down the docks" in the middle of the night, she can check the boat's moorings.

Like her neighbors Anne is irked that insurance is only available for houseboats at very high premiums.

"There's some myth about houseboats," she said. "We consider them safer than other boats (which can be insured) because we don't use gasoline. We use natural gas, which is the same as used in a house — it's just another house, especially now that they're inspected for wiring and other things."

AMONG HER neighbors are people who never work and will never have to, families, professional working people, artists and single people like herself. Although the proximity of dwellers is about the same as at the Mill Valley apartment house she used to live in, the atmosphere is entirely different.

"I can feel it when I go back to visit my roommates," she said. "It's so sterile." Houseboat people all turn out to help a fellow boater in trouble in bad weather but none care what life style his neighbor pursues, she says.

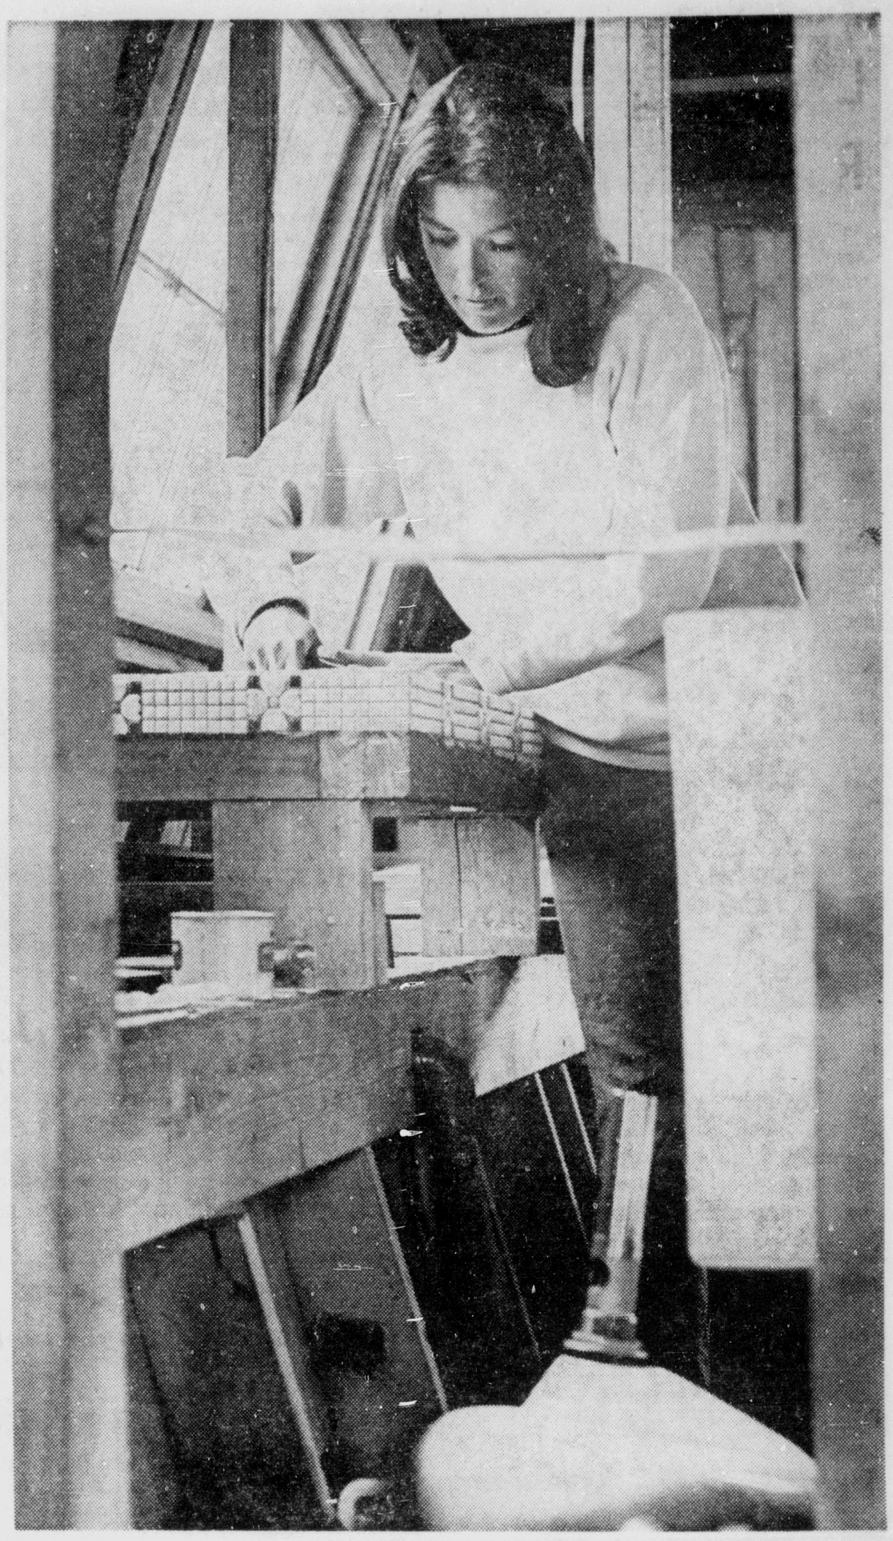
A group of Gate Six residents are involved in a dock clean up project which is well under way. It will include a plan which has to be approved by the county and Bay Area planners and Anne is head of the playground planning.

To Anne who has lived on or near water all her life, houseboat dwelling is only natural. She grew up in Long Island in New York and near a small Michigan lake. At the age of six she and her brother had their first sailboat.

She's a graduate of San Diego State College and has an M.A. degree in speech therapy from Stanford.

"It gets a little tiresome being a carpenter when you start looking like one," she said referring to a few slightly bashed fingers. At one big Marin lumber supply they say, "Here comes that lady carpenter again," she says.

THE MAIN room of Anne's Sausalito houseboat is viewed from the sleeping loft. With the help of six paid labors for the technical aspects, Anne built the houseboat over a surplus landing craft.



CLIPPING TILES around what will be the bathroom sink is Anne Schoonover who is building a houseboat in Sausalito, She admits to a few planning mistakes like some plumbing in the bathroom that had to be redone last week after a plumbing inspector took a tour.

Christening Plans For 'Victoriana'

By MOLLY MARIN

The Marin Yacht Club in San Rafael will be the scene of a large champagne christening party for the "Victoriana," the new 56-foot diesel yacht of the Thomas Marshalls of Kent Woodlands. Some 150 guests are expected to attend the Saturday afternoon affair, when Mrs. Marshall will break the bottle of champagne across the vessel's bow.

Unusual features of the yacht are its catamaran hull and turn-of-the-century interior with red tasseled curtains, Victorian carpet, walnut paneling and gaslight styled lighting fixtures. Double staterooms forward are done in gold crushed velvet with draperies over the bunks of one and the other in blue with matching carpets.

The Marshalls took possession of the Victoriana over a month ago and last weekend made their first long cruise aboard her to the delta where they were guests at the Delta Yacht Club.

After the christening the Marshalls plan to moor the Victoriana in San Rafael and San Francisco and look forward to bay cruising throughout the summer.

The yacht was built in Wisconsin, shipped west by rail, and its fitting-out was completed in the East Bay.

MRS. ALBERT F. Budde and her daughter, Alexa, of Petaluma have returned home from three weeks in Italy, where they spent most of their time on Capri. They also visited in London and Rome. Alexa will be a freshman at the University of California at Davis in the fall.

NOW LIVING in Davis are Mr. and Mrs. Grant Tanner, who were married June 20 in a garden ceremony at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Russell Lane in Marinwood. The former Jill Lane is a Terra Linda High School and College of Marin graduate. This is a how-many-do-you-have?

Three? Five? Eight? You can't have too many, you know. Because it's really hard to dress these days without a bunch of turtlenecks. Not only are they super looking. And warm. But nothing fills in a neckline quite like them. And that includes pantsuit necklines and suitsuit necklines and raincoat necklines and furcoat necklines. Which is why we have lots of turtlenecks. Nice skinny shaped-to-the body ones. Some ribbed. Some not. In lots of juicy new colors. So, how many do you have? We'll bet at least two more than you have right now after you see our collection.

THE WOMEN TAKE REVENGE

Women's liberation movement members fought back against the Milk Foundation's use of shapely young bodies to promote the product with the slogan "Everybody Needs Milk" by painting their own message on this Minneapolis, Minn., billboard. The identity of the "artists" is unknown. The milk promotion is part of a national campaign. Advertisers who use illustrations of shapely women to sex-sell their products are increasingly targets of women's liberationists across the country.

Elegant Trend In Hairstyles

By CAROLYN A. BOWERS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Elegance will rule the waves in hairstyles this fall, to harmonize with the soft, languid midi length clothes.

Hair trends are taking on a new appreciation for the ladylike look that has been missing too long, says Mamie Scott, styles director for the hair fashion committee of the 60,000 member National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

Miss Scott said styles in general will be simple and flowing, giving a softly defined silhouette. Lengths will be "convenient"—that is, long enough to add a hairpiece, but short enough to outline the head.

Although wigs are expected to be very much a part of the fall scene, Miss Scott said that because of the lack of variation in most wigs, there will be an increase in the use of more versatile hairpieces like the postiche.

Helene Curtis introduced two styles—the "electric" and the "rich" peasant—during this week's shows of new fashion collections to visiting reporters from around the nation.

The peasant shape took a center part. Sides were fashioned into lots and lots of tiny braids which were twirled into huge rings set over the ears, like a radio operator tuned in and turned on.

The electric look truly was a "hair raising" story style. Hair was brushed up and out until it stood on its own.

For the black woman who may prefer to stay with a "natural style", the forecast was for a softer and more versatile "Afro", according to Bernice Calvin, an NHCA member and publisher of a black beauty trade magazine.

Miss Calvin said the softness and versatility would come from using a permanent "relaxer" as a base and then setting the hair on very tiny rollers. The result would be a healthier, fuller "Afro" which then could be rinsed and reset on larger rollers for a straight, smooth look.

At a Remington-sponsored beauty show this week, there were new coiffures inspired by the bakery. They were called cruller, croissant, brioche, cinnamon swirl, bagel and jelly doughnut.

Hair shaped this way was parted in the center, rolled at the sides or back into whatever baker shape you desired. Sides draped back like birds' wings over the ears.

Every cosmetics house eyed the midi in planning its new lines. Helena Rubinstein, for instance, introduced the "youngette" face. The look: lips, cheeks and eyes blended in tones and touched with soft colors, as in a lilac haze with an underbrush of palest pink.

Such a look, according to a spokesman, is right for the midi era—which marks the end of harshness achieved via plastics, clunky shoes, tons of hair, charcoal eyes, no lip color and too short skirts.

Miss Scott said that eyes will be soft with very little use of contrasting colors in eye shadow. Individual eyelashes will be added where needed, rather than the whole eyelash strip, she said. Warm colors will be used in lipsticks, which will give moist looks, but not the very wet wet, she added.

HAIR TRENDS FOR the midi skirt era are toward the more elegant, but if wigs are to your liking the newest way to wear a fall is in the rich peasant, left, or the electric look. At left the peasant look takes the center part of the fall and fashioning the sides into braids which are twirled into huge rings over the ears. For the hair-raising electric look, the hair is brushed up and out until it stands on its own.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Father Is Frightened, Insecure And A Terribly Worried Man

DEAR HELEN:

I am 16 and have the same problem as many other girls: My father. Today we had another fight. He called me vulgar names and thinks I'm a tramp because I like to go downtown every day. In this town, that's not going very far.

He reads wild stories in bad magazines about high school sex clubs, etc. and thinks all kids are maniacs. When he tells me to read and see for myself, I won't because this doesn't apply to me. That makes him madder. You see, my brother got in trouble. He figures I will, too.

We are constantly arguing about my friends, where and what they do. They're a bunch of normal clean-cut Americans.

Dad has the idea that he doesn't count — that he just pays the bills and Mom runs the rest. This because she takes my side once in a while when he goes on a rampage. These fights are tearing all of us apart.

Please don't ignore this as just another soggy letter from another unhappy teen-aged girl. Maybe I'm lucky because I get almost everything money can buy, but please tell me, how much does love cost? — NADINE

DEAR NADINE:

Love costs your father almost more than he can manage because he pays for it with fear. He is a frightened, insecure, terribly worried man who won't let himself trust — because he might be hurt again.

Teens can't cure problem-fathers by fighting them, for rebellion only strengthens their suspicions. But they can change the situation (if it isn't too far advanced) with "UN-THINK." That means reversing those built-up attitudes that make you see spite and hate in all your father's actions. When you can understand that his meanness is really misplaced caring, you're on your way towards solving the problem.

Choose a time when things are comparatively quiet at your house and just start talking.

Note to Other Teens With Problem Parents: Be sure you choose the right time for that talk. Never try it when one or the other of you is smoldering from a recent hurt. — H.

Hot Dishwasher

Water in the dishwasher must be at least 140 degrees so the water heater should be set higher — about 150 or 160 degrees. The greater the distance between the dishwasher and the water heater, the higher the heater should be set.

Lucchesi Park Tree Planting Is Delayed

Tree planting plans at Lucchesi Park were delayed last night by the Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission when it agreed to consider another baseball diamond for the park.

Vincent Mamone, representing parents of eastside youngsters, said a study is being made on the formation of a third little league. He said a survey is under way now to determine how many boys will be eligible to participate in the new league.

The commission, which had begun a study of tree plantings, said they would await the report and hold a special meeting later this month to consider another baseball diamond.

The Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission also:

TENNIS — Approved a tennis lesson program to be offered to residents over the age of 10. Lessons will begin Tuesday and end Aug. 6. Instructor Richard Van Auken said students must furnish their own racquets.

LIGHTING — Heard Commissioner Raymond Roccaleoni report that he is preparing a written report on park lighting. He said the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. is studying the need to update park lighting and will be included in the report.

FUNDS — Heard Richard W. Schollenberger, recreation director, report that letters of intent to apply for federal funds have been submitted. He said it will not be known for at least three months if the city can qualify for federal assistance in park acquisition and development.

Mill Valley Rights Panel Backs Alto Bowl Cottages

A resolution supporting a proposal by Cal-Fong Investment Co. to build 120 garden cottages in Mill Valley's Alto Bowl was passed last night by the city's human rights commission.

Commissioner Roger J. Fleischmann said the resolution was adopted 4-1, with Robert House opposing it and William Williams and Lynn Jessup absent. The Mill Valley City Council rejected the Cal-Fong proposal Monday.

The resolution reads: "The human rights commission believes the preservation of open space and the development of low and moderate cost housing are of primary importance to the future development of Mill Valley. We believe that the Cal-Fong proposal will promote these objectives and urge the city council to reconsider its rejection of the proposal."

The commission also appointed Fleischmann to serve on a citizens group set up to advise the police-community relations committee of the Marin County human rights commission.

Catholics Plan March But Shun Orangemen

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Roman Catholic leaders called today for Catholic protest marches this weekend to protest alleged British army brutality. The Protestants are planning huge Orange Day parades Monday to celebrate a battle over Catholics nearly 300 years ago.

The Catholics said they would not march in Belfast and that the marches would not coincide with the Protestant celebrations of the victory of the Battle of the Boyne. But both parades raised the specter of new bloody clashes between the rival groups.

Catholics have accused the British army of brutality and of looting during searches of Catholic neighborhoods for illegal arms in the Falls Road area last week. Britain and the Northern Ireland government agreed to investigate the charges.

A spokesman for the Roman Catholic Civil Rights Association said they hoped 50,000 marchers would turn out for the demonstrations which would march through both Protestant and Catholic areas.

The announcement of the Catholic parades came in the wake of a statement by Northern Ireland's minister of commerce, Roy Bradford, that the country's economy could not stand further rioting and violence.

In London, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, said he prayed that tolerance and reconciliation would prevail in Northern Ireland during the weekend.

Viet Reds Denounce Nixon Peace Stand In Paris Talk

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam and the Viet Cong said today President Nixon's latest statement setting out U.S. peace objectives was a plan full of "insolent threats" and "arrogant and unreasonable conditions."

In rejecting statements the President made June 30 and July 1, Hanoi and Viet Cong delegations at the Paris peace conference served notice the war will go on until the United States agrees to withdraw totally and unconditionally its forces, and drops the Saigon administration.

Hanoi's delegate, Nguyen Minh Vy, and the Viet Cong's Dinh Ba Thi coupled the warning with claims that the Nixon administration has stepped up the bombings of Laos and that in spite of the U.S. troops pullout from Cambodia American artillery posted close to the Cambodian frontier was shelling Cambodian territory.

The Viet Cong delegate also accused Nixon of delivering advisers and money to the Saigon government for the upkeep of a "barbarous penitentiary system."

"In spite of his defeats and ever more serious difficulties in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, President Nixon on June 30 and July 1 repeated the same arrogant and unreasonable conditions under which the Vietnamese people should pay ransom for the end of the U.S. aggressive war and accept U.S. neocolonialism in South Vietnam," the Viet Cong official said.

In the session which lasted four and a half hours and again made no progress, Thi said denunciations of the South Vietnamese prisons were "certainly incomplete" and that hundreds of thousands of persons were being held in thousands of prisons. He demanded their liberation.

He rejected the President's demand for mutual troops withdrawal and warned that the South Vietnamese peoples right to self determination was not negotiable.

Acting U.S. delegation leader Philip C. Habib made a new appeal to the Communist side to consider Nixon's policies and open "genuine negotiations."

South Vietnam's Pham Dang Lam also accused the Communists of refusing to negotiate on other but their own terms.

Two Marinites Slightly Injured In 4-Car Crash

Two Marinites received minor injuries in a four-car pileup on Park Presidio south of the Funston Tunnel in San Francisco yesterday.

Howard L. Bond, 46, of 140 Hilldale Drive, San Anselmo, was treated at Park Emergency Hospital for lip and face cuts and broken teeth. Joan E. Lehua, 42, of 226 Reed Circle, Strawberry, was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco for face cuts.

The California Highway Patrol said Mrs. Lehua's vehicle struck Bond's car, which was stopped in heavy traffic at 4:20 p.m. The Bond vehicle was pushed into one driven by Eileen B. King, 36, of Sylvan Lane Ross. A fourth car, driven by Alice S. Taylor, 48, of 65 Fairfax Street, San Rafael, crashed into the others.

Jerilyn Louise Eberhart, 27, of 218 California Avenue, Mill Valley, was treated for a cut left knee at Marin General Hospital yesterday after her parked car rolled across a parking lot and pinned against her another car.

The accident occurred at 12:10 p.m. in the Crocker Citizens Bank parking lot at Third and B streets, San Rafael police reported.

Galveston, Tex., located on a Gulf Coast island, was founded by a Canadian, Col. Michael B. Menard, on Dec. 9, 1836.

Rider's Condition Is Serious After Crash

James Larsen, 24, of 112A Belle Avenue, San Rafael was reported in serious condition with a skull fracture at Marin General Hospital after a car in which he was riding overturned at 2:02 p.m. yesterday, according to police, on D Street west of Meyer Road, San Rafael.

Driver of the car was Daniel Thomas Box, 19, of 17 Privateer Drive, Corte Madera, police reported.

Four college students to conduct a survey in Marin City to determine what residents need in the way of community development will be hired by the Marin City Council today at 8 p.m. in the Manzanita Center.

Rev. Samuel L. Banks said the survey will begin July 15 and will include every home in Marin City.

Roving Band Of Youths Attacks Trio

Three San Rafael men were attacked Tuesday when they tried to stop two carloads of young men from wrecking a sign at 101 Motor Movies on Smith Ranch Road, San Rafael police reported today.

Roger L. Langford, 33, of 76 Smith Ranch Road, told police he saw the 10-11 youths at 11:30 p.m. throwing beer cans at neon lights on the signs, and he and two other men approached them to try to stop the vandalism.

Langford was hit on the side of the face with a beer can as they approached, and a five-foot-seven-inch youth knocked down Anthony G. Walker of 1744 Las Gallinas Avenue, they reported.

Ernest G. Gray of 180 Idylberry Road was also struck, according to the report.

Damage to the lights was estimated at $150. The vandals have not been caught, but police reported having some clues to their identity.

SPEBSQSA Needs Budding Harmonizers

The Marin chapter of the SPEBSQSA is again looking for people with a yen to harmonize.

SPEBSQSA is the Society for Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. The Marin chapter, members of which make up the Golden Gate Barbershop Chorus, plans an evening of combined vocalizing and recruiting Tuesday beginning at 8 p.m. in the Redwood High School Little Theater, Larkspur.

According to Robert W. Johnson, publicist for the chapter, "Each chapter is a breeding ground for any four guys who desire to form their own quartet."

The Tuesday program, strictly informal, will be open for those who just want to listen as well as those who might like to join the harmonizing, he said.

The chorus, directed by Ned Hardin, and its several quartets present an annual show for the community, which this year will be held during August at Dominican College. Its "After-glow Without a Show," cosponsored by the Corte Madera Lions Club, has also become an annual affair. It stages other special events and charitable "sing-outs" at hospitals, convalescent homes, etc.

And every Tuesday at 8 p.m., the members get together at San Clemente School in Corte Madera to practice what they like to do best.

Drama Group To Give Barrie's 'Peter Pan'

Directed by Louis Casazza, the play features Dianne Winsor as Peter Pan, Marta Van Lowenfeldt and Marnie Grant double cast as Wendy, Jim Nichols as Captain Hook, Lisa Britt as Tinkerbell, and Carrie Bohem and Elaine Hunt as John and Michael.

Hawaiian's Leap Before Camera Fatal

The California Highway Patrol identified him as Ronald Miller.

Officers said he hired Paul Kayfetz, owner of a commercial studio in Oakland, to record the leap, apparently after convincing the photographer that he would survive.

The reports said Miller, John Sanford Allen, 24, of Berkeley, and Maurice Rose walked to midspan at 3:15 p.m. while Kayfetz and Kathy Krawcyzk, Miller's finance, cruised below in a rented boat.

Miller stripped to a bathing suit, climbed over the railing and jumped, officers said. Allen likewise climbed over the rail onto a girder to get a better view.

Officers said witnesses saw Miller's body hit the water. A U.S. Coast Guard spokesman said no body was found and the search has been called off.

Bridge employees arrived soon after the leap and pulled Allen from the girder. He was arrested by the highway patrol and booked into San Francisco City Prison on suspicion of trespassing on the bridge structure. He was released on $125 bail to appear today in San Francisco Municipal Court.

A spokesman at the photo studio today said that "it was a very tragic incident" but had no other comment.

Election returns were first broadcast Aug. 31, 1920 when WWJ, Detroit, carriet results of congressional and county primaries.

Murder Attempt Charged In Wounding Of I-J Employee

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A 45-year-old San Bruno man was charged yesterday by the San Francisco district attorney's office with attempting to murder Independent-Journal employee Allan W. Daly, shot Saturday night at his home.

Daly remained in very critical condition today at San Francisco General Hospital where he has used 88 pints of blood since being shot in the abdomen. The hospital said he requires five to 10 pints a day.

Frank Thurber appeared in municipal court today with his attorney, Nathan Cohn, who claimed his client had been "illegally and unlawfully" held by police for two days. He said that Thurber had been held and transported to "various places" since he was arrested Monday night.

Cohn said his client, a member of Newspaper Mailers Union 18, an affiliate of the International Typographical Union, was held in the city jail Tuesday and Wednesday nights without charges being filed by the district attorney's office.

Not until yesterday, Cohn told Judge Joseph G. Kennedy, did the district attorney file felony conspiracy, attempted murder, robbery and burglary charges against Thurber.

"Obviously the charges are not as strong as the police department implies," Cohn said, "otherwise he would have been charged before."

Judge Kennedy set bail at $12,500 and ordered Thurber to appear in municipal court July 17 for entry of plea.

Two San Bruno youths also have been arrested on suspicion of robbery and attempted murder.

Larry G. Rutherford, 16, and Richard A. Wamsley, 17, are being held at San Francisco Juvenile Hall pending decision on whether they will be tried in San Francisco Superior Court, remaining with juvenile authorities, Walter H. Guibbini, chief asst. district attorney, said today.

Daly was shot by one of two youths who forced their way into his home at gunpoint, demanding money. As Daly's wife, accompanied by one youth, was searching for money in the kitchen, Daly was shot in the abdomen while held at gunpoint in the living room.

Daly's wife told police she heard a shot, ran to the living room, and found her husband on the floor, bleeding from a wound in the abdomen. One of the youths grabbed a handbag, containing $6, and they ran.

Police later found the handbag, still containing the $6, outside the house.

Thurber and the two youths were arrested in San Bruno Monday night.

The Irwin Memorial Blood Bank reported today it had received 78 direct donations for Daly — including 24 pints yesterday — and a total of 75 unit releases from groups and individuals.

The blood bank reported 25 releases from International Business Machines Co., five from McGraw-Hill, five from The Surveyors, 22 from the I-J reserve bank and the remainder from individuals.

San Francisco Typographical Union 21, Newspaper and Periodical Drivers and Helpers Union and the Newspapers Mailers Union, all of which have accounts with the blood bank, have not released any units, the bank reported.

The ITU has denied any connection with the attempted murder Saturday as with any of the violence and vandalism that has taken place since the San Francisco Typographical Union struck the Independent-Journal.

Meanwhile, Petaluma police are continuing their investigation into the firebombing Tuesday of the Petaluma home shared by two nonstriking I-J printers.

The firebomb was thrown through a bedroom window endangering the lives of six persons, three of them children. The firebombing was the sixth such instance since the strike began.

HUMANE SOCIETY PROGRAM

Youngsters Learn About Animals

By LARRY MOWELL

To educate people is hardly a novel idea. For a human society to educate them about animals apparently is.

The Marin County Humane Society lays claim to having the only humane education center in the U.S. and draws officials from throughout the country to study it, according to executive director Mel L. Morse.

Roaming the spacious animal care center at 171 Bel Marin Keys Boulevard in Ignacio, one constantly has to sidestep youngsters busy with their duties in one of the society's programs.

The youngsters, 10-17, cheerfully do menial tasks — cleaning an aviary, sweeping floors and hosing dog cages.

The program began in November, 1968, when the society opened its $450,000 headquarters, because youngsters wanted to work with the animals, Morse said. The program is now limited to 100 youngsters, he said.

Working in the antiseptic kennels amid the yappings and yowlings emanating from the pens wouldn't seem to be an appealing job, but the young volunteers seem to enjoy it.

"I have my own boy here and he'll do things here he'll never do at home,' Morse said.

However, working in the din of the kennels or the sunbaked calm of an outdoor stable must have its rewards. Morse said today's young simply have more sympathy for animals than adults. "They genuinely care," he said in explaining why the young enjoy the work.

He told of the helpless rage a couple of youngsters felt recently toward a woman who brought in a box of dead puppies and couldn't understand how they died while locked in a sunbathed car for eight hours.

The juniors have also designated one little girl as puppy watcher and placed her on a stool in the puppy pen to protect them from too much handling.

Morse said the youngsters have not been told how they should feel about animals, but they have developed a great deal of feeling for them.

While it is the most intensive humane education program the society offers, it is also one of the smallest. The largest, which has handled about 8,000 youngsters since the center opened, grew from a demand by school and institutional groups for tours, Morse said.

Tours are offered, but they include an explanation of how the society runs the county animal control program, how animals end up in the shelter and what becomes of them. "They learn what the thing (the society) means to the community," Morse said.

They are also told what man means to animals and how an animal's existence is dependent on man.

Sitting on the floor of the main room, surrounded by exhibits of society functions and a portable glass case partitioned off for snakes, lizards and gila monsters, the children are shown how to handle and care for a live animal.

"We're hopeful they're not doing it just for a field trip," Morse said. "We've had great success with the changing of focus in the young people from themselves to other people, other creatures.

The society also offers dog, cat and horse care classes that run five two-hour Saturday sessions each and draw from 100 to 300 participants each, Morse said.

On occasion, society workers go to schools to show slides, demonstrate equipment or show animals.

Most of the programs cater to youth because Morse feels adult groups don't need society help. The Marin County Cat Fanciers and Exotic Cat Club and other animal interest groups use the facilities, but the society doesn't participate in the activities.

The society, of course, still carries out its traditional duties of housing neglected and helpless animals and prosecuting those who are cruel to animals, but it is trying to emphasize prevention of cruelty through education, not court action.

"We feel that this positive approach rather than lurking around the corner waiting to prosecute will get us to a better situation in this county," Morse said.

However, the most important humane education work of the society may be its example. According to Morse, the surrounding land will eventually be developed as a nature park and educators and legislators have often visited the facility to see how the idea will work.

Morse hopes these leaders will get other counties to move their facilities from corporation yards to central park-like areas where children can associate with them and learn about them in a more humane environment.

LOVING CARE — Pedro the burro gets full attention from three members of the Marin Junior Humane Society as Daisy the goat pokes in her head seeking a share. The girls, Lauri Udaloff, cleaning teeth; Patty Raftician, cleaning a hoof, and Mesan Hanzlik, with brush, are only three of the 100 young volunteers who help care for animals at the Marin County Humane Society in Ignacio. Judge Again Hears Why Car Halted

A preliminary hearing against three men accused of conspiring to damage property of Independent-Journal advertisers moved into its third day today as a sleepy lawman described over and over the circumstances of the arrest.

Attorneys for the three defendants, all members of the International Typographical Union, are striving to convince Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court that the stopping of the men's car by two sheriff's deputies was illegal.

Deputy Richard Borba, who works the midnight to 8 a.m. shift, described again today why he and his partner, deputy Larry Stanfield, stopped the three men about 1:40 a.m. June 3 on a frontage road near the Strawberry Shopping Center.

They then arrested Dennis Joseph Crowley, 41, of San Jose; James Robert Brucato, 31, of Santa Rosa; and Grant William Anders, 30, of Pleasant Hill, who are charged with felony counts of conspiring to break windows of six San Rafael and three Novato businesses.

Deputy Borba, said under cross-examination today that he and Stanfield first noticed the car driving slowly in front of the shopping center and noted that three men were in the car.

The deputies had gone to the center, he said, after hearing a radio report of broken windows of stores in San Rafael, because Stan's for Sports in the shopping center had been the target of such vandalism in the past. As they pulled out to follow the car, the officers noticed the license plate was unreadable, Borba said.

Later the two officers found slingshots, which they had noticed through the car window, as well as chunks of lead, brass knuckles and a picket sign in the car.

The men were the first persons arrested in connection with window smashing of stores belonging to merchants who refused to discontinue advertising in the newspaper. Since San Francisco Typographical Union 21 went on strike against the I-J in January, about 40 businesses have been vandalized.

Firemen's Beer Bust To Be Stag Affair

The Belvedere Volunteer Firemen's Association annual stag beer bust will be held Friday, July 17 at 7 p.m. in the Belvedere Fire Station, according to Erwin Farley of the association.

Farley stressed this year's event, to meet fire personnel and inspect equipment, is open only to men of the community "in spite of women's liberation." Each man is asked to bring his own beer mug.

Assembly Bill Poses Kite Flying Thorn

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — If anyone tells you to "go fly a kite" you may have to go a long way — at least to avoid running afoul of a bill passed unanimously yesterday by the Assembly.

The bill would make it a misdemeanor to fly a kite, balloon or rocket within five miles of any airport.

About the only way a youngster in Marin could be sure of avoiding the law would be to go to Point Reyes. Most of the county's populated areas would be covered by five-mile bans around the heliport at Richardson Bay Bridge, Smith Ranch in San Rafael, Hamilton Air Force Base and Gnoss Field in Novato.

The bill, AB 286 by Assemblyman Kent H. Stacey, R-Bakersfield, still would allow kite flying within five miles of an airport, but not if it "might be ingested by an aircraft engine or might cause a pilot's view of the airport and zone approach to be obstructed."

How a young kite flyer could make this determination was not spelled out in the bill.

Four Students Lose $1,100 Each Plus European Dreams

Four College of Marin students were $1,100 losers when World Academy, Inc., went into bankruptcy, taking with it their plans for six weeks of study and vacation in Europe.

But a group of 40 Marin students was spared the loss when their proposed tour was canceled in May by World Academy because the group had spent too long deciding whether to go.

"I feel I'm a victim of grand larceny," said Allan Chinn, 27, of San Francisco. Chinn was one of the four who had planned to leave Tuesday on an "International Rhetoric" tour covering seven countries in 40 days.

Chinn said he received a telegram Sunday saying World Academy had been unable to arrange accommodations and transportation for the tour, and advising him not to go to the airport.

Chinn said another College of Marin student among the 40 on the proposed tour was Carol Richter, but he did not know the names of two other Marin students. The tour was to be led by educators from the University of California at Davis and Berkeley.

Each student, Chinn said, paid a $25 membership fee, $1,015 for the trip, and later was asked to pay another $52 for tuition. Shortly afterward, World Academy declared bankruptcy, disrupting tours planned or in progress by 4,000 students from all over the nation.

Chinn heard of the tour which Robert Minton Jr. had planned to lead. Minton is head of the speech department at College of Marin.

When that tour fell through in mid-May, Chinn and the other three made other arrangements.

Chinn said since the tour was cancelled he has been to the state and federal attorney general offices to lodge complaints.

Chinn was skeptical of the tour price before it began, so he checked with the Better Business Bureau and learned there was no complaint against World Academy.

"It looked completely legitimate," he said.

Gary F. Filosa of San Francisco, who was ragional director for World Academy until mid-May, said today that all California students have been returned home now, and that a lawyer has been hired and chances of getting the students' money back look good.

Filosa did not have names of the other Marin students, and accused an Independent-Journal reporter of trying to make trouble by seeking them. He said he would not be a party to "abusing children," and told the reporter not to seek his facts from "a lot of hysterical children."

The California attorney general's office has asked for national legislation to protect charter flight patrons from nonperformance by promoters, and said yesterday efforts will be made to recover some of the money lost by California students.

Assemblyman John Foran, D-San Francisco, has a bill pending which would require travel promoters to post performance bonds or hold in trust 90 per fent of funds paid by travelers.

Chinn said State Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, is backing the bill and with enough student complaints to his office probably could get enough backing to pass it.

Man Named For Sewage Review

Clem C. Slater, newly-appointed director of the Bolinas Public Utility District, last night was named by the district board to serve on a committee to review progress on a joint sewage disposal system being planned with the Stinson Beach County Water District.

Clerk Jane Boyer said a representative of the water district will also serve on the review committee which will assess what has been done so far in the project. Both districts plan to build a common sewage treatment plant, she said, but each will build its own sewer lines.

Pre-Election Polls Ban Turned Down

LONDON (UPI)—The government refused Wednesday to ban opinion polls within one month of a parliamentary general election.

Conservative government spokesman Lord Belstead told the House of Lords both Conservative and Labor party leaders opposed the suggestion when it was made several years ago.

In 1900 Queen Victoria signed an act by which Australia agreed to enter into a Federal British Commonwealth.

In 1962 the Telstar satellite relayed television pictures from the United States to Europe and Americans received clear pictures back from France and Britain.

In 1968 French president Charles de Gaulle appointed Maurice Couve de Murville premier of France, replacing Georges Pompidou, who became president in June of 1969.

A thought for the day: Canadian physician Sir William Osler said, "Tact is the saving virtue without which no woman can be a success."

'53 Fine Of $2.50 Paid With 'Tip' Of $17.50

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—In 1953 a visiting Marine visiting here was given a ticket for jaywalking.

In April, 1970, the Marine, now a retired Oklahoma state policeman living in Los Angeles, walked into the Salem City Hall and paid the $2.50 fine —with a $17.50 tip.

"I didn't have the $2.50 to pay the fine then, and it has always bothered me," said Thomas Melton.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Witch Doctor Optimism Loses; Precautions Necessary In Bridge

Some primitive people believe that thinking about bad luck will produce misfortune even if you were otherwise going to have normal luck. For this reason, primitive bridge players tackle all hands optimistically: their witch doctors have warned them against taking any precautions. This little morsel of anthropology may explain South's line of play in today's hand.

EAST GETS DISCARD

South ruffed the first heart with the three of spades and led the five of spades to dummy's king. East discarded a diamond, and South made a mental note to find a new witch doctor.

If declarer took a losing trump finesse, or even if he took the ace of spades and then led the ten to drive out the queen, West would lead another heart to make South ruff again. West's nine of spades would then be the top trump.

If South were a less primitive type he would be willing to think of bad luck before playing to the second trick. South is concerned only about a 4-0 trump break.

SAFETY PLAY

South can provide against four trumps in either hand by leading the ace of trumps at the second trick. When it develops that West has all of the trumps, South can lead the jack of spades for a finesse, winning the second and third round of trumps.

Then declarer leaves the trumps alone, running his winning cards in clubs and diamonds. West gets only his one high trump.

BAD BREAK

It East had all four trumps, South would enter dummy with a side suit to lead a low trump. East would take the queen of trumps and would make South ruff a heart. South would cash the jack of spades, get to dummy in a side suit and draw the last trump with the king. Then declarer would take the rest with good clubs and diamonds.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:

♠ - Q 9 8 7
♥ - A K Q J 10 6 2
♦ - 9
♣ - 8.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four hearts.

Your hand should produce seven or eight tricks on offense but may be worthless on defense. It is the ideal situation for a shutout bid.

Here's New Approach To Student Unrest

MANILA (UPI)—The mayor of the town of San Fernando in Pampanga province has set up a huge billboard in front of the municipal building with this message to would-be demonstrators:

"My dear students:

"This is the wrong place to demonstrate. We are doing our job to the best of our ability in serving public interest and welfare. Please make good use of your concern for the nation elsewhere.

"Thank you.

"Mayor Virgilio Sanchez."

Assembly Demos Blasted Over Opposition To Voting Reforms

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A Republican assemblyman today blasted lower House Democrats for killing his bill designed to prevent a person from voting more than once in the same election.

His measure was defeated by the Assembly Wednesday on a 37-33 vote with all Democrats present opposing it and all but one Republican voting for it. The lone dissenting Republican was Assemblyman Tom Hom of San Diego.

"Obviously, the Democrats are more concerned with winning elections than they are with honest elections," Assemblyman Robert Burke said in a statement issued after his bill was rejected.

His proposal would allow a person's right to vote to be challenged at the polling place if his sample ballot was returned to the post office because the individual had moved.

Present law allows a voter to cast a ballot even if he has moved from his voting address within the past two months. The Burke bill would not change that provision.

Burke said a person now can move from the address where he is registered to vote and more than two months later cast a ballot without the county clerk's office being aware he was ineligible to vote.

"This bill is a step toward honest elections," the Huntington Park Republican told the Assembly. "A vote against this bill would be an indication of your willingness to let fraudulent practices continue."

But Assemblyman Henry Waxman, D-Los Angeles, said the bill "could lead to chaos and confusion in our election system."

He said it was wrong to wait until the election deadline and then base the challenge on the post office determination a vote no longer lives at an address.

But Assemblyman Paul Priolo, R-Pacific Palisades, pointed out voters challenged on the basis of returned sample ballots would be asked if they still live at the address. He said they then could sign an affidavit swearing they had not moved and be allowed to vote.

Californians Will Lose Fur Coat To Ecology

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A bill banning the sale in California of shoes and clothing made from skins, hides or fur of species threatened with extinction has moved a step closer to Assembly passage.

The Assembly Natural Resources Committee Wednesday approved the measure by Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverley Hills, on a voice vote with no audible dissents and sent it to the Assembly floor.

Esther Krueger of the California Fur Industry, an association of furriers, taxidermists and skin dealers, opposed the measure on grounds it was unconstitutional because the federal government had preempted the field.

"We are conservationists," she said. "If the furriers weren't conservationists, we'd be out of business."

The bill would ban the importation into California for commercial purposes the furs, skins or hides of animals, reptiles, birds or fish already considered by the federal government as being endangered. It adds to the list any alligator, crocodile, polar bear, leopard, ocelot, tiger, cheetah, jaguar, red and timber wolf, vicuna, sea otter or Spanish lynx.

Beilenson noted that many endangered animals are the profitable prey of poachers who have threatened certain species — such as the alligator — with extinction.

"It's possible to prevent poaching without closing the major markets first," he told the committee. "They're going to disappear. There won't be anymore of these things in three or four years."

Sales between private citizens of garments fashioned from endangered species would be authorized. So would importation into the state of such an item acquired in another state or country.

Tokyo Newsmen Boast Air Armada To Cover Events

TOKYO (Toronto Telegram News Service) — When a big story breaks in Japan, Tokyo's reporters take to the skies. Newspaper aircraft and helicopters race to the scene, and the battle is on as to which of Japan's three biggest dailies hits the street first with its front-page story.

As with all other phases of business, the miraculous economic boom has boosted the circulations and advertising revenue of Japanese newspapers, and much of the profits has gone into building sophisticated, high-speed and extremely efficient news-gathering organizations.

Asahi Shimbun, largest of the national dailies, owns more aircraft than any other newspaper in the world — a fleet of 10 single and twin-engined airplanes as well as three helicopters.

The Mainichi is not far behind with seven airplanes and two helicopters, and the Yomiuri, the third great daily, is equally competitive.

Japan's national press is keenly aware of the direction in which the country is moving, and of the fantastic rate of change.

The newspapers feel they must keep up with other industries that have given Japan the Bullet Train, the world's largest supertankers and the tiniest transistor radios and television sets.

The Japanese see no reason why they should accept the role of number three in industrial strength behind the United States and the Soviet Union. They want the top spot.

The press of Japan is highly ambitious. It is also fortunate. All its readers are confined to four islands with a land area of only 143,000 square miles.

The main island of Honshu, where most of the action takes place, is only 89,000 square miles, or about the size of Great Britain.

From the main cities of Tokyo, Nagoya and Osaka, the national newspapers each day manage to reach an astounding percentage of the country's 102,000,000.

The daily circulation of Japanese newspapers has passed the 50,000,000 mark, with the Mainichi, Asahi and Yomiuri sharing more than half the total. The Asahi's net paid circulation is now more than 10,000,000 copies daily for morning and evening editions, and its gross annual reveues have reached almost $200 million.

The Mainichi Shimbun sells 5,000,000 copies every morning, and about 3,000,000 in the evening. At least 20 Mainichi correspondents cover the world, five of them being stationed in the United States and most of the others in Asian capitals and in Europe.

The Mainichi head office in Tokyo, a vast yet beautiful 15-story building overlooking the Imperial Palace, is the most modern newspaper plant in the world. Each of its main presses, in operation virtually around the clock, prints 150,000 copies per hour.

By using closed-circuit television cameras built into the ceiling of the composing room, the Mainichi Shimbun's editors can watch the progress of the main newspages as they are being made up without leaving their chairs in the news room. They simply have to press a button.

As you walk around the glittering glass and steel Mainichi building, with its unique twin towers of stone, some of the statistics boggle the mind.

Its research library has 70,000 books, 1,500,000 photographs, 7,000,000 clippings and a complete microfilm file of the Mainichi from the first issue in 1872.

A full-page advertisement inserted regularly in the Mainichi over a half-year period costs more than $17,000. Asahi Shimbun's rates are steeper. A one-day full-page ad in the national edition costs $44,577, but the client prepared to put his ad in once a month for over six months gets the insertion for less than half at $22,171.

The national newspapers claim the regular full-page advertisements are cheap as they work out at less than half a cent per copy.

For the working reporter, the Japanese newspapers provide every possible facility geared to speed. When necessary, helicopter pilots deliver stories and film to the main offices in downtown Tokyo, and drop them on to the roofs of the newspaper by using small parachutes.

Competition is so fierce the national dailies are always coming up with new devices in their efforts to outdo each other. The Mainichi has a fleet of compact newscars equipped with microwave telephone and telephoto devices so pictures and story can be transmitted rapidly back to the news room.

Asahi then came up with vehicle designed specially for riots and other dangerous events. No longer do camermen have to climb on the roof of their car to take photographs during one of Tokyo's wilder riots.

Asahi Shimbun's truck, which resembles a military vehicle except that it is painted white, is equipped with an unusual closed circuit television camera. The camera works rather like a periscope, and can be raised to a height of more than 20 feet.

The TV camera can be fitted with either wide angle or telephoto lenses, and is attached to the roof of the newspaper vehicle. The riot scenes it catches are recorded on a receiving set inside the truck.

The mechanism also is linked to a news camera so that photographers can take pictures merely by watching the screen and pressing a button.

Reporters, instead of risking their necks by going out among the hostile student demonstrators, also can follow the action from inside the truck, and still write eye-witness stories.

Reagan Backs Antipolitical Professors

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has declared his support for efforts by a group of University of California professors to prevent political matters from interfering with classroom activities.

Prof. Ronald Berman said the governor endorsed the purpose of the "Committee to Save the Universities" during a meeting in his office Wednesday with seven UC San Diego professors representing the committee.

At a news conference following the one-hour meeting, Berman said the group had about 70 members on the 400-professor San Diego campus and similar groups were being started on other campuses.

He said Reagan was "glad to know of our existence" and supported the group's "battle to return the university to its traditional function."

The university is endangered by some professors who are more dedicated to politics than to teaching, Berman said.

The group hopes to form a bloc of previously uninvolved professors to influence the faculty academic senate, which Berman said has been "distracted by political issues."

Berman said the group opposed closing campuses for political activity or turning classes over to political discussion of "subjects near and dear to the hearts of the professors."

"Unequivocally, we want classes to teach what they should be teaching," he said.

Two Shots Fired Into San Rafael Home; None Hurt

Two shots were fired into the home of Nolan Frank Shipley, a 24-year-old San Rafael welder, last night, San Rafael police reported today.

Shipley, of 417 Woodland Avenue, reported that he heard glass breaking at 10 p.m. and went outside to investigate but saw nobody in the area.

At 6:30 a.m. today, Shipley told police, his wife discovered a broken window in their son's bedroom. He found two lead slugs when he investigated the damage.

No injuries were reported in the shooting incident, and Shipley told police he has no idea who might want to do such a thing.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Children Appreciate Firmness But Not Unfitting Punishment

A child resents being bossed around but he likes knowing that his parents decide what needs to be done. Many youngsters say "No I won't" when asked to do something and if the issue is important, the parents should never give an inch. They should take a firm stand on things such as bathing, coming indoors when called, going to bed, and brushing the teeth, etc.

It is pointless to have a screaming argument with a child. When it is bed time, tell him so and if he refuses, take him by the scruff of the neck and deposit him in bed. While doing so tell him that he may think mothers are meanies but this is the way it is going to be. There is no harm in letting him play in bed for a few minutes. If he is afraid of the dark, keep the light on.

THE SAME APPLIES to meal time. "It is time to eat" and that's that. On the other had, his likes and dislikes must be respected as wall as his appetite. Urging a child to eat is the main cause of feeding difficulties. All youngsters go thru food preference spells. We refer to the "peanut butter and jelly" stage or perhaps the temporary craving for hamburgers. If a child eats a skimpy meal, he soon learns the consequences of being hungry.

OBEDIENCE IS difficult to enforce before the child's inborn cooperative instinct forms. As we said before, never hedge on important issues. On the other hand, do not ask him to do too many meaningless tasks. Avoid making chores an issue unless the youngster likes to work along with his mother or father. There is a saying that if there's less nagging on minor matters, the more apt a child will be to listen on important issues.

PUNISHMENT SHOULD be used as a last resort — and ought to fit the crime. It is better to criticize, caution, control, or set limits than to apply the back of the hand or take away privileges for too long a time.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

NERVE DIET

M. P. writes: Do you have any recipes for a nervous stomach?

REPLY

It takes more than a diet to soothe the nerves. A normal diet will do the trick provided it can be laced with tranquility and consumed under serene circumstances. Stop talking about your nervousness and start looking for the cause. When you find it, either eliminate it or compensate for it. Only you can do this. Meanwhile, your physician may suggest a tranquilizer or relaxing drug as a temporary measure.

TAKING YOUR MEDICINE

R. T. writes: Why do most medicines have to be taken before meals?

REPLY

They don't. Medicines are taken before, during, or after meals, or at bedtime, depending upon whether the physician believes food will interfere with absorption of the remedy. Many drugs are better tolerated after a meal, because if taken on an empty stomach, they irritate or cause indigestion. Exceptions occur with drugs used to counteract stomach or intestinal distress; these preparations must be timed to have maximal effect when needed most.

FOODS AND VISION

E. E. C. writes: Are there any foods that will improve the eyesight?

REPLY

Carrots have an undeserved reputation along this line. Several years ago a high protein diet for myopic children was mentioned but we never heard any more about it.

Today's Health Hint — Disaster can strike unattended children.

TV REVIEW

Smothers, Everlys Take Bows

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Two new summer series guaranteed to polarize the television audience arrived on ABC-TV Wednesday night: The Smothers Brothers show and the Everly Brothers program.

By now, of course, the Smothers and their tribulations are known to most televiewers, and the polarization in reagard to their show results from their acerbic attitude toward the establishment.

The Everly Brothers, meanwhile, are long-famous country-folk singers, now in their 30s, and their new series heavily emphasizes the contemporary music sound—particularly the stylized grassroots approach that either turns audiences on or off, firmly.

On the Smothers premiere, the brothers kidded on the square about their past censorship troubles, and promised they wouldn't compromise, and occasionally threw barbs at establishment values, and needled their new network for putting on such shows as "Let's Make A Deal." "The Newlywed Game" and the Lawrence Welk series.

Cruiously, though, despite all the self-aimed jokes about censorship, the Wednesday night debut seemed to de-emphasize comedy—or at least the unique kind identified with the Smothers: not merely the heavy social satire, but simply their wildly personal and very funny off-center humor.

Instead, we got great deal of singing, or so it seemed—not just from the expert Smothers themselves, but also from Nancy Sinatra, Harry Nilsson, and Bobby Stevens with the checkmates.

Further one of the program's main features was a young girl, Natalie Brown, who is an incredible baton twirler, and who was introduced by the longtime host of the traditional "Amateur Hour" show, Ted Mack.

The Everly Brothers show was also curiously interesting. They are known to have been admired as pioneers by such pop heroes as Bob Dylan and the Beatles. But television is not usually kind to pioneers. It waits until they have been accepted everywhere else and are safe, so when they finally get to video their pioneering days, and the freshness that went with them, are gone.

Case Refused

The case of Timothy Mark O'Brien, 19, of San Rafael, who is accused of burglarizing a San Rafael residence March 5, has been refused by Marin Juvenile Court. A preliminary hearing has been set for July 27 in municipal court.

KPIX (5), 9 p.m. — "The Venetian Affair" is a spy-thriller movie with Robert Vaughn as a CIA agent in Venice investigating a plot going in three directions. His estranged wife is played by Elke Sommer.

Republicans Hit CBS For Time To Refute O'Brien

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Republican party has threatened the Columbia Broadcasting System with legal action unless it gives the GOP free television time to answer what it termed an "unprecedented, inaccurate personal attack" on President Nixon.

Republican National Chairman Rogers C. B. Morton made the threat Wednesday night in a telegram to CBS president Frank Stanton. Morton attacked a program aired Tuesday night in which CBS gave Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien 25 minutes to respond to Nixon's recent hour-long TV interview.

Morton said CBS has "abandoned journalistic judgment and responsibility and has made no attempt to establish guidelines as to the format and content of this type of program.

"This show amounted to an unprecedented, inaccurate personal attack on the Presidentof the United States; yet your network promoted it as a 'public service'," Morton said.

He said the party was insisting on equal time to answer O'Brien and "if we do not receive your reply in 48 housr, appropriate legal action will be taken to require your compliance with the law —and to prevent further abuse of your responsibility to the public."

Morton also said there were ethical questions involved in CBS' giving O'Brien tapes of previous Nixon TV appearances to show and comment on, and both ethical and legal questions arise from "the placement of a paid political appeal for donations immediately following what was promoted by CBS as a public service program."

Morton's move came hours after a group of 14 senators filed a formal complaint with the Federal Communications Commission asking the FCC to order the three major networks to sell them air time to oppose Nixon's war policies.

Third New York Paper Ups Price

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Daily News will raise its price from 8 to 10 cents effective Thursday. The News, the nation's largest circulation daily, announced the increase Tueday. It blamed the rising cost of labor and materials.

Since labor negotiations began following the expiration of the contract between the four major city newspapers and their 13 unions on March 31, The New York Times and the Post have increased their prices to 15 cents.

The Long Island Press is the only one of the four that has not gone up.

THROUGH FOR THE NIGHT — Atlanta starter Phil Niekro, thoroughly dejected after San Francisco got five runs off him in the fifth inning last night, headed for the showers as manager Luman Harris waited for his replacement, Aubrey Gatewood. He proved no relief at all, giving up six more runs in that inning as the Giants rampaged to a 13-0 win. (UPI Telephoto)

Jim Hart Lets N.L. Know He's Back; Hits For Cycle

ATLANTA (UPI)—The trip from Phoenix back to San Francisco is longer than it looks when you take the baseball route and Jim Ray Hart was understandably keyed up about it.

After all, when you're 28 years old and been exiled to the minors for weak hitting after a half dozen years as a major leaguer, one is bound to be a bit nervous about how he'll perform when he returns.

AT THIRD

Hart got the good news Monday night while playing at Tucson, arrived in Atlanta Tuesday and played third base for the Giants Tuesday night.

He hit a couple of long flies, but went 0-for-4 and was openly concerned over whether that .317 he hit for Phoenix was a true sign that he was ready to attack major league pitching again.

"I've been nervous, real nervous," Hart confided Wednesday night. "Willie (Mays) calmed me down some—but that night I had calmed down even more." That night Hart referred to was his performance in the Giants' 13-0 Wednesday night victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Jim Ray tied a National League record by driving in six runs in one inning and had a total of seven RBIs as he hit for the cycle—homer, triple, double and single—before a tightening shoulder finally got him out.

SWEET

"Yes, that's the first time I've had a night like that anywhere, minors or majors," Hart said with a wide grin. "It was a lot sweeter since I'd been down and back.

"No one wants to go down but it turned out to be a good thing for me," Hart continued. "My shoulder was still bothering me and I needed to lose some weight.

"I feel fine now. The shoulder's okay. The pain's gone. It got a little stiff there in the sixth inning, but that's okay too. I hope I'm back to stay."

Giants manager Charley Fox hopes so too since he plans on Hart being his regular third baseman.

ON A TEAR

"We'd been planning to bring him back up ever since he started hitting again," Fox said. "He was on some sort of tear that last month at Phoenix. We were just waiting for him to get into shape."

Hart's hitting overshadowed a fine pitching performance by Gaylord Perry (13-8). Perry, with a five-hitter, turned in the first one-pitcher shutout the Ganots have had this season. It took three to get the only other one.

Tonight, in the windup of a four-game series, it will be Pat Jarvins (9-6) of the Braves vs. Juan Marichal (3-7).

Wednesday night, the Giants, leading 2-0 after four, had the biggest inning of the year in the National League and the biggest inning ever in Atlanta Stadium—11 runs.

TWINS SWEEP SERIES

Athletics Still Reeling

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Minnesota Twins are riding high today while the Oakland A's are wondering what hit them.

The Twins held on for an 8-6 victory over the A's Wednesday night to complete a sweep of their Oakland series and now go on against the California Angels, whom they lead by five games.

Ron Perranoski came to Jim Perry's rescue in the ninth Wednesday night just when the A's came to life and walked off with his 20th save of the season, tops in the majors.

'THE BEST'

Twins manager Bill Rigney calls Perranoski "the best (relief pitcher) in the business, right or left handed. It's a shame he's not on the all-star team," added the Minnesota skipper.

Perry, given a big batting hand by Tony Oliva, was credited with his 13th victory, tying him with Jim Hunter of the A's for most victories in the A.L. He bagged his 13th the same night brother Gaylord registered No. 13 for the San Francisco Giants.

A's manager Johnny McNamara was down after the Minnesota sweep but not out.

"We just couldn't make the big outs when we had to," said McNamara. "Now they (Twins) play the Angels while we play the Brewers. We just have to win and root for the Angels."

The A's trail Minnesota by 9 1-2 games and second place California by 4 1-2. Second place has no appeal for Oakland.

"We're after No. 1," said McNamara. "There still is a long way to go but now we're in a position where we just have to win and not worry about anyone else. I think we can if we put everything together."

What McNamara was referring to was the way the series with Minnesota went. In the first game the A's got good pitching from Diego Segui, only to lose, 2-1. In Wednesday's game, Hunter, who slipped to 13-6 simply didn't have it while the A's were scoring six runs.

Oliva was the man who did Oakland in Wednesday. He hit his 12th homer three singles and a sacrifice fly, drove in four runs and increased his batting average to .332. He figured in every Minnesota rally and seems to play better when Harmon Killebrew is out of the lineup.

Killebrew went home to Idaho for his father-in-law's funeral so Oliva made up for the slack.

Perranoski, as might be expected, was disappointed American League All Star Game manager Earl Weaver of the Baltimore Orioles picked nine starting pitchers instead of seven and two relievers as did Gil Hodges. The World Champion New York Mets skipper who will lead the National League in the 1970 classic at Cincinnati July 14.

"It's hard to pick nine pitchers for a game like this,"

JACK HANLEY

Stoneham Made Move Earlier Than Expected

ATLANTA — Horace Stoneham really isn't a complicated man ever though he often keeps his front office staff in Candlestick Park guessing. He enjoys teasing his staff into guessing contests on a forthcoming decision. He knows the suspense he creates but never would admit it.

Stoneham alternately can be a soft sentimentalist, hard realist, a showman but never a showboat because basically he is shy. The fact that he shuns showboating doesn't mean he isn't a showman.

He isn't the kind of showman comfortable with a microphone. Actually, he acts like an embarrassed schoolboy whenever he must appear before a mike. But he is a behind-the-scenes showman.

The entertainment Stoneham directs from behind-the-scenes is provided by his Giants. Everything he does is to enhance their public image. He knows that the Giants have done little this season to help themselves.

Action: A Switch In Managers

So from time to time he takes action, such as he did in May when he switched managers. The attitude of the team and the atmosphere in Candlestick changed with the change in managers. But the team went on losing just the same.

On the present trip of the team to Atlanta, Stoneham made another move. He appointed Jim Davenport a coach. He knew, as a competent behind-the-scenes showman should, that it would be a popular move.

Davenport always has been a warm favorite of Candlestick fans and those of old Seals Stadium. As one of the original Giants to play in the first major league game on the west coast April 15, 1958, Davenport immediately won the admiration of fans for his smooth work on the hot corner.

Davenport was a Golden Glove third baseman right from the start. Through 12 seasons his wizardry never diminished but age finally caught up with his legs. He no longer could make cat-like moves to left or right. Nobody doubted that this would be Davenport's last year on the active roster.

Had To Keep Davenport In Fold

As a sentimentalist, Stoneham knew he could never let Davenport out of the Giant organization. As a realist, he knew Davenport's appointment as a coach would be well received by Giant fans. Stoneham had planned to make the appointment at the end of the season.

Then, Stoneham, the showman, had second thoughts. Why not right now? In announcing his appointment of Davenport as coach while the team was flying to Atlanta, Stoneham double-barreled his announcement.

Jim Ray Hart would be summoned from his temporary exile to the Phoenix farm club. Hart would take Davenport's place on the active roster.

Thus, Stoneham gave Candlestick fans something to look forward to — Davenport in a coaching box, Hart once again swinging for home runs.

Hart, down to a respectable 193 playing weight after ballooning 10 pounds overweight during the winter, will have to do remarkable things with his bat to move Alan Gallagher off third base. Gallagher has that job now in the rebuilding job of the Giants who are preparing for the future with youth.

Rain, Low Scores In Britain

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI)—Three bogies over the last five holes ruined Tony Jacklin's hopes of a record-busting score when the first round of the British Open golf championship resumed today on the sodden St. Andrews Old Course.

The British and U.S. Open champion, chasing overnight leader and Ryder Cup teammate Neil Coles' record 65, could not combat the changed conditions. He wound up with a 67.

THEN THE RAIN

Jacklin was eight under after 13 holes when Wednesday's torrential rains washed out play for the day with 38 of the 134 entries still out on the course.

The 26-year-old Briton resumed early this morning in steady rain. He had to pick up under penalty on the 14th where his last shot Wednesday afternoon had finished under a bush, to take a bogey six. Even par for the remainder would have put him even with Coles but he dropped strokes on the 16th and 17th.

DISAPPOINTED

"I'm very disappointed. In fact if I said what I really felt it would not be quotable" Jacklin said. "Wearing my oilskins today, I just couldn't feel the clubs and all this rain has made the course much more difficult."

His five under 67 placed the defending champion in a five-way tie for third spot behind Coles and Channel Islander Tommy Horton, who temporarily held the lead Wednesday with his record-equalling round on a day when the historic old course was torn apart with a succession of sub-par rounds.

67s, 68s

The others at 67 after the first round are Florentino Molina of Argentina, South African Harold Henning and Britons John Richardson and Maurice Bembridge.

Pre-tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Peter Thomson—a trio who have won the title eight times between them—were making a log-jam on 68 which was joined today by 1968 U.S. Open winner Lee Trevino, Tommy Aaron and Guy Wolstenholme of Australia.

The others to card 68's Wednesday were Doug Sanders and Briton Brian Huggett.

Pirates Leading Division

The Drake Pirates today are in sole possession of first place in the Southern division of the Marin County Joe DiMaggio baseball league.

Last night they defeated Holiday Magic, 8-4, while the Mill Valley Chiefs, with whom they had been tied at six wins and two losses, were bombed by Annex Motors, 20-1.

TERRA LINDA

North leader Terra Linda stayed a half game in front of Annex by defeating Toby's Truckers, 15-3.

Drake erupted for five runs in the seventh inning in their come-from-behind-win. John Billings' single with the bases loaded sparked the rally. Bob Urquhart had three hits for Holiday Magic.

Gary Conklin doubled and singled and drove in five runs in Annex Motors' rout. Randy Jackson went the distance for the win, allowing only three hits and striking out 10.

TWO DOUBLES

The only bright spot in the Chiefs' lineup was Clifford Hall, who belted a pair of doubles.

Jerry Seefeldt drove in five runs with two doubles and a single as Terra Linda waltzed past Toby's, scoring eight times in the first inning. Tom Olson got the Marin Catholic team on the scoreboard with a solo home run in the sixth.

Clay Shows Disappointment When Exhibition Canceled

CHARLESTON S. C. (UPI)—Cassius Clay has lived with disappointment so many times he has learned to conceal it. Yet sometimes it shows.

The 28-year old deposed champion came to town to box a six-round charity exhibition against England's Joe Bugner and Jeff Merritt of Miami in the Charleston County Hall Thursday night. However, the Charleston County council denied him permission to use the auditorium.

After a frantic search for another site, Clay's hopes for returning to the ring for the first time in more than three years came to an end on the muddy infield of the Charleston Speedway Wednesday when promoter Reggie Barrett couldn't come up with an $800 advance payment to rent the quarter mile jalopy track three miles outside of town.

"I didn't think I was gonna get to box when I came here" Clay said as he got ready to go back to New York, "but the promoter told me everything was set so I agreed to come down. I know by now there is not a promoter anywhere who can get permission for me to fight legally."

"I had the site," said Barrett, who had hoped to raise money for a local amateur boxing league, "but all my funds are gone. I don't have enough time and I don't have enough money. I have to sue the county council and everybody else responsible."

"I don't care that I didn't get a chance to fight," Clay added, "because if fighting was important to me I could just go down to any gym and fight as much as I want. All this scuffling around was humiliating and insulting, but the real losers are the youth who were going to get the money from the show."

When Clay returned to his motel he was surrounded by neighborhood children, who laughed and played with him, and their parents, who voiced their anger over the cancellation.

"If this bout don't come off," one man in bluejeans said, "it't gonna be the start of a hot summer."

"It's not good here, but it has been getting better all the time," said a woman in the crowd who worked in a neighborhood improvement association. "This is just another setback."

The exhibition was expected to be a tuneup for a bout between Clay, who was deposed as champion when he refused to be inducted into the army in 1967, and Joe Frazier, his successor. The Clay-Frazier bout is planned for Detroit in September, unless it also runs into difficulty. The Michigan boxing commission is in favor of the bout and Clay has consented, but Frazier has not yet agreed.

Murphy Revising TV Sports Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California Assemblyman Frank Murphy Jr., R-Santa Cruz, is determined to force the Oakland Raiders to televise their expected sell-out home game with the San Francisco 49ers Dec. 20.

Murphy revealed Wednesday he is revising his televised sports tax bill to levy a $2 head tax on the Raiders for every fan attending the game, if it's not televised. The head tax would apply to every sold-out game involving two California teams.

10 Swimmers From Marin In Big Santa Clara Meet

Ten Marin County swimmers will be in the star-studded field for this weekend's fourth annual Santa Clara International Invitationals at the Santa Clara International Swim Center.

Among the five world record holders and 14 Olympic medal winners who will compete in the meet, which ranks in stature alongside the Olympics and the United States Senior Nationals, are some of the greatest swimmers in the world.

Dave Edgar of Florida, the fastest swimmer in history, Mark Spitz, Gary Hall and diver Jim Henry of Indiana's NCAA championship team, and fabulous Debbie Meyer from Arden Hills (Sacramento) are some of the headliners for this prestigious event, which will draw swimmers from perhaps a dozen foreign countries.

The Marin contingent will be led by Jo Hislop and Denise Ham of the Marin Aquatic Club, and by Robin Bachrach of the Dolphins of Marin. All three have already qualified for the senior nationals next month in Los Angeles.

Jo has qualified nationally in the 100 freestyle, which she will swim this weekend along with the 200 free, 100 and 200 backstroke and 200 individual medley.

Denise, a national qualifier in the 200 butterfly and the 200 I.M., will also compete in the 100 fly, the 200 breaststroke and the 400 I.M.

Robin will swim in the 200 fly and the 200 I.M. She qualified for the nationals in both events last week in Hawaii.

Only one boy from Marin will compete, Dennis Glass of the Dolphins of Marin, who will swim in the 200 breast.

The Tamalpais Swim Club will have two entries, twin sisters Ginger and Pixie Massey. The other Marin entries, all from Marin Aquatic Club, are Kimi Fox, Kathi Hislop, Anne Engel and Joan Morehouse.

The relay team of Hislop, Hislop, Ham and Engel has turned in a 4:18.8 in the 400 free, eight-tenths of a second off the time needed to qualify for the nationals.

Relievers Again Left Off All-Star Roster

BOSTON (UPI) — American League relief pitchers still aren't being given All-Star recognition but at least they have an apology for being slighted again in the selections.

Earl Weaver, manager of the defending champion Baltimore Orioles and the 1970 AL All-Star team, issued the apology through league headquarters Wednesday after naming nine pitchers, all of them starters, for the July 14 confrontation with the National League in Cincinnati.

Noting that he was compelled to name at least one player from each of the 12 American League Clubs, Weaver singled out seven relief pitchers as particularly deserving but said he still had to go with nine of the league's ranking starters in making his 1970 selections.

Weaver's selection of nine pitchers included three members of his own team with 33 victories among them at the time he made the choice. Thus Dave McNally, Jim Palmer and Mike Cuellar make up one third of the mound staff the American League will use in a bid to break the National League's seven-year domination of the mid-season All-Star games.

Other selections included star game veterans Sam McDowell of Cleveland, and Mel Stottlemyre of New York, Jim Hunter of Oakland, Jim Perry of Minnesota and first time choices Clyde Wright of California and Fritz Peterson of the Yankees.

"I have not and did not select any relievers on the grounds that if we selected one, there would be five or six that are qualified to be placed in the same category," Weaver's statement said.

He then named Eddie Watt and Pete Richert of Baltimore, Ron Perranoski of Minnesota, Darold Knowles of Washington, Ken Tatum of California and both Lindy McDaniel and Jack Aker of the Yankees as the top relief choices—if he could pick them.

BOCCABELLA'S HIT WINS FOR EXPOS

Former Marin Catholic High School star John Boccabella drove in two runs with a bases loaded pinch single to give the Montreal Expos a come-from-behind 5-4 victory over Chicago in the second game of a doubleheader yesterday. The Cubs won the opener, 5-1 on two run homers by Ron Santo and Billy Williams.

Boccabella's decisive hit scored Ron Brand and Gary Sutherland with Montreal's final runs in the seventh inning.

In the opener Milt Pappas scattered seven hits for his fourth win of the season and his second with the Cubs.

said Perranoski. "But I really think they should have picked two relievers, one right handed and one left handed, not to pitch three innings or even one, but to maybe go in there for one hitter in a key spot.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Familiar Scene To Lindy

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Philadelphia shutout Pittsburgh 2-0, Los Angeles edged 6-5, San Francisco bombed Atlanta 13-0, San Diego surprised Cincinnati 3-1, and Chicago split a doubleheader with Montreal with the Cubs winning the opener 5-1, and the Expos taking the nightcap 5-4.

Somehow, the scene seemed all to familiar to Lindy McDaniel.

McDaniel, the ace of the New York Yankees relief pitching corps, faced the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night with the bases loaded, nobody out and the Yanks holding an 8-7 lead in the ninth inning. The previous evening, McDaniel served up a bases loaded homer to Brooks Robinson in the 10th inning which gave the Orioles a 6-2 victory.

This time, however, McDaniel seemed about to work his way out of danger as he struck out Terry Crowley and Ellie Hendricks and got two quick strikes on Don Buford. But McDaniel made his 0-2 pitch just a little too good and Buford singled to right, scoring pinch runner Bob Gritch and Dave Johnson with the trying and winning runs as the Orioles pulled out a 9-8 triumph.

CLOSE PLAY

Johnson barely beat rightfielder Jim Lyttle's throw home with a head first slide, enabling Baltimore to increase its lead in the American League's East Division to seven games and dropping the Yankees to third place behind Detroit.

Johnson said he couldn't remember ever running any harder on a play and added his head first slide "wasn't a grandstand play but only a move in which I could better avoid a tag." Yankee catcher Thurman Munson, who made a diving attempt to tag Johnson, lay sprawled in the dirt for a full minute after the game ended—a picture of frustration.

In other AL games, Detroit edged Boston 3-2, Minnesota beat Oakland 8-6, Cleveland shaded Washington 6-5, California got by Kansas City 3-2, and Chicago downed Milwaukee 2-1.

In the National League, New York beat St. Louis 7-5, had the feeling he had been there before. Monson also homered for the Yanks while Buford and Boog Powell connected for the Orioles in the free swinging affair.

TIGERS SECOND

Pinch-hitter Gates Brown delivered a bases loaded sacrifice fly with one out in the ninth to help Detroit past Boston and into second place. Mickey Lolich went the distance for the Tigers to gain his seventh win but only his first since May 29. Willie Horton slugged his 16th homer for Detroit and Ken Szcotkiewicz ripped his third.

Second place California kept pace with the Twins as Jim Fregosi, who had a double and two singles, scored the winning run in the ninth as the Angels beat Kansas City. Fregosi tallied from third base when he beat the throw home from second baseman Cookie Rojas who had fielded a grounder by Ken McMullen. Reliever Ken Tatum got the win while Ted Abernathy took the loss.

Buddy Bradford's first major league grand slam homer capped a five run eighth inning for Cleveland as the Indians rallied to beat the Senators. Bradford's blow came off ace reliever Darold Knowles and provided Phil Hennigan with the win.

Carlos May singled home the deciding run in the eighth and Tommy John allowed only five hits as Chicago beat Milwaukee. The victory upped John's record to 6-12 while Al Downing suffered his sixth loss in nine decisions. Despite the triumph, Chicago remained in last place in the West, one game behind Milwaukee.

Niekro walked Ken Henderson for the third straight time, then was tagged for four straight hits: singles by Willie McCovey and Dietz, a three-run homer by Hart and a single by Frank Johnson.

In came reliefer Aubrey Gatewood. Hal Lanier singled, Perry grounded out, Bobby Bonds singled, Gatewood hit Hunt, Rico Carty ran into Sonny Jackson on Willie Mays' fly ball for a two-run error, McCovey and Dietz walked and Hart hit a three-run triple.

Hart, who was averaging 28 homers and .284 a season before last year, hit only three homers and .254 in '69 while plagued by injuries.

"I hope that's all behind me now," he said. "I don't need any more trips to Phoenix."

ARE YOU AFRAID TO TAKE YOUR CAR ON A LONG TRIP?

If you have reservations about your car's ability to stand the strain of a vacation, we can confirm them for you.

There were 72 million emergency road service calls in 1967 alone.

(More recent figures, while unavailable, will probably be even worse.)

This is not meant to talk you out of a trip. It's meant to talk you into a Volvo.

Volvos are built to stay on the road. That's why you so rarely see one beside it.

Although we don't guarantee it, Volvos are built so well that 9 out of every 10 registered here in the last eleven years are still on the road.

If this alone isn't enough to make you feel at ease, other Volvo features will.

Like more front legroom than a Cadillac. More trunk space than a Lincoln. And, according to Automotive World, "one of the two or three rear seats in the world where you can be truly comfortable."

Finally, there's the Volvo speedometer. It counts up 999,999 miles before flipping back to zero.

How long a trip did you want to take?

Water Skiers: Healthy Side Of The Young Generation

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Soft drink ads show young, healthy members of the younger generation downing bottle after bottle of their products.

But you sometimes get the feeling that these young people don't really exist, that young people today are just those straggly-haired hippies you pass on the highway, those lost souls with hair down and thumbs out.

Then you run across some world class water skiers and you think they have just stepped out of one of those soft drink ads. They're well-tanned, no fat, and look the picture of health.

20 STARS

There will be 20 of these types at Berkeley's Aquatic Park July 18-19 at the California World Cup tournament, first international invitational tourney held on the west coast.

Chief promoter of the tourney, which draws top skiers from the United States, Australia, Spain, Mexico, Canada, Colombia and Argentina, is Jaap Suyderhoud of San Anselmo, father of the best water skier in the world.

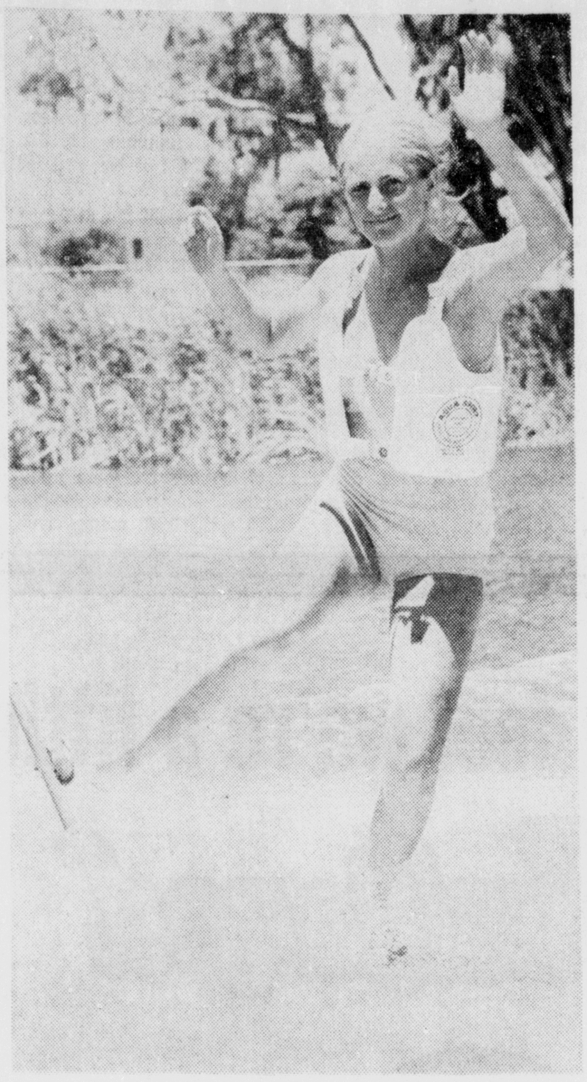
Jaap's son, Mike, current holder of the world water ski title, will be among the competitors in the extravaganza on water.

Another is Kaye Thurlow of Australia, a 19-year-old blonde beauty who is staying as a guest at the Suyderhoud home during her stay here. She is current women's champion of Australia.

VICTORIA

Miss Thurlow, whose father is owner of a wallboard manufacturing company in Bendigo, Victoria, has been water skiing since she was 12. Like other young Australians, she played tennis as a youngster, but then water skiing pushed tennis to the background.

The 5-foot-4 Miss Thurlow is one of only four women to jump 100 feet off a five-foot ramp, one of the three water ski specialties. She was fourth in the World Tournament, finishing third in tricks, second in jumping and seventh in slalom.



LOOK! NO HANDS — Kaye Thurlow, Australian Women's water ski champ, will be among the international stars at the World Cup tournament at Berkeley's Aquatic Park.

As for her chances against the field in the Berkeley meet, the competition is going to be very tough with the likes of Americans Christy Lynn Weir and Lisa St. John going against her.

"But I'm sure going to try to win," Kaye said in that very Aussie accent.

Sharoin Boive of Novato will be among the six women competing.

In men's action, Suyderhoud is rated the man to beat, but the field includes 14 other top international skiing stars. Among them are Andres Botero of Colombia and Victor Palomo of Spain.

The World Cup will have a certified World Water Ski Union slalom course and a recognized world slalom record could be established during the two-day meet. Suyderhoud, who already held the jump record at 162 feet, just recently set the world slalom record of two buoys at 36 miles per hour with 31 feet off the rope.

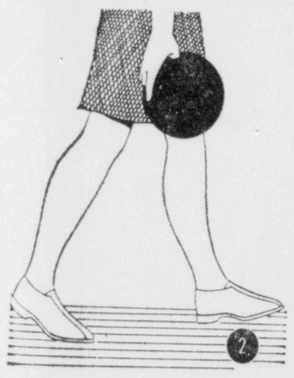
Two rounds of competition will be held in each event, one round Saturday and the other on Sunday, with the total points used to determine the winners. Suyderhoud is favored to take the overall crown in men's competition, while Miss Weir, second overall in the world championships, is famored to win the womens title.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Ernie Lopez, 150, Pasadena, Calif., stopped Manuel Avitia, 148½, San Jose, Calif. (8). Angel Mayoral, 134, San Diego, outpointed Veto Maldonado, 134, Los Angeles (10).

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



If your swing is well-timed, the ball should reach the bottom of its arc at the finish of the second step. If the ball is past this position, your footwork is slow. And if it hasn't dropped that far, you're moving your feet too quickly. Have someone check you out on this.

Minter Files Sears Point Race Entry

Milt Minter, winner of the Trans Am Championships last Sunday at Brainerd, Minn., filed entry for this weekend's Sonoma Summersport National Championship Sport Car Races at Sears Point International Raceway.

The rugged Santa Susana driver will handle a Porsche Carrera in the two day Sports Car Club of America meet sponsored by the San Francisco Junior Chamber of Commerce.

A veteran Porsche driver Minter has competed in many major U.S. races under Porsche team banners.

His victory at Brainerd Sunday at the helm of a Camaro was one of racings big upsets of 1970. One of the few private entries in the Trans Am series Minter beat team efforts of American Motors with Mark Donohue, Mustang with George Follmer at the helm, and Plymouth headed by Swede Savage.

Minter's entry brings the field for Sears Point to more than 300. The two days of racing calls for practice and qualifying Saturday and Sunday at 10 a.m. Race action begins both days at 2:30 p.m.

Tickets are now on sale for the Summersport at Macy's, Sears and Ticketron offices throughout the Bay Area.

Double Aces At Meadow

Meadow Club of Fairfax stole a page from "Believe It or Not" this week as two holes-in-one were recorded on the 172-yard fifth hole there. Tom Schall played a four-iron for an ace last Saturday, and Bob Lee used a three wood to duplicate the feat on Tuesday.

Dr. Hal White, Jim Dixon and Bill Gurge finished 1-2-3 in the Meadow Club's Flag Tournament on the Fourth of July.

JAY HARALSON came within two feet of the 19th hole to win Indian Valley's Flag Tourney in Novato, also on the Fourth.

Rohnert Park's second annual Delayed Firecracker Tournament will be held on Sunday. More than 40 players are expected to compete in the low net, full handicap affair.

Committee Sends Consumer Bills To Interim Study

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill that would have permitted creation of county offices of consumer affairs has been buried by the Senate Business and Professions Committee.

The author of the bill, Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, said it was sent to interim study along with a host of other consumer bills. He said the committee promised to take a look at the whole field of consumer affairs after the end of the current legislative session.

Another consumer bill by McCarthy, one that would have excluded the weight of juices from the net weight of packaged poultry, fish and meat, was dropped in the agriculture committee. The bill never was heard, McCarthy said.

New Joe's Is Sold To Chain

New Joe's restaurant in San Francisco, founded in 1927 by Peter S. Arigoni of Fairfax, has been sold to a Burlingame chain, Hamburger Dens, and opened yesterday under new management.

New Joe's made famous a sandwich known as Joe's special — hamburger meat, spinach, eggs and onions tossed in a skillet — and was known for its hamburgers on French bread. The new owners were expected to leave the menu, name and operating hours unchanged.

Arigoni and Joseph Ingrassia of Fairfax, a partner since 1947, plan to retire. A third partner, Lorenzo DiBene of San Francisco, who worked at New Joe's since 1927 and became a partner in 1936, planned to open a similar restaurant in another area.

Case Bound Over

Archie Clark Smith has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of possessing marijuana in his Sausalito hotel room April 13. He is to appear in court Mondy for arraignment.

RECORD CAMPAIGN EXPENSES

Behr Spends $84,688 In Primary Contest

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Peter H. Behr, winner of the Republican primary election last month in the Fourth Senatorial District, spent $84,688 in his campaign — more than any other candidate for the California Legislature.

Only about two dozen of the hundreds of candidates for the 100 contested state legislative seats reported spending more than $20,000, and most of these spent less than $40,000.

Adding candidates for the U. S. House of Representatives, only one spent more than Behr. He was Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., R-11th District, who spent $92,576 winning his nomination.

Behr's campaign was the most expensive in Marin County's political history.

Behr's figures were reported under the state law requiring all candidates to file details on contributors and expenses. The deadline to file was Tuesday night, and only a few candidates failed to file.

Failure to file can be a misdemeanor or a felony, but willful violation of the law must be proved in the latter case. As a practical matter, no one is prosecuted for violating campaign reporting laws.

Candidates who fail to file campaign statements, however, cannot take office if they win the general election — at least until they go to court and get an extension of the deadline so they can file belatedly. Courts grant such extensions routinely.

Behr reported a total of $68,525 in contributions, including $13,000 of his own money, thus leaving a deficit of $16,163.

He listed the names of more than 600 contributors, but did not report any new contributions of more than $500 since May.

Under a 1969 state law, contributions over $500 must be reported both before and after elections.

The $55,525 Behr reported as campaign income from others included $46,675 in contributions and $8,850 in loans.

In May, Behr reported having received $13,700 in contributions and loans from 10 persons: Leland H. Jordan, $2,350; George W. Wheelwright, $2,000; Fred Drexler Jr., $2,000; Alexander R. Imlay, $2,000; Philip J. McCoy, $1,050; Craig Wallace, $1,000; Dean N. Meyer, $1,000; Edward S. Bullard Jr., $1,000; William M. Spencer, $700, and William S. Picher, $600.

Two of the three candidates defeated by Behr, Don Pinkerton and Hugh O. Pessner, also filed statements. The fourth, Raymond H. Shone, did not file.

Pinkerton reported contributions totaling $10,360, none over $500, plus $2,600 of his own money for a total income of $12,960. He spent $12,927.

Pessner got $2,376 in contributions, and added $243 of his own money to cover expenses totaling $2,620.

Behr's Democratic opponent, Michael Peevey, reported contributions of $7,813, and expenses of $4,543. He reported receiving a $1,250 contribution from the Committee on Political Education of the AFL-CIO. Peevey was uncontested in the primary.

Anne Smart, the American Independent Party nominee for the Senate, reported $211 in contributions and $44 in her own money to cover expenses of $255.

In the Seventh Assembly District, Republican incumbent William T. Bagley reported contributions of $1,570 and expenses limited to the $192 fee to file for the primary. He listed no contributions over $500.

His contributors included Sears, Roebuck and Co. and Leonard M. Sperry Jr. of Belvedere, a prominent Democrat.

Bagley's Democratic opponent, also unchallenged in the primary, Joseph A. Forest, filed a statement with the county elections office that he had received no contributions over $500. He did not file the required statement with the Secretary of State on campaign income and expenses.

The American Independent Party nominee for the Assembly seat, Glenn A. Bernd, reported contributions and expenses at $472.

In the Sixth Congressional District, incumbent Republican William S. Mailliard reported $15,388 in contributions and $9,247 in expenses. Neither Democratic candidate, winner Russell R. Miller or Zaide Kirtley, filed the required statements in Sacramento.

In the First Congressional District, incumbent Republican Don H. Clausen reported a $5,074 contribution from his campaign committee, and expenses in the same amount.

His Democratic opponent, Dr. William M. Kortum, reported $1,177 in contributions and $711 in expenses.

In the State Board of Equalization race for the Republican nomination, winner Ernest N. Kettenhofen reported campaign expenses totaling $30,394 in a statement filed at the county elections office. But he failed to file in Sacramento the required statement on contributions.

In statements filed by other Republicans in the race, Raymond E. Paschke got $3,337 in contributions and added $3,466 to cover expenses of $6,803. Robert H. Smith got $605 and added $1,075 for $1,680 in expenses. Charles N. Hamilton got $822, and added $463 of his own for $1,285 in expenses.

Sesto F. Lucchi got $120 and put in $631 of his own for $751 in expenses. John M. Mayfield Jr. got $13,636 in contributions and spent $6,387 of his own for a total of $20,023. Lowell S. Mengell II got $498 and spent $95 of his own for a total of $593.

William M. Bennett, winner of the Democratic nomination for the board seat, reported $1,675 in contributions, including $1,000 from the Teamsters. He also put in $300 of his own money, and spent a total of $1,357.

John C. Williamson got $2,049 and added $2,810 of his own for $4,859 in expenses. Henry R. Tweith got $2,480 and added $1.200 of his own to cover $3,483 in expenses.

No statements were filed by Republicans Robert E. Mihalisin, George R. O'Connor, E. Paul Rogers and Kettenhofen, Democrat Harry F. Sublett, or by the American Independent Party candidate, Teresa E. Montara.

E. Warren McGuire, Marin Superior Court judge seeking reelection unopposed, reported spending $318 —the filing fee for nomination.

Reagan Spends More Than Unruh In Race

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan, who faced no opposition for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, spent nearly three times as much as Assemblyman Jess Unruh in the June primary election race, according to official state records.

In campaign finance statements on file Wednesday with Secretary of State H. P. Sullivan, Reagan reported contributions of more than $1.2 million. He listed spending at $860,000.

Unruh, who won the Democratic nomination over Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, reported receiving $383,000 and spending $320,000. He said he spent nothing for broadcast advertising.

Republican Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke listed $66,399 in contributions in his unopposed campaign for the GOP nomination. He spent $79,138.

Portions of Reinecke's statement were received late, however, and Sullivan said the lieutenant governor is obtaining a court order to have them accepted. Filings of some other nominees appeared incomplete.

Sen. Alfred E. Alquist of San Jose received $22,841 in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor. He listed expenditures of $22,888.

In the race for the U.S. Senate, Republican incumbent George Murphy reported contributions totaling $573,530 and spent $548,075 to defeat multimillionaire industrialist Norton Simon. Simon's statement was not received by the filing deadline midnight Tuesday.

Rep. John Tunney, Democratic nominee for the Senate, said his primary campaign cost $568,180. He said he received only $476,004 in cash plus several thousands in loans.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Max Rafferty listed $185,929 in contributions and expenditures totaling $182,000 in his campaign for reelection. Rafferty faces a runoff challenge in November for the nonpartisan post from Wilson Riles.

Riles reported receipts of $75,659 and expenditures totaling $72,893.

Edmund G. Brown Jr., son of the former governor, winner of the Democratic nod for Secretary of State, said he received $63,228, including a $5,000 contribution from his father. He listed spending at $52,609.

James Flournoy, GOP Secretary of State nominee, filed a statement showing he received $9,026 in contributions and spent $8,824.

Los Angeles District Attorney Evelle J. Younger, GOP candidate for attorney general, reported receipts of $528,000. His spending totaled $530,000.

Deputy Attorney General Charles O'Brien, who won the Democratic nomination, listed campaign contributions of $145,700. He spent $154,000.

State Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest listed expenses of $8,747 and receipts of $870 in her unopposed campaign for the Republican nomination. Milton G. Gordon, who won the Democratic nomination, received $14,400 and spent $12,000.

Republican State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, also unopposed, spent $24,000 of his contributions totaling $132,000 for renomination.

Flournoy's Democratic opponent, Ronald G. Cameron, listed primary race expenses of $5,500, the sum he said he received.

Tate Trial Jury Choice Drags On

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Jury selection in the Tate-LaBianca murder trial, already in its fourth week, may take another month, according to the prosecution.

Deputy District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi said Wednesday the selection was continuing "slowly and tediously" in the chambers of Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older.

During the session another 11 prospective jurors were excused because of the influence of pre-trial publicity or because of hardship imposed by the expected length of the trial, which is about six months.
